Dogs, Beef, Pork.
Turks Would Be Turks.
What We Need.
Print Bonds, or Money?
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MOHAMMEDANS are fighting Hindus in India as usual. Mohammedans cooked some beef, which horrified Hindus, by whom the cow and all its relations are held sacred.

War started, a village was burned, and a Sikh officer in the British service was burned alive.

Then Mohammedans threw the beef into Hindu temples. The Hindus, for revenge, threw dead dogs into the Mohammedan mosques, greatest insult you can offer a Mohammedan.

Hindus won't eat beef. Mohammedans won't eat pork. Englishmen eat both and rule Mohammedans and Hindus.

MADAME EDIB, Turkish lady, tells the Ethical Culture Society that Turks don't like Kemal Pasha's methods. He is Europeanizing Turkey too suddenly, and Turks are determined to remain Turks.

Kemal follows the methods of Peter the Great, who found himself ruler of Russia, an Asiatic country, and made it European.

The Russians wanted to remain Russians, but he wouldn't let them, and compelled even old men to cut off their long beards. Some said that was because he could not grow a good beard of his own.

The old Russians saved their beards, and were buried with them, to prove to the angel Gabriel that they had not cut them off voluntarily.

A BIG NEW YORK bank that shut down, with its many branches reveals, recently, it lent tens of millions without security. Some of its own directors were among those that borrowed so pleasantly.

The late Vice President Marshall said:

What is needs now seems to be honest local government, including banking supervisors, magistrates and others.

New York, like other states, has bank examiners, but needs somebody to examine the bank examiners.

MR. MITCHELL, chairman of the New York National City Bank, tells Congress that payment of the soldiers' bonus amounting to nearly four thousand million dollars would cause "hundreds of small bank failures." Issuing so many government bonds would knock down existing bond prices, not only national but municipal, state and industrial.

The worst of the statement is that it is probably true.

It is suggested in Washington that a compromise can be reached, President Hoover consenting to a bond issue that would pay one-half instead of all the soldiers' bonus.

IT IS FINANCIAL anarchy and worse to suggest it, but why must the government print bonds, and sell them at prices acceptable to investors and thus cheapen the value of all existing bonds?.

Why not let the Federal Reserve print money, perfectly good currency, hand it to the soldiers and say: "Go ahead and spend it and increase prosperity." We need more chips in our national game and those chips are money.

The government would have no interest to pay on such currency. Prosperity undoubtedly would feel better. Soldiers would have their money and the government certainly is good for three and a half billions or ten times that. It could cut down the amount of currency outstanding when convenient.

WITH MANY people looking for work, and food, the government worrying about money to pay the soldiers, there is a glut of money in Wall street. About 500 millions will be paid out in the next few days, more than 400 millions will be looking for reinvestment, and yesterday $100,000,000 could not be lent, even at one and a half per cent. No borrowers.

So-called financiers really know as little about money as sailors know about the wind, which "bloweth where it listeth."

THE Nation Belge in Brussels, has solved mysterious deaths that followed a heavy fog in the Meuse Valley last December.

Lungs of the dead were eaten out by breathing a sulphurous anhydride. Sulphurous fumes, from a chemical factory, combined with the fog to form an acid that destroyed the lung cells

It is some comfort to know that the cause of death is established, and can be controlled.

AT LUNENBERG, Nova Scotia, Capt. Cluett, commander of a British rum runner, killed by United States coast guards, was buried yesterday.

The Rev. Maj. Ryder, British, officiating at the funeral, said the captain's death was "nothing more or less than murder on the high seas, one of the inevitable tragedies that follow the hypocrisy of prohibition." The reverend gentleman declared that the captain was only "supplying commodities demanded by the people of the United States."

An American captain might try to run through the British customs lines to supply commodities, untaxed, demanded by

OAKLAND GETS TOWN HALL

GOV. PINCHOT ASKS HUGE JOB FUND

Budget Seeks Largest Road Program Ever Undertaken; Urges Auto License Fee Cut

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today recommended to the Pennsylvania General Assembly a road program which he described as the largest undertaking ever contemplated by any highway department on earth.

The recommendation was made by the Governor in submitting his estimated budget of $347,425,251 as the cost of operating the state government from June 1, 1931 to May 31, 1933.

Addressing a joint session of State Senate and House assembled to hear the budget figures, Gov. Pinchot declared:

"If you see fit to approve this program for rural roads, it will be the largest, most comprehensive and most important step in road construction ever undertaken at one time to my knowledge by any state or by any nation in the world."

RELIEF UPPERMOST

Gov. Pinchot said that relief of unemployment had been uppermost in his mind in preparing the budget and that as large a part of available funds as possible had been thrown toward planned con-

NICOLA SITE SELECTED, M'GOVERN ASSAILS $1,120,000 PRICE

The Nicola site, in Oakland, was chosen for a Town Hall by the county commissioners today by a vote of two to one.

Final action, after months of discussion, came when Commissioner E. V. Babcock moved to buy the Nicola property at a price not to exceed $8 a square foot.

This location was the choice of the County Planning Commission.

Chairman J. G. Armstrong, hesitating momentarily, seconded the motion, which assured its adoption.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern opposed the proposal and objected to the price as exorbitant.

The vote was then taken and resulted in Babcock and Armstrong voting for acquisition of the Nicola site and McGovern voting "No."

The Nicola site embraces 140,000 square feet, making the total site cost not more than $1,120,000. The bond issue set up for the entire project is $6,000,000. Nicola previously had asked $10 a square foot.

The site offered by the Schenley Farms Company, of which F. F. Nicola is president, fronts 239 feet on Fifth avenue, between Ruskin and Tennyson avenues, in the heart of the Oakland district. It is 589 feet deep on both lines, extending through to Bigelow boulevard at the rear.

ENTIRE SQUARE

The property includes the entire square just east of the Masonic Temple, and faces University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning.

Mr. Nicola recently offered to build a hall on the ground at a cost of $6,000,000 which would seat more than 10,000 persons and have large space for exhibition purposes. This would compare favorably with the public auditorium in Cleveland.

Before a crowd that packed the commissioners' office, Babcock moved to buy the Nicola site which he had done, ineffectually, some weeks ago. At that time his move failed for want of a second.

Today Babcock, reviewed the Town Hall project, and sketched the advantages which he said attached to the Nicola site, picturing it as adding to the renown of Pittsburgh's civic center. He declared that neither he nor Armstrong was actuated by "political expediency."

PLANS OFFERED

Nicola himself made a 15-minute speech telling of the advantages of his land.

He also submitted an architect's drawing of the proposed town hall which he said he himself would build if given the contract. The building contract will be taken up later, the commissioners agreed.

Nicola made no reference to his prior price of $10 a square foot.

P. S. C. QUIZ BILL PASSES HOUSE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The Lower House of the State Legislature today passed the Moore concurrent resolution to investigate the Public Service Commission by a vote of 121 to 70, following a prolonged fight to delay action. It was Gov. Pinchot's first legislative victory.

The measure now goes to the Senate for concurrence.

Meanwhile in a move to confine the proposed investigation of the Public Service Commission strictly to the Upper House, Senator Earnest, Dauphin, today introduced a new resolution embodying that plan.

Military School Head Pleads for Butler

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Col. Frank K. Hyatt, president and commandant of Pennsylvania Military College, today made public a letter to President Hoover containing a plea that the order for the court-martial of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler be rescinded and that clemency be granted the Marine officer.

Maj. Gen. Butler was granted the honorary degree of Master of Military Science in 1924 by the college.

OXYGEN FAILS TO SAVE BABY

Death won the grim battle fought today by Hays police, working in three-hour shifts to save Irma Jean, 17-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Orbinger. The child died at 12:20 this afternoon.

The child became slightly ill early last week. A relapse was suffered Wednesday, and pneumonia developed in one lung. Saturday both lungs were affected, and yesterday police were called to administer oxygen as a last resort.

The Orbingers have another baby, two months old.

12 Killed in Blast on British Submarine

CHATHAM, Eng., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Twelve men were injured, two critically, today when an explosion wrecked the internal combustion engine of the submarine X-1, one of the largest undersea boats in the British navy.

Quakes, Tidal Wave, Fire Raze Two Cities; Death Toll Placed at 126

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 4. — (INS.) — (Wednesday, 3 a. m.)—At least 126 persons were known to have lost their lives and more than 1,000 were injured in a disastrous earthquake which devastated the city of Napier and rocked half of North Island, New Zealand, yesterday.

All buildings in the community of Wairoa on North Island were demolished and roads in that vicinity obliterated by another violent earth shock today, according to messages received here.

A check-up of the casualties almost 24 hours after the first temblor, which was followed by tidal waves and landslides, showed more than 100 dead in Napier, 26 known dead in Hastings and several others in various cities of the island.

HOMES DEMOLISHED

In Napier alone, 1,000 were injured by the quake, which demolished hundreds of homes and buildings. Early this morning, fires were still raging throughout the city. Special detachments of fire fighters flew over the city in light planes, dropping sticks of dynamite into standing buildings to prevent the conflagration from spreading.

Despite the extent of the holocaust, New Zealand authorities

Secretary Quits, Hoover Force Short

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Beginning tomorrow, President Hoover will have to undertake his official duties with the aid of only two secretaries and an administrative assistant, for today is George Akersnos' last as secretary to the President. Although Mr. Hoover has had a month in which to find a successor to Akerson—who is taking a position in the movies—he still was short of a final selection today.

Rep. Campbell Sued By Bank Over Notes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Representative Guy E. Campbell (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, today faced a suit in District of Columbia Supreme Court, instituted by the Continental Trust Company, for allegedly failing to pay $1,675 on two promissory notes executed in September and October, 1929.

The court was told, however, that Campbell had paid $300 on each of his notes, which were said to have been for $775 and $1,500.

WIND HANDICAPS SPEED TEST

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3.—Upwards of 5,000 spectators lined the beach here this afternoon to see Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British racing motorist, drive his powerful 1,450-horsepower car, the Bluebird II, in what he told newspapermen just before he prepared to start would be "a demonstration run" because he believed bad wind conditions made it impossible for him to smash the world record of 231.36 miles per hour.

Campbell was to be officially timed, however, as the timing apparatus had been installed this morning. He asserted:

"I am certain I cannot break the record today. There is a terrific north wind blowing. It is a pity, because the beach is smooth enough for a fast run. Another handicap is that the visibility is bad."

Turtle Creek Man Shoots Self in Head

Sunday Baseball Asked In State Senate Bill

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—A move to permit the Pirates to play home games on Sundays has been started in the State Senate in the presentation of a bill amending the 1794 "blue laws."

The measure would legalize Sunday baseball games between 2 and 6 p. m. Consent of local authorities would be required. In Pittsburgh, the bill would demand passage of an ordinance by City Council allowing the games to be played and specifying whether admission could be charged.

The bill was introduced last night by Senator Joseph C. Trainer, Philadelphia, with backing of organized baseball. The Senate contains two members closely allied with the sport. Senator Frank J. Harris, Crafton, is a director of the Pirates. Senator Laning Harvey, Luzerne, is owner of the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York-Pennsylvania League. Because of their personal connection with the game, neither would sponsor the bill.

U. S. Wants Good Beer, and For 5 Cents, Mayor Says

Good "nickel schnapps and a good 16-ounce glass of beer for five cents" are what the people want and will have, Mayor Charles H. Kline declared at a banquet in honor of Fred F. Dengler, Republican chairman of the Sixteenth Ward, in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The banquet was attended by almost 1,000 persons.

Touching on the Wickersham report, the Mayor said it was incomprehensible to him as a jurist and so must puzzle the layman. He expressed surprise that "so valueless a report be issued after 20 months of study."

Other speakers were District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh, Public Safety Director James M. Clark, President of Council John S. Herron, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, County Controller Robert G. Woodside, Judge George V. Moore and Judge D. Paulson Foster, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, City Controller James P. Kerr, Councilmen G. J. Kambach and W. Y. English, ex-Mayor William A. Magee, Magistrate William J. Soost, Police Inspector Dennis Hennessey and Mrs. Helen V. HOOVER HITS FOES, DEFENDS DROUGHT AID OPPOSITION

STANDS PAT IN DEFIANCE OF SENATE

Red Cross Able to Meet Situation, President Says: Needs No U. S. Supervision

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—In the face of seething revolt in Congress, President Hoover elected today to stand pat in his opposition to the $25,000,000 which the Senate insists shall be appropriated to feed destitute persons in the drought-afflicted states.

In a lengthy statement of his position, issued at the White House after the situation had been discussed at the Cabinet meeting, Mr. Hoover declared that the Senate's proposal would "throw open the doors of the Treasury," and that he considered it "struck at the very roots of government."

The President vigorously defended the Red Cross in its handling of the relief problem, and declared that he had been "assured only this morning by the Red Cross that no one is going hungry" in Arkansas, as alleged in the Senate.

DEFENDS POLICY

Mr. Hoover also entered a personal defense of his own policy in dealing with the situation, which has been so bitterly attacked in the Senate. After observing that he had spent a good many years dealing with food relief abroad and at home, He said:

"I do not think I should be charged with lack of sympathy for those who suffer."

This was in obvious reference to the bitter criticism voiced in the Senate yesterday, when he was accused of being callous to the sufferings of thousands in Arkansas and other drouth hit states.

Answering those who accused him of inconsistency in appealing to Congress for $100,000,000 to feed "starving Europeans" in 1919, and then opposing $25,000,000 to feed "starving Americans" this year, Mr. Hoover declared the situations were not the same. Europe, he said, was "disorganized by war and anarchy, and self help was impossible," while he contended that self-help is possible in the drought areas.

METHODS INVOLVED

The issue, Mr. Hoover said, is not whether people are to go hungry or cold, but is solely a question of the best method of preventing hunger and cold. He was firmly of the opinion that the best method was to let the Red Cross handle the situation, free from governmental interference or activity. He was willing, he said, to trust the Red Cross, which a good many of his senatorial critics are not.

The whole tenor of Mr. Hoover's statement, which apparently was drawn up at the Cabinet meeting, was a vigorous defense of his own policy. He read it to assembled newspaper correspondents at the White House at noon.

Simultaneously with his own statement, President Hoover made public a letter which he received from John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, who also has been bitterly assailed in the Senate, asserting that "the Red Cross has not withheld relief from a single drought sufferer for lack of funds."

Payne's letter said the Red Cross would handle the situation "as it has always done."

SEEK NEW VOTE MACHINE BIDS

County Commissioners will readvertise for bids on voting machines. Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong made a resolution, which was adopted, authorizing new specifications as a result of the Supreme Court's rejection of the first contract.

The decision voided the $1,000,000 contract for voting machines made by County Commissioners with the Poole Manufacturing Company.

Davis Wage Scale Bill Gets Approval

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The Senate Manufacturers' Committee today ordered a favorable report on the Davis bill requiring government contractors to pay workers up to the prevailing local wage scale.

The measure was introduced by Senator Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a former secretary of labor. It was indorsed by Secretary Doak, his successor in the labor post, and by Assistant Secretary Heath, of the Treasury.

The friend was John H. Overton, who spoke last night at exercises during which the degree was conferred upon Governor and Senator-elect Long.

10,000 Children See Woman Trapeze Artist Killed

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—While 10,000 children watched, Catherine Solt, 34, trapeze artist, fell to her death yesterday at the matinee performance of the annual Shrine circus here.

Mrs. Solt had been paired for 12 years with her husband, Carl, in a flying trapeze act featured by leading circuses.

Yesterday, When Mrs. Solt leaped from her trapeze toward the outstretched hands of her husband, who was suspended from his own trapeze, the timing was faulty and Solt missed his wife's wrists, seizing only her fingers. He held her for a moment then his hold broke and she fell 30 feet to the heavy net. Her skull was fractured.

The youthful spectators, guests from the city's homes, did not realize she had been seriously injured.

DO-X DAMAGED IN TAKE-OFF

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Further delay in the cruise of the DO-X from the Canaries to the Cape Verde Islands and South America seemed inevitable today with information from Las Palmas that the flying boat strained its internal structure in attempting to take-off from the waters of Gandos Bay this morning.

The plane taxied yesterday from near Las Palmas to Bahia Gando, but even there the water was too rough today for the take-off with the more than 4,000 gallons of fuel which the craft is carrying.

COAL POLICE BILL OPPOSED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—The Musmmano coal and iron police bill met objections from the Pittsburgh Coal Company today. The coal company, in a letter to the judiciary general committee of the House, asked a public hearing.

James H. McClure, chairman of the committee, announced following the discussion that the hearing on the bill would be granted within a reasonable time. He could not as yet set a date.

The Musmmano bill, sponsored by the Stowe township assemblyman, provides for the complete supplanting of police work with a state force, allowing the industries a type of policeman, however, who becomes a property watchman.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are clear over much the greater portion of the country this morning. Precipitation was light and was limited to rains in sections of the Gulf states and snow flurries in the lake region. Temperature changes were slight, except over the Middle and Northern Atlantic Coast states where it is colder than yesterday. The weather continues mild over this country, the Canadian Northwest, and in Alaska. These conditions are resulting from a low pressure area, centered north of the Great Lakes and extending southward over the Mississippi Valley states, separating the plateau high from a high that developed over the Atlantic Coast states. The plateau high has increased in pressure to 30.64 inches, at Yellowstone.

J. V. M'MASTERS DIES IN N. Y.

James V. McMasters, former police magistrate and for many years an alderman in the downtown district, died today in New York. He was making his annual winter visit to friends when stricken a week ago.

Mr. McMasters was born in Pittsburgh, December 25, 1854, the son of Samuel and Isabella Calvert McMasters. He served as alderman of the old Second Ward for six terms, nearly 30 years, while his father served as alderman of the old Fifth Ward for three terms.

Squire McMasters was educated in the Third Ward public school and began his career as a clerk in the prothonotary's office. In 1885 he was elected alderman for the first time. After five terms he was appointed a police magistrate and later served another term as alderman. He retired about 20 years ago and for the past 17 years has been living at 237 Oakland avenue with a niece, Meta Guy. He was unmarried.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. C. V. McClure, of California, and a brother, Richard McMasters, of Pittsburgh.

BULLETS BREAK GLASS, ASK PAY

Aftermath of police activities last August has cropped up in City Council.

The Vaughn Brothers, of 626 Brushton avenue, operating a store at that address, presented a bill to Council yesterday asking $18.50 in payment for repairs to their show windows. The windows were said to be damaged when police bullets went wild while the officers were chasing bandits who robbed the store of M. Brush, of 603 Brushton avenue, last August 23.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee for action.

BISHOP CANNON FACES HIS ACCUSERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Leaning heavily upon a pair of crutches, his face drawn and pale, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., hobbled through a side door of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today and dropped heavily into a chair before the 12 clergymen-jurors who comprise the tribunal that is to pass upon his alleged derelictions as an officer of the church.

The place itself was familiar to the accused bishop, for he is a regular attendant at Mt. Vernon when in Washington, and not infrequently he has preached there in the days before his political and speculative activities brought him within the shadow of trial for unseemly conduct.

FACES TWELVE

Assembled there in advance of Bishop Cannon's arrival were 12 Methodist clergymen, drawn from as many localities in the South. They were chosen by Bishop William N. Ainsworth, of Birmingham, president of the College of Bishops, and none was known to the others before they arrived this morning. This is in accordance with Methodist practice in such cases.

For the next week or 10 days they will listen to the charges made against Bishop Cannon. In the end, they will decide whether the charges have been sufficiently substantiated to warrant suspension of the bishop and the preference of his case to the next quadrennial conference of the church for trial.

The accusations against Bishop Cannon have never been made public.

Extraordinary precautions were taken today to prevent any publicity concerning the hearing, which has been likened to a grand jury proceeding in civil procedure.

CROWD GATHERS

A large crowd gathered before the Mt. Vernon church at the hour of assembly. Police were necessary to clear a pathway through the crowd so the participating elders could gain entrance.

When the elders and the accused were safely ensconced in the church Bishop Ainsworth appeared on the steps and read the following brief announcement to newspapermen:

"This is an ecclesiastical proceeding and it will be conducted as the law of the church prescribes. Nothing will be given to the public by me or anyone connected with the hearing during its progress, which will be several days. When a conclusion is reached I shall call in the representatives of the press and give you the result and the names of those who conducted the hearing.

"As in all cases, we shall pray to God to give us divine grace and guidance to help us decide correctly."

STATE LEGION HEADS ARRIVE

State Commander Charles J. Engard, of Philadelphia, accompanied by Department Commander George J. Proesl, of Du Bois, arrived here this afternoon for the banquet of Allegheny County posts tonight in the William Penn Hotel. National Commander Ralph T. (Dyke) O'Neil, of Topeka, Kan., had not arrived at a late hour.

Also spending the day here was Mrs. Thomas Meaney, Jr., of Philadelphia, state president of the legion auxiliary, who was honored at a noon luncheon in the Congress of Women's Clubs. The visitor and Mrs. A. H. Jennings, county president, were to speak during the afternoon at dedicatory services by the auxiliary in the Marine Hospital, where the organization had provided furniture for the sun parlor.

Hospitalization in Pennsylvania is the important need for World War veterans, Mrs. Meaney said. Questioned regarding the soldiers' bonus, she asserted the boys should be given cash.

QUAKE SHAKES NEW ZEALAND

found themselves able to cope with the situation. Hundreds of injured women and children are being treated in temporary dressing stations thrown up in parks throughout the city.

Four cabinet ministers accompanied by police and soldiers, departed from Wellington aboard a special train equipped with portable army radio outfits and an X-ray apparatus. By means of the wireless, they will be able to obtain news from isolated places believed affected by the quake, but which have been cut off from the populous centers by disruption of telephone and telegraph lines.

STUDENTS KILLED

Among the tragedies of the quake was the death of 14 boy students at the Napier Technical School, which collapsed like a house of cards when the temblor struck. Many other students were injured.

The extent of the casualties could not be gauged from the fact that 600 serious casualties were treated at one dressing station alone in Napier.

Latest reports from the center of the disaster area indicated firemen were having a stiff battle to save the city from extinction. Attempts are being made to pump water from the sea to quell the fires, which have been seriously aggravated by oil tank explosions.

Fifty bodies have already been recovered from the ruins of Hastings and Napier alone. One half a square mile of Napier is a blazing furnace and cannot be approached. Many charred bodies will probably be found when the fire burns itself out.

Every two story building in Hastings and Napier was razed to the ground.

Homes of the more affluent residents of Napier, built high up on the cliffs overlooking Hawke Bay, were swept away by landslides.

GOULD HEIRESS DIES IN LONDON

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The former Helen Vivien Gould, American heiress who as the youthful bride of the fifth Baron Decies dazzled English society, died here at dawn today of a heart attack which developed from jaundice. She was 39 and had been ill three weeks.

Death came in a London nursing home. Besides her husband, who has had a famous career in the army, she left three children, a son and two daughters.

The granddaughter of Jay Gould, whose railroad manipulations made him a money king of the post Civil War period, Lady Decies came to be known in England for the spectacles she sometimes presented society, her penchant for the unexpected, and as a lavish but charming hostess.

She was active in Red Cross work during the war, and since had been a great traveler, making several adventurous trips with her husband into West Africa and other parts of the world. Her husband, John Graham Hope de la Poer Beresford, was once a lieutenant colonel commanding the South Irish Horse, and from 1916 to 1919 was chief press censor for Ireland.

New Island Found After Mexico Quake

OAXACA CITY, Mex., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Discovery of a new island or volcano, six miles off Puerto Angel, Oaxaca, in the Pacific, was announced today by Dr. Daniel Rueda, in charge of the observatory here.

He said the discovery had been communicated to him by the captain of the steamship City of San Francisco. It is believed to have emerged from the sea during the earthquake which rocked this state January 14.

Chilean Army, Navy Hunt Lost Aviators

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Chilean military and naval forces joined with the air corps today in a systematic search of the southern part of the country for Col. Arturo Merino Benitez, commandant of the national air corps, and four companions, who have been missing since Sunday morning.

BONUS BILL PASSAGE SEEN

Friends Certain of Victory Despite Threat of Veto; May Ignore Compromise

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Fearful that even a presidential veto would not stop passage of legislation for cash payment of the three and a half billion dollars veterans' "bonus," administration leaders today called upon powerful figures in American finance and business for aid.

The witnesses were invited by Representative Hawley (Rep.), of Oregon, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, who declared he has framed the hearings program at request of both Republicans and Democrats on the committee.

Representative Garner, of Texas, minority leader, asserted that Chairman Hawley has selected witnesses with a view of rolling up unfavorable testimony.

COMPROMISE TALK

Many compromise plans have been discussed by administration spokesmen and veterans' leaders, but no satisfactory scheme has been devised. The suggestion of Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), of Michigan, that the loan value of certificates be raised to 50 per cent will not satisfy many backers of full payment.

Another plan suggested is to raise the loan value, and also pay the cash value to unemployed veterans. Some Treasury officials are said to be willing to go this far if necessary.

Chairman Hawley received word that the Senate Finance Committee was ready to report for cash payment of the entire amount of the certificates, amounting to about $3,500,000,000. Passage in the Senate is said to be assured, as a "rider" on an appropriation bill.

DELAY CHARGED

The House committee may not act on the 50 bonus plans before it until next week. Minority Leader Garner charged the Ways and Means Committee is endeavoring to delay action in the hope the plan will be lost in the final rush near the close of the session, March 4.

Among the industrial and finance figures called before the committee are: Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors; Sam W. Reyburn, of Lord & Taylor, New York; H. W. George, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; E. D. Duffield, Prudential Life; Clarence W. Wooley, American Radiator Company; Owen D. Young, chairman of General Electric; George E. Robers, of the National City Bank, New York, and George Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, New York.

The Senate Finance Committee was to hear Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the Veterans' Administration, again today, and probably will hear financial leaders.

POWER CHIEFS' NAMES UP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today agreed to report "without recommendation" the nominations of the three Federal Power commissioners, whose action in dismissing two employes led to an open breach between the President and the Senate.

Despite the fact that the commissioners, Chairman George Otis Smith and Marcel Garsaud and Claude L. Draper, are in office and functioning, the names will again be before the Senate for confirmation.

It is expected they will remain on the Senate calendar pending action on a resolution by Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, directing the district attorney here to institute ouster proceedings in the form of a quo warranto writ.

THE WORLD'S greatest cancer experts recently united to honor Dr. James Ewing, of Cornell University, recognized as "the greatest cancer fighter." From Dr. Ewing, most useful friend of man, you learn a great deal about the affliction that, next to heart disease, kills most of us.

After twenty years' study, Dr. Ewing says he has only a few facts that are not "contradicted by other facts."

It is certain that cancer comes from bad habits, and that our methods of living must be reformed, before cancer prevention can amount to much.

SEEK 'NUMBER' IN U. S. REPORTS

Announcement that the city's biggest "numbers" pool would operate, beginning today, on the combined United States Treasury balance and customs report was expected today. All other pools in the city were expected to follow suit.

The announcement was subject to delay or cancellation. Return of two leading operators from New York early in the day was to decide the operators. If, after observation of the system now being used in New York, they approved of using it here, the announcement would be issued.

The system to be followed was that adopted yesterday by the Braddock-Homestead pool and today by a Rankin pool operating eastward to Johnstown and Altoona. The first two numbers were to be taken, in order, from the ten thousand and thousand columns of the United States customs receipts; the third number from the thousand column of the United States Treasury balance.

Mary Hampton, Star Of 2 Decades, Dies

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Mary Hampton, for more than two decades a star on Broadway, died today. She was nearly 50 years old and had appeared on the stage since she was 16.

She was under the management of Charles Frohman in the nineties, later appeared with the Boston Museum Company and then returned to Frohman. Among her successes were "Aristocracy," "Sowing and Wind," "Long Stride" and "Two Girls Wanted."

Kills Wife, Shoots Sister-in-Law, Self

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Joseph Kaplan, 30, formerly of Duluth, Minn., shot and killed his estranged wife, Ruth, seriously wounded his sister-in-law, Miss Marie Sandman, 19, and shot himself seriously today in a suburb where he stopped his automobile.

Kaplan and his wife operated restaurants at New Smyrna and here. They were separated about two months.

MINERS RETURN TO WORK

JEANNETTE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Between 80 and 90 of the 175 miners called out by organizers yesterday at Edna No. 1 mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, operated by John Carr, returned to work this morning, Carr announced, of their own volition.

State police and deputy sheriffs prevented pickets from interfering.

No effort was made to resume operations at Edna No. 2 mine of the Hillman Company, where 350 miners laid down their tools two weeks ago after a 15 per cent wage cut had been announced. According to the company similar reduction was made in foodstuffs at company stores and in equipment used by the men.

Mal S. Daugherty Pleads Not Guilty

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the now defunct Ohio State Bank here, pleaded not guilty today before Judge Charles Bell to the 16 indictments charging him with mishandling of the bank's funds.

The trial, which is set to open Thursday, probably will be continued until the first of next week.

WALES GREETED AT JAMAICA

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Jamaica today extended one of the greatest welcomes of its history to the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, arriving at noon aboard the Oropesa from Havana, Bermuda, and Spain.

Thousands from outside the city flocked here to be present when the two princes, en route to South America on a British good-will tour, debarked for their island reception.

The two princes, upon landing, were greeted officially by the Governor and other high dignitaries. They were to participate in the opening of a new golf course near Kingston, watch a polo match and be the guests of honor at a reception tonight at government house.

Tomorrow morning the Prince of Wales will unveil the memorial clock tower at Kingston Parish Church, erected to honor the Jamaicans who fell in the World War. The royal party will sail southward for the Panama Canal Zone later in the day.

CONNELLSVILLE BANKER HELD

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 3.—In custody in Washington, where he was arrested last night, Linford F. Ruth, 70, former president of the defunct Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania in Connellsville, must face charges of misapplication of $150,000 when he is returned here late today.

District Attorney J. B. Adams said that six or more informations containing a score of counts have been made against the banker. The district attorney says he has been informed that no extradition papers will be demanded.

County Detective A. A. Downing left this morning to bring Ruth back. No bail will be set until a conference is held with Ruth's attorneys.

Mr. Adams declared that the informations were not brought at the instance of a depositors' committee, which recently was organized in Connellsville, but through his office and the co-operation of the State Banking Department.

'Cafeteria' System Of Fines Planned

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Evanston is going to adopt a "cafeteria" system for motor infractions of its traffic laws. Prices for each type of violation will be fixed in advance and the motorists will have nothing to do but walk in, pay his fine to a clerk, and walk out without seeing the judge.

If the accused motorist wants to plead not guilty he may do so and come back later for trial.

CLARA MAY AID DAISY'S PAROLE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—In appealing for probation when she is sentenced February 10 on a conviction for grand theft, Daisy De Voe may name her accuser and former employer, Clara Bow, as one of her references, it developed today.

The blonde, who was found guilty of having stolen funds from the red-headed "It" girl of the screen, lost her fight for a new trial yesterday when she appeared before Judge William C. Doran.

Sentence will be passed on the former secretary on February 10, the same date on which a hearing will be held on a petition for probation filed by the girl's attorney.

Miss Bow herself has written the state's attorney asking that leniency be shown her former companion. From this it was reported that the screen actress would be willing to give her name as a reference on the probation petition. Should probation be denied Miss De Voe faces a penitentiary term of from one to 10 years, or a year's term in the county jail.

PRINCE TO WED, ACCEPT EXILE

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 3.—(Universal.)—Love laughs not only at locksmiths, but also at kings.

Not even the refusal of permission by King Gustave has daunted his grandson, Prince Lennart, who has allowed an official announcement to be made of his engagement with Fraulein Karin Nissvandt, daughter of a Swedish industrialist.

As a direct consequence of the engagement, which King Gustave strove mightily to avert, Prince Lennart will lose all royal rights and will probably be known in the future merely as Lennart Wilhelmson, since he will have no right to the royal name of Bernadotte.

Prince Lennart, who spent the day at his fiancee's home, in an interview granted to Universal Service last night, said:

"I regret the necessity of the King's refusal to give his consent to our marriage, but it does not mean the enmity of the rest of the royal family.

"It will be necessary for us to marry outside Sweden, as the King is head of our church.

Philip Hale, Artist, Author's Son, Dies

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Philip L. Hale, 66, artist and art critic, died yesterday. He was the son of Edward Everett Hale, who wrote "The Man Without a Country."

Hale was born in Boston, but received his education abroad. His best known paintings are "Flowers and Moonlight," "Portrait of Peter Turner" and several of his mother, Emily Baldwin Hale. He was art critic of the Boston Herald. Among his numerous prizes and medals was the International Art Jury Award at the San Francisco Exposition in 1915.

OAKLAND HALL SITE PICKED

It was assumed that the commissioners' offer of $8 would be accepted.

Armstrong seconded Babcock's motion without comment.

McGovern said:

"So you finally came to a bargain on the semi-official site. Both of you have kept your word. That part is commendable, anyway. It is a rank imposition to buy that property at $8 a square foot. A man at the last meeting said the site could be bought for $2 a square foot. The state would put up a building for $1,000,000."

STREET ENTRANCE

The Nicola lot has a decided slope from Bigelow boulevard to Fifth avenue, making possible street entrances at different grades for auditorium and exhibition hall. The four streets surrounding the site also provide free movement for motor traffic.

The Oakland district has parking facilities in its streets to take care of 5,000 motor cars. Fourteen street car routes pass through the district. The prospectus for the Nicola site claims that 78 per cent of the total population of Allegheny County may reach the town hall in Oakland without passing through the conjested downtown district.

Early in January, 1928, the Town Hall committee of the Chamber of Commerce boomed the idea of presenting the Town Hall question to the voters in a bond issue. A $6,000,000 item on the ballot was the fruit of the effort, having the support of Commissioners Armstrong and Babcock. McGovern declined to make a stand at that time.

BONDS VOTED

The bond issue for the hall was approved by the voters of Allegheny County, and the selection of a site for the building was up to the County Commissioners. Since that time the meeting room of the Commissioners has been the scene of scores of controversies concerning the location. Hundreds of sites were offered and forced to the attention of County Commissioners.

After casting aside many of these, a few sights, representative of the city's various districts, remained. Prominent among these were one downtown sight, Monument Hill, north end of Ninth Street Bridge and Duquesne Garden.

Auto Driver Hurt In East End Crash

M. S. Kerr, of 942 Fleming avenue, suffered injuries on the head when an automobile he was driving and another machine driven by C. L. Magee, 25, of 1010 Greenfield avenue, collided last night at South Negley avenue and Woodmont street, according to police. Kerr was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

PERSHING'S MEMOIRS QUOTED

Commander's Book Second Only to His Leadership In Service, Envoy Says

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes gave the allied countries, and particularly Great Britain, high praise for their services to American troops during the World War in a speech at an informal gathering of the London post of the American Legion today.

The former chief of supplies of the A. E. F. told the legion members to read the memoirs of Gen. Pershing. Gen. Pershing's book, he said, was a service to the American army in France second only to his command of the expeditionary force.

The Evening News tonight gave considerable space to the ambassador's remarks, quoting some of the passages. From these it might appear that Mr. Dawes was minimizing the American effort, bunt this was not the impression of his hearers, who roundly applauded his talk.

ENVOY TWITTED

Members of the Post joked the ambassador as he hasn't been joked since he became envoy to the Court of St. James and he seemed to enjoy the experience.

Pressed to explain how, as a lawyer, he became a brigadier general of engineers, Mr. Dawes declared his examiners had asked him only one question and he answered it so brilliantly that he was promoted immediately. He said:

"They asked me, what I would do if I were asked to survey a field or a section of trench. I told them I would send for a surveyor."

REVEALS DIFFICULTIES

Recalling the organization of the American Service of Suply, he detailed the great difficulty of supplying the A. E. F. 3,000 miles from home and how of every 13 pounds of food eaten by American soldiers, eight pounds had to be obtained from sources outside the United States.

He declared that it was in connection with this work that he realized fully the magnificent effort of Great Britain, France and other countries, and that he had never found it expedient to fail to mention this phase of Allied cooperation.

BUTLER GAINS TRIAL POINT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—With his trial before a court-martial for referring to Premier Mussolini, of Italy, as a hit-and-run driver still two weeks off, Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler was "one up" on the prosecution today.

Defense advantage lay in the decision of officials to hold the trial openly. It will open at 10 a. m. February 16 at Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Open trial, say Butler's friends, means public enactment of a drama that will inevitably build up a measure of sympathy for the Marine officer. They pointed to the trial of "Billy" Mitchell, in which the Air Corps officer was suspended from the service temporarily, but the testimony gained him national reputation.

Butler to Get Legion Banquet Invitation

Federal Judge Calls For Safety Measures

Speaking at the third lecture of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council in Moose Temple last night, Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson declared that the amazing total of motor vehicle accidents on the highways of the United States calls for some corrective action immediately. His subject was "The Traffic Problem of Our Rural Highways." J. J. Campbell was general chairman of the meeting.

Man Robbed, Shot, Identifies Suspect

From his cot in Mercy Hospital Dominick Genos, 42, of 27 Reed street, today identified Philip Mutrone, 34, who said he had no home, as the man who shortly after midnight shot him in the left side and robbed him at Colwell and Townsend streets. Mutrone was held at Center Avenue station on a suspicious person charge.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 3.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The visit of Prime Minister Bennett of the Dominion of Canada to Washington emphasizes the friendly relations of two American nations. He reported to the press that he had no important business to transact with our government. There are no serious disputes between the two countries. Such diplomatic exchanges as are necessary are in the nature of communications between merchants who buy from and sell to each other. The Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence are common natural resources from which mutual advantages will be secured by future development. The only indication of a frontier of 3,000 miles between the United States and Canada is the places where exports and imports are supervised. Yet we are two separate people with a strong and distinct national spirit.

Calvin Coolidge

In recent years many delegations have come from foreign countries to study our industrial development. It might be profitable for an international delegation to study the manner in which two great and competing countries in North America maintain friendly relations without any fortifications or any armed forces at their borders. If such a secret could be discovered and applied it would be the greatest blessing that could be secured by many foreign people.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Dying Mother Hopes to See Long Missing Daughter

Mrs. Emma Wright, a 78-year-old mother, brooding over her daughter, Emma, who disappeared 18 years ago, is reported dying in her Sheffield street home. Since her daughter's disappearance Mrs. Wright has kept a nightly vigil at her window. She says she will not die until she sees her daughter.

Emma was 27 and a cashier at the Fort Pitt Hotel when she vanished. It is said Mrs. Wright made frequent visits to the morgue in search of her daughter. The Missing Persons Bureau has been asked to make a new search for the daughter.

GIRLISH BEAUTY PROVED TRIAL FOR ALMA RUBENS

FOUND MOTHER ILL AS SHE LOSES JOB

Parent Warned Child of Pitfalls She Must Face; Spurned New Employer

By ALMA RUBENS

This, my first experience with the predatory male, occurred in a big department store where I had obtained a trial job in the stock room. I was to receive $4.50 a week, but I thought that was a gold mine.

The dark days were upon our home. Not only was my father hopelessly ill, but by this time mother was failing and manifesting symptoms which forewarned of the hospital and surgical operations — and expenses — to come.

Miss Rubens.

In spite of the income from our rented rooms, our expenses had mounted to the breaking point. Where relief from any additional financial strain was to be sought was a problem over which we all had brooded daily.

Every penny of my pitifully small wage went into the common fund. I felt my responsibility so enormously that when I received a summons to the manager's office one evening after hours I responded in a whirl of trepidation. Was I to be discharged? What had I done to be reprimanded?

When I went in he was alone in the act of lowering the window shades. He was a brisk, dominating man, over-chummy with the other girls generally, the type which some girls rave over and which others instinctively abhor.

"Come in, Alma," he said kindly. He stepped forward and gently closed the door. I stood soberly facing him.

"Sit there!" he directed, pointing to his secretary's vacant chair. I complied.

Boss Set Trap

"What? My job?" I inquired. "I'm crazy about it!"

"I don't mean your stockroom job," he laughed. "I mean that chair. How would you like to work in here?"

I gazed at him uncertainly.

"I've been watching you," he went on. "You're not made for the stockroom. I'm looking for a new secretary, somebody built and with looks just like you."

"I'm not a stenographer. I'm not even a typist. I—" I was too greatly astonished to proceed.

He smiled and put his arm around my shoulders in a familiar manner. "That is not so important," he said. "You can bluff at it, can't you? You know what I mean, don't you?"

And, before I was aware of his intent, he held me in a tight embrace.

I scratched him and I bit him. I fought him like a tiger. Finally, after I had fairly clawed his eyes out—blood was streaming from the scratches I had inflicted on his face and hands—he gave me a great shove that knocked me off my feet. I fell in a panting heap on the floor.

Alma Fired!

"Oh, well," he growled. "If that's the way you feel about it, you can go! I only put you in the stockroom to give you a chance. You're fired! Here is your pay."

He seized a pad, scribbled a few words on it and handed it to me. I took it and stumbled away, thoroughly disillusioned and sickened by his treatment.

Years later, after I climbed to fame in the movies, through my lead in "Humoresque," I became acquainted with his successor and just for curiosity's sake I asked him to show me my former service record.

"Discharged for being fresh," was scribbled on the card.

That same day my mother went to the hospital, leaving the house alone in my absence, taking a street car because she had insufficient funds to ride in a taxi. I was frantic when I returned and found she was gone.

I ran all the way to the institution, more than a mile from our home, and was escorted by a kind-hearted attendant to her beciside in a free ward, where she had been placed for observation.

A nurse had brought her a tray of food, delicacies which had not appeared on our family table for weeks.

Warned by Mother

My mother had hidden the choice bits in a napkin under her pillow. On these amid tears, I feasted, while she smoothed my hair and murmured reassurances.

Between bites and sobs I poured out my whole story of woe. I shall never forget my poor mother's half wild, half frantic expression, nor her sighfully cryptic remarks.

"It is your lot, my child," she said. "You are young, beautiful, and many men are beasts, worse than beasts. I am afraid you will have a hard time through life. And you must guard against them."

Her warning still rings in my ears. It was my lot, in more ways than one, a fact which has been more forcibly impressed upon me at each stage of my development.

But at that time I scouted my mother's fears. "Never mind, mother," I said, stoutly determined to do my part in relieving her of worry. "I'll soon get another job and everything will be all right."

And, in a way, it was. I had learned the bitter lesson of every working girl. It stunned, but it fortified me for my next assault against the world for a living.

In the ensuing weeks while my father slowly sank and my mother hovered between life and death after three major operations, I spent most of my time reading "Female Help Wanted" ads, pasted on newspaper billboards and experienced almost every degree of hope and disappointment.

Stage Thoughts

Driven as I was to obtain employment, I could not settle my mind on a clear goal. The stage, which I thought I had put aside as a prospect, now and then reappeared, in alluring outline, in my scanning of the restricted horizon open to young women.

The question of self-support was constantly at a clash with my inherently rhapsodic nature. ... practical and the ideal... I could not envisage myself permanently behind a counter, or at a desk, as a means of self-development, expansion and independence. I was always picturing myself in a fanciful realm for which I had absolutely no training whatsoever.

Mlle. Pavlowa

There were times when I was sure that only a stage career would satisfy my inside yearnings. Whenever I saw a poster of Pavlowa, I was convinced that I was destined for the Russian Ballet and to dance before the crowned heads of Europe. After reading an impassioned flight in poetry, I was enveloped in a blaze of the divine fire to leave my mark as a poetess.

On other occasions, I felt the urge to write a great and enduring love story, a romance that would stamp my name with George Eliot and George Sands in the literary hall of perpetual fame.

I was, metaphorically-speaking, a star-gazer, a will-o'-the-wisp hunter, a wild-goose chaser.

What future awaits Alma Rubens, "wild goose chaser," as want and poverty stalk her family? Read her thrilling experiences, finding jobs and then losing them, in tomorrow's issue of the Sun-Telegraph.

FALL'S APPEAL NEARS CLOSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS)—Arguments in the appeal of Albert B. Fall, President Harding's secretary of interior, against a sentence of one year in jail and a fine of $100,000 upon his conviction of accepting a similar sum as a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, California oil man, drew to a close today in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, said "There can be no bribery of any official to do a particular act, unless the law requires or imposes upon him the duty of acting." He said Fall had no authority to grant leases on the government's Elk Hills oil reserves, as this was under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Navy.

The government charged at the trial two years ago, that Fall accepted the $100,000 from Doheny to favor his interests with a lease on the oil reserves, but Fall contended the money represented a loan. Doheny called it a loan, too, when he was tried and acquitted of a charge of giving the sum as a bribe.

Accused as Reckless Driver, Kills Himself

LEHIGHTON, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Clement Hill, 45, committed suicide in his home today by shooting himself through the heart with a rifle. Police said he had been depressed over a recent automobile accident in which he was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. His widow and five children survive.

Governor Holds Up Vote Reform Bill

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—The elections reform bill, to have been presented today in both Senate and House, rested in the Executive Mansion while Gov. Pinchot, Senator Frank J. Harris and others made revisions in the corrupt practice provision.

Gov. Pinchot, expected to pass on the bill yesterday, suggested changes to limit candidates expenditures to 10 cents a vote, which for state office would set a limit at less than $250,000 a candidate.

GENERAL STRIKE CALLED IN CUBA

HAVANA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A general strike, to last 24 hours or more, has been called to begin in Havana at 6 p. m. today in protest at renewed authorization by the Cuban Congress for suspension of Constitutional guarantees.

Havana labor organizations, meeting separately last night, voted to call the walkout. There were indications that the order would be widely obeyed. Most Havana newspapers, their employes affected, gave notice they would make no attempt to publish.

While the chief grievance is the renewed authorization for suspension of Constitutional guarantees, the strike order also cites the recent suspensions of most of the Havana newspapers, imprisonment of students, and other measures of defense adopted by the administration of President Machado.

President Machado has used the power conferred upon him by Congress in maintaining peace and order and in suppressing movements of students and others who have sought his resignation.

Anna Wong Sues In Mother's Death

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Anna May Wong, film actress, and members of her family have brought suit for $50,000 damages against Joseph Rodoni, alleged driver of the automobile which ran down and fatally injured Toy Wong, mother of the actress, November 10.

Men! Banish Those Pimples Right Now

People shun him—those ugly blemishes are so disgusting to them, girls even hate to dance with him.

How would you like to have a person say to you, "Tomorrow morning when you wake up you will notice that your pimples have started to disappear—in three days they'll be gone—in a week you'll have a clear, velvety skin."

This is exactly what Peterson's Ointment offers you and if your skin isn't marvelously cleared your money will be returned.

Thursey Pentecost, of Springfield, Tenn., says: "I had used several kinds of Ointment but they did not help. I used Peterson's 3 or 4 times and my face was at least cleared of pimples."

Put your faith in Peterson's Ointment and be free from pimples and blackheads in a week's time—one 35-cent box will prove it—all drug stores.

UTILITIES FIRM NAMES STONE

E. C. Stone, system development manager of the Duquesne Light Company, has been named assistant to F. R. Phillips, senior vice president of the Philadelphia Company and subsidiary companies, it was announced today.

Mr. Stone

Stone, a native of Charlestown, N. H., graduated from Harvard in 1904, and became an engineering apprentice in the East, Pittsburgh works of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. In 1911 he joined the Allegheny County Light Company, which two years later became the Duquesne Light Company. He became development manager January 1, 1927.

He is vice president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, a member of the advisory board of the International Electro Technical Commission, the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club of Pittsburgh, Chamber of Commerce, Association of Iron & Steel Electrical Engineers, Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania, and the University Club of Pittsburgh.

JEWISH WOMEN NAME TEAMS

Announcement of the personnel of five teams of women volunteers in the drive of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies for $450,000, which opens February 15, was made at a meeting of workers at the home of Mrs. C. Chester Kaufmann yesterday. Mrs. Kaufmann, in charge of the women's teams, has as her associate chairmen Mrs. Louis J. Affelder and Miss Alice Grafner.

The women were instructed on the importance of making the drive a success.

SURGEON KILLS SELF IN OFFICE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Dr. Samuel N. Traver, 50, a prominent physician and surgeon here, was found dead in his office last night of a bullet wound which police said had been self-inflicted.

A woman employed to clean the doctor's suite of offices, said he had told her he was not feeling well. A short time after he had retired to another room, the woman said she heard a shot and found his body lying on the floor.

From their first investigation, police said they were unable to advance a motive for the suicide other than possible ill health. Traver is survived by his widow.

ALIENATION SUIT FILED HERE

David K. Walters, of Coraopolis, has filed suit for $20,000 damages alleging alienation of the affections of his wife, Alice H. Walters, against Arthur Story, in Common Pleas Court.

The Walters were married seven years ago and lived together until last June, when, Walters alleges, Story began having clandestine meetings with Mrs. Walters. He charges Story took the woman on several trips and says they have been together many times. He charges Story took her to Warren last October 5, and says her affections for her husband have been destroyed and he has been humiliated.

$194,073 GIVEN RED CROSS

Workers in the Red Cross appeal for $300,000, Pittsburgh's quota in the campaign to aid needy families in drouth-stricken areas in the West and Middle West, today were approaching the $200,000 mark. When the tabulations were made in the headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building last night, it was found that the contributions to date amounted to $194,073.90.

Reports from national headquarters of the Red Cross say that 34,000 persons are in need in the stricken districts.

CANADA, which must be holding out in us.

Cal Coolidge just sold a million dollar insurance policy like that. Just as quick as the man could sign on the doddering line.

Four years' rest in the White House seems to do a man good.

Since graduating from good old Veto College Cal has become a columnist of the better sort, gone into business and sells insurance on the side, meanwhile dedicating a cornerstone or two but we're not sure about those saxophone lessons.

Al Smith is another dignified journalist who also dabs in purple finance, freighting and hauling in addition to making speeches under happier conditions.

It shows that a resolute personality can overcome the handicap of having to spend the best four years of his life in the worst way.

We figure it takes some charming bulldozing to knock off a million-dollar risk. Just when you get the bird all lined up along comes the medical examiner, listens to the prospect's heart. And they both faint.

Either that, or the whites of your eyes are on your tongue, your pulse is wound up too tight or you are so round-shouldered that there is nothing left to do but join a golf club and become the world's champion putter.

The last time an insurance doc put the stethoscope on our top vest button he said:

And that was only for $11 worth of insurance. If we asked for a million they could sue us for breathing under false pretensions.

Coolidge and Smith have started a contest for commercial honors and both are doing very sweet. Cal moved into a bigger home, while Al constructed the world's tallest building with a mooring mast on the top for Zeppelins and a revolving door for creeping and crawling citizens.

The whole thing is a tribute to indoor and landscape advertising. Keep your name in front of the public, build the right kind of a mouse trap and the people will beat a path to your door.

Nobody begrudges an ex-president or an ex-candidate anything. That would be wasting a begrudge.

We are glad the boys are doing fine. How about a merger?

$100,000 ASKED IN FIVE SUITS FOR DAMAGES

Plaintiffs File Claims To Awards for Alleged Injuries in Accidents

Claiming he has been crippled for life through fracture of his hip, and that his eyesight has been permanently impaired, George W. Booth, 8 Guthrie street, McKees Rocks, has filed suit for $50,000 damages in Common Pleas Court against the Keps Electrical Supply Company, 638 Grant street. He says a truck owned by the company skidded on an icy grade on the McNeil boulevard, McKeesport, last February 15, and struck the coupe in which he was riding.

Julia Serapiglia, 18, through her father, James Serapigla, 907 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, has sued Carl E. Reiss, of Stowe Township, for $10,000 for injuries she says she sustained August 23. She says she was getting off a street car in Island avenue when Reiss attempted to pass without stopping. She suffered bruises and internal injuries.

HURT AIDING ANOTHER

William B. Thot, 924 First avenue, Coraopolis, has filed suit for $10,000 damages against Frank Check, of Fleming Park. He says he was in the Lincoln highway near Imperial, November 16, aiding another man who had been hurt by an automobile when Check came along, driving without lights and on the wrong side of the road. Thot says he was knocked down by Check's car, had several ribs broken, and his back and ear hurt.

Mrs. Frances G. Caughey, 17 Moody street, asks $20,000 damages in suit against Thomas Jones, Ninth avenue, Homestead. She says she was a guest in Jones' car June 29, when it ran into another machine. Several of her teeth were knocked out and her head and body cut, she avers.

CITY EMPLOYE SUES

Albert E. Florig, an employe of the City of Pittsburgh, filed a $10,000 suit in Federal Court against the George K. Stevenson Co., grocers. In his bill of complaint he avers he was injured by a truck of the defendant company colliding with a motorcycle he was riding on Center avenue, on October 21. He charged reckless driving and failure to observe traffic regulation by the driver of the truck.

Oil Warehouse At Beckley Burns

BECKLEY, W. Va., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed a Standard Oil Company warehouse here. F. W. Rucker, plant superintendent, said the warehouse and a stock of oils and greases destroyed was valued at $25,000. The fire started, he said, when an electric switch was thrown.

BREAKS UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

PINCHOT ASKS HUGE FUND TO AID IDLE

Largest Road Program Ever Proposed Included in Plan: Auto License Fee Cut Urged

struction, which will furnish jobs for men out of work. The total sum thus made available, he said, is nearly $140,000,000, or 40 per cent of the total budget. Highways, welfare, health and public instruction will claim nearly the whole of this amount.

The Governor transmitted his budget for the biennium beginning June 1 to the Legislature and his address constituted a personal explanation of his recommendations for the expenditure of a total of $347,428,251 estimated to be available, of which $188,097,829 is recommended to be appropriated from the general fund. This is compared with $192,141,884 appropriated from the general fund by the preceding Legislature.

ROAD PROGRAM

Temporary transfer of $10,000,000 from the general fund to the motor license fund for road purposes.

Prompt and complete use of the $9,000,000 of federal moneys available for road purposes.

Taking over 20,000 miles of township roads immediately by the state on an equitable basis of 25 to 27½ per cent of the township roads of each county.

Reduction of motor car operators' fees from $2 to $1 and reduction of $5 in all passenger car registration fees.

The Governor said that the Fisher administration had encumbered all highway money estimated to be received up to May 31 of this year and for that reason funds available to the present administration during the coming working season have been seriously reduced. In this manner, Gov. Pinchot said, the Fisher administration had controlled the expenditures of "not far from five years" of motor funds. This, he said, would result in stagnation of road construction during 1931 unless the temporary transfer of money is made from the general fund.

TOWNSHIP ROADS

Taking over of the 20,000 of the 75,000 miles of township roads in the state, the Governor estimated, will result in "taking the country people out of the mud" and "will lift from the backs of the township taxpayers, who are mainly farmers, a total of not less than $10,000,000 a year."

The reduction in operators' and automobile license fees, the Governor said, would save car owners about $10,000,000 annually.

Appropriations recommended in the budget affecting Western Pennsylvania include:

For the dam to build a lake and drain Pymatuning Swamp, Crawford County, $1,500,000; Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board, $5,000; Western Penitentiary for construction work, $93,000; Rockview Penitentiary, $358,200; University of Pittsburgh, $1,320,000; Allegheny General Hospital, $150,000; Allegheny Valley Hospital, Tarentum, $15,000; Beaver Valley General Hospital, $14,800; Belvedere Hospital, $3,200; Braddock General Hospital, $40,000; Butler County General Hospital, $10,000; Canonsburg Hospital, $10,000; Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, $10,000; Children's Hospital, $90,000; Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, $28,400; Eye and Ear Hospital, $21,000; Grove City Hospital, $3,400; Homeopathic Hospital, $80,000; Latrobe Hospital, $20,000; McKeesport Hospital, $56,000; Memorial Hospital, Monongahela City, $11,200; Montefiore Hospital, $45,000; Ohio Valley Hospital, McKees Rocks, $16,800; Passavant Hospital, $40,000; Pittsburgh Hospital Association, $40,000; Presbyterian Hospital, $40,000; St. Francis Hospital, $160,000; St. John's Hospital, $45,000; South Side Hospital, $70,000; Tuberculosis League, $75,000; West Penn Hospital, $140,000.

Sheriff to Storm Moonshine Citadel

PORTSMOUTH, O., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Deputy sheriffs will invade the wooded hills of Green Township to stamp out the reign of lawlessness which the Scioto County grand jury has blamed for four killings and the wounding of 25 others during raids of recent years.

Disregarding reports that moonshiners had threatened to fire on raiders, Sheriff Maurice Caldwell has ordered his deputies to clean up the township in the eastern section of the county.

State Aid Is Asked For Homes and Hospitals Here

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—Appropriation of $65,000 to Allegheny County charitable homes and hospitals is asked in bills before the Legislature. Senator Frank J. Harris, Crafton, and Representative M. A. Musmanno, McKees Rocks, offered duplicate bills last night for $25,000 for the Boys' Industrial Home of Western Pennsylvania at Oakdale.

Harris also sponsored a bill for $10,000 for the New Future Association on Sherman avenue, North Side. For the Allegheny Valley Hospital at Tarentum, Representative Louis W. Hagmaier, Aspinwall, introduced a bill asking $30,000.

Curb on Free Ride Damages Proposed

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Under a bill introduced in the house by Representative Fish, Philadelphia, persons injured in accidents while non-paying passengers in private cars would be presumed to have assumed the risk of such injury and to be guilty of contributory negligence.

The burden of proving "reckless indifference" or "gross negligence" on the part of the driver would be placed on the plaintiff in any damage action under this law.

ASK PAY RAISES FOR OFFICIALS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—Bills to raise the salaries of certain county and city officials were submitted to the legislature last night by Senator James J. Coyne and Representative Joseph G. Steedle.

The Senate bill provides that the Pittsburgh controller's salary would hereafter be fixed at $8,000 a year.

The House bill, applying to Allegheny and other second class counties, provides for the following salaries:

District attorney, $15,000 a year; sheriff, prothonotary, recorder of deeds, clerk of courts, treasurer, controller and coroner, each $10,000 a year; clerk of Orphans' Court and recorder of deeds, $5,000 a year.

Representative Steedle explained the county office salaries, if the bill were enacted, would be raised in proportion to the increase in population.

Senator Coyne also introduced a bill which would give City Council authority to pay a member of the city cabinet between $8,000 and $12,000, explaining that under the present scale salaries are the same despite capabilities.

Feeling Bad Today? Listen, Here's Good News

What's the use in kidding yourself? If you feel tired and run down, you ought to do something about it before some serious illness strikes. You ought to build up your body so it's one hundred per cent fit.

The way to do this, say doctors, is to take cod liver oil. But don't take cod liver oil the old-fashioned liquid way. Take it the modern way in tiny tasteless tablets.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are made from the vitamins of the finest cod liver oil that Norway can produce. You get all the healthful benefits, but no nasty taste. That's why doctors so widely prescribe them. That's why Good Housekeeping Institute has given them its seal of approval.

If you want to lead a happy, healthy, normal life, accept this good advice. Go to your druggist and get a box of McCoy's today. They're just what the doctors say you need. 60 tablets—60 cents.

STATE RELIEF FUND SOUGHT

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—An unemployment conference called by the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor here decided to ask the General Assembly to appropriate $10,000,000 to the State Department of Welfare for food, clothing and shelter for "unfortunate victims of unemployment."

Immediate enactment of legislation was urged to protect from seizure for taxes [illegible] homes of persons who are unable [illegible] because of present economic conditions. A resolution said thousands of working people have lost their homes and thousands more will unless some relief is afforded.

Other recommendations proposed that a public emergency be declared and that a committee on public safety be created to augment the work of the state welfare department; immediate adoption of the unemployment program outlined by the Pinchot unemployment committee; action to protect the wage and work standards of labor, and that no wage reductions or payment of wages below union standards be tolerated or permitted.

Allegheny Men Offer Full Crew Measures

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A "full crew" bill was offered in the House by Representative C. C. Baldrige, Allegheny, to compel railroad companies "to properly man their trains."

The bill would require crews of not less than six for freight trains of more than 30 cars, and five for trains of less than 30 cars. Not less than five would be required for passenger trains of less than three coaches, with six-man crews for four or more coaches.

Representative Dwyer, Allegheny, introduced a bill which would require a crew of six for freight train of 50 cars and 5 for less than 50 cars. Passenger train requirements would be five for less than five cars and six for more than five cars.

Bus Company Asks Line to Pittsburgh

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania General Transit Company has asked the Public Service Commission to approve inauguration of bus service between Uniontown, Clairton and Pittsburgh. The application said an agreement had been reached with the Monongahela Transport Company under which this company would operate the buses for the Pennsylvania Transit Company. One round trip daily is planned.

Bill Would Compel Auto Insurance

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A bill to compel the carrying of liability insurance by all automobile owners was introduced in the House by Representative Tahl, Philadelphia, and in the Senate by Senator Harvey, Luzerne.

The bill is modelled after the law now in force in Massachusetts.

COMEDY, MUSIC AND THRILLS BACKGROUND OF NEW STAGE OFFERINGS

By GEORGE SEIBEL

You'd have to put a detective into "Macbeth" or "Oedipus" to make them as thrilling as "Subway Express," though no doubt they are superior as literature to the melodrama shown at the Nixon Theater last night. And it must be remembered that there were no detectives when Sophocles loafed around the Parthenon and Will Shakespeare used to lunch at the Mermaid. Inspector Hannen, the master mind that solves the Subway Mystery, wouldn't have been possible until our day—and it is doubtful whether he is credible even now.

George Seibel

When people go to a mystery play or read a tale by Conan Doyle, they know certain things in advance. They know that presumptive guilt is the most certain indication of ultimate innocence. They know that the clues will be discovered one by one, and that the criminal cannot escape. That is the difference between books or the theater and life.

Aside from adhering to this formula, the two ladies who wrote "Subway Express," Eva Kay Flint and Martha Madison, have sprinkled a liberal assortment of real life over their three acts. The low-comedy Jewish couple, the sheik and his flapper, the two sailors, the two Italians, and the rest of them, are faithful types of metropolitan life.

They ride in the subway every day—so, of course, they were there on the day this murder was committed.

They were all played to perfection—but the biggest hand of the evening went deservedly to John Rowan, who gives the most lifelike imitation of a corpse for two acts, never stirring nor winking.

SO HANNEN WORKS HARD

With such competition Inspector Hannen has to work hard. Leo Curley, who plays the inspector, has a truly heroic task. With the knowledge he is called on to exhibit he could be a Wall Street wizard, an electrical engineer, a professor of psychology and a dictator in Moscow or Rome. We are quite ready to believe in the murder, either by bullet or electrocution, but not in the inspector, though played as competently by Leo Curley as if he were true.

And it is hard to doubt anything that happens on this subway express. Everything is so convincingly real, from the ads above the window to the discarded newspapers on the floor. The wobbles and jerks, the station signs outside the windows, the fragments of silly conversation, all go to create the perfect illusion. Chester Erskin and Ralph Simone have done a notable bit of realistic staging.

It is a perfect setting for the murder. And what more suitable environment to preserve the unity of time and place! The inspector simply locks the doors and lets the car travel up and down the tube until the murderer is caught. Meantime another little murder adds to the excitement.

TRY THE THIRD DEGREE

It hardly seems plausible that the police would employ the third degree on one of the witnesses right in the presence of everybody. It hardly seems plausible that the people in the car should remember as much as they do under the continued questioning of the Inspector. But swift action and good characterization cover up these improbabilities. The audience is on the edge of its chairs until the crime is solved.

Meantime they have made the acquaintance of some interesting types. Edward Everett Hale, 3d, gives a marvelous portrayal of the tough motorman who is without any country except this. Elvira Johnson is a Harlem Lady after Van Vechten's own heart. Gloria Kelly's flapper and William Thompson's deaf man were admirable. Mary Pettes as Mrs. Mullen and Ralph Simone as Dr. Blum have been strongly individualized. But the best bit of acting in the whole cast, aside from the lifelike corpse, was done by Jack Byrne as the clerk under suspicion, who gets the third degree.

And this is no disparagement of Herbert Duffy as the principal suspect, nor of Virginia Curley as the murdered man's wife, for they had roles that called for great emotional restraint, which is more difficult than emotional display.

Well, after rushing up and down Manhattan for three acts, when the mystery of the crime is solved at last, no one will question that the "Subway Express" is a swiftly moving means of transport, though those passengers were considerably delayed by the prodigious Inspector Hannen airing his encyclopedic mind.

'Flying High,' in Alvin, Is Pleasing Musical Comedy Show

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"FLYING HIGH," pleasing combination of comedy, music, dancing and pretty girls, amply entertained an Alvin audience last night. Its action is based on aviation and the piece represents the happy reappearance in the musical comedy field of George White, heretofore known to the theater-going public principally as a revue producer who made "Scandals" something to chuckle about instead of whisper.

"Flying High" is about an airplane mechanic who aspires to become a flyer. That provides the comedy element. It also is about an air mail pilot who engages to fly in a contest for a prize, and that provides the romantic angle, for, of course, there is a girl all mixed up in the matter, which ultimately is developed to the point of misunderstandings and all that sort of thing to make true love run unsmoothly.

LAHR COMPELS LAUGHS

But it is our mechanic who fills the eye most of the time—and that is something to be thankful for, since this wrench and hammer artist is portrayed by Bert Lahr, as goofy a fun-maker and as funny a goof as ever escaped from a nut-shell. If Bert Lahr can't make you laugh, you're just a hopeless gloom.

Although the show has an unorthodox beginning, with just a couple of persons on the stage, instead of the customary opening chorus, and swings in an atmosphere of aeronautics throughout, the action is speedy and develops something of the color of a revue.

LEADS ARE CAPABLE

While Lahr dominates the proceedings, musical comedy form calls for a prima donna and leading man, and these roles are capably played and sung by Grace Brinkley and Oscar Shaw.

There also has to be a secondary comedian and in this part Russ Brown fills the bill. Alice Morley sings well and helps in the laugh department as a lady from Chicago who is smitten by the charms of our mechanic. Pearl Osgood dances well and emits sour comments on love.

The Gale sisters, quadruplets, appear in several acrobatic dance specialties that earn much in the way of approbation. Among the songs liked by the audience were "Wasn't It Beautiful While It Lasted," "Without Love" and "Thank Your Father."

Otis Skinner provides another character portrait in his new play, "Marius," which will be presented next week in the Nixon.

AMUSING COMEDY AND UNHAPPY NEWS IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Ladies of the Jury," a three-act farce, is the current presentation in the Pitt. This is the same play that Mrs. Fiske appeared in in our town not so long ago. But we're not going in for comparisons. The big thing is that the George Sharp emoters put it over in hilarious style. It is one of the most amusing things they have done in recent months.

A lady is on trial for murder. There is one act of defense, prosecution and the judge's charge. Then come two acts in the jury room. The first ballot discloses 11 to 1 for "guilty." The one hundred twenty-third ballot registers 12 "not guilties." And, in the name of justice, what a time between the ballots!

Mabel Kroman is the aristocratic lady who sways the jury. As soon as she appears, things begin to happen. Courtroom decorum is sent flying out the window. She talks out of turn, carries on a conversation in French with the prisoner and has chummy gestures for the judge. Her woman's instinct tells her the prisoner is innocent, and she sticks by her instinct.

WHAT A JURY!

Many are the ludicrous episodes in the jury room. Peggy Dougherty has a "My gawd" ever on her tongue. Billy Link is willing to eat steak at the expense of the county. Alice Ann Baker is a down - with - vice - in - any-form shouter. Charles Webster is a hard-boiled young blood. Tom Hayes recites poetry, and Stephanie Diamond, looking very attractive, handles nicely a Southern dialect and wants to get home to her Harry. Others in the jury, including Robert Fiske, as foreman, and Margaret Keller, as the German woman, Lena, add to the mixed portrait and to the hilarity.

To see this conglomeration awakening from sleep at the beginning of the third act—or rather the dawn of the third day—is to howl out loud.

UNHAPPY NEWS

A number of other characters also are in the play—the judge, attorneys, witnesses, the alleged murderess, and so forth. These are portrayed by Lenita Lane, Katherine Maison, Clyde Shaeffer, John Winthrop, Paul McGrath and Edwin Vail.

The only cloud to mar the merriment of last night's performance was to be found, not on the stage, but on the program. It was an announcement that Saturday, February 14, will mark Mr. Sharp's farewell in the Pitt. The lack of worth-while plays for stock production was given as the reason.

Gas in Stomach Hurts the Heart

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable, but some day it may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly drive out gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

May's & Liggett's drug stores or any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia, in powder or tablet form.

You run no risk of loss for every druggist may sell it with the distinct understanding that unless its use gives complete satisfaction the small cost will be promptly returned.

COMPOSER OF 'MANDALAY' ON RADIO

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Feb 3.—Showmanship—the showmanship of Broadway—is gradually penetrating the doggy lofts of the broadcasters. For years they have charted their own paths, unmindful of the stage assistance that could have been theirs at the raising of a hand—a hand full of greenbacks.

Though ever ready to assert that their principal business was entertainment, they had little use for the methods employed a little further east of their workshops. They were dealing with temperamental people, concert stars who when they said "no" or "how much" really meant it. They were also dealing with persons and politicians, crooners and educators, every class of people but the racketeers. They believed an ounce of diplomacy was worth a ton of Broadway wisdom.

* * *

At last, however, they are making their ingredients a little more equally. The rocking-chairs will reap the benefits. Combining the best methods of star-handling—and star-handling takes a special kind of glove—with a show world system that has been proved successful, the broadcasters may be able to teach Gatti-Gazazza and Belasco a trick or two.

* * *

The Columbia system recently placed all its concert stars, available by a merger of seven concert bureaus, under the experienced guidance of Arthur Judson. Now comes N.B.C. with a similar assignment of concert stars, drawn chiefly from the disc mills of Camden, to George Engles. Relieving Engles of all program production work, it has summoned a showman from Broadway to put the Broadway stamp upon its efforts. John C. Royal, a field general of Albee in Cleveland and other cities, is to perform the operation.

* * *

By wire from a radio station comes an announcement that a tenor can be heard "nightly except Thursday one-thirty to two a. m." Who wants to sit up until 1:30 to hear a tenor? On second thought there are people who will sit up for anything—even a tenor singing "You're Driving Me Crazy."

* * *

Ear-cuppers now hear dancing lessons on the air. What price television? Arthur Murray, the Nicholas Murray Butler of the dance world is the instructor. Not only is he to guide you—please put down the paper, John, and pay attention—in the fox trot and the tango but in something called the Cuban "Danzon."

We no sooner get all ready to master something called the Cuban "Rumba"—we've heard "Bolero" and "Peanut Vendor" enough to do it expertly—then we have to abandon our plans and go after the danzon.

* * *

To New York falls a new distinction. Gen. Harbord calls the town the "world's radio capital, the chief radio city on the globe." It has taken 15 years to wrest the glory from London.

* * *

"The Beautiful Blue Danube" has at last been aired as a vocal solo—by none other than Frances Ada . . . The name Machree continues to find a fascination for John McCormack. He has now added "What an Irishman Means by Machree" to his repertory.

* * *

That letter writing is still a major industry in the land is attested by M. Aylesworth's additional announcement that 2,000,000 fans put their pens to paper in the last year, six times as many as in 1926, the year his company was organized. There can't be any depression in the paper mills, either, it would seem. And radio fans form only a part of the great letter-writing army. Movie stars, stage stars, athletic stars get trainloads of mail each month.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

This is a night for all baritones to "listen in." Oley Speaks tells the inside story of how he happened to compose music for Kipling's poem "On the Road to Mandalay"—the piece de resistance for male singers of low range. Mr. Speaks discloses also how he was inspired to compose the beautiful number "Sylvia."

It is all part of the 9:30 program on WCAE conducted by our good friend Sigmund Spaeth.

If Stomach Kicks Up, Beware!

Pain, Belching, Gas Bloating, Heartburn Often Lead to More Serious Troubles

New Prescription, ACIDINE, Acts to End Torture and Danger of Acidity Quick

Don't run risk of getting serious, painful troubles that often result from burning acid stomach, gnawing pains before or after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn and other stomach ills. A remarkable modern prescription, ACIDINE, stops pain, gas and headache from acidity almost instantly, and quickly soothes dangerous stomach irritation.

ACIDINE is entirely different from other known remedies. Contains a marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods, which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 800 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes.

Five other scientific ingredients neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas formation from acids. No other known remedy contains the scientific combination to end acid stomach troubles.

Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE as the best thing they know of for acid indigestion and dyspepsia. Since last year thousands have used it and praised it highly.

To get rid of acid stomach torture quick, get ACIDINE from your druggist today. Costs only a few cents. Watch pain and gas disappear. Eat, drink and smoke all you like. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds your money. Get ACIDINE today.

BOYS PROTEST STREET BAN

Bellevue boys are protesting an edict forbidding playing of any games in the streets.

Police recently made the rounds and ordered all home-made basketball equipment dismantled from trees and poles, stopped hockey games and announced that no games hereafter could be played on any streets of the borough.

Police stated that the game-playing ban is contained in an old ordinance and was recently ordered enforced to protect children against automobiles and because of complaints against balls used in games damaging hedges and other property of residents.

2 MEN, WOMAN SEEK DIVORCE

William M. McAdoo, 609 Murtland street, has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court against Lular B. McAdoo, 359 Andrew street, charging desertion. They were married February 14, 1925, and parted April 27, 1929.

Mrs. Ruth A. Bushey, 5701 Stanton avenue, sued Harry E. Bushey, York Springs, Pa., charging indignities. They were married March 31, 1918.

Paul G. Binder, 6410 Howe street, charged desertion in suit against Gertrude Binder, 4800 North Broad street, Philadelphia. They were married April 11, 1929, and separated May 20 of the same year, their honeymoon lasting less than six weeks.

FAIL TO STAGE JOBLESS RALLY

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Ambridge today wondered just what happened to the "mammoth unemployment demonstration" promised for last night's meeting of the borough council.

The "Unemployed Council of Ambridge," led, according to Police Chief J. W. Flocker, by members of the International Labor Defense from Baltimore, had promised to present demands for relief. They were to include requests for $10 a day dole to every unemployed man, with allowance of $3 a day for each child, free water, gas, electricity, rent and milk. Albert Marsh, said by police to be the leader of the "Unemployed Council," attended the meeting, but made no effort to speak.

Crowds of the curious lined the streets before council's meeting time. A squad of police, some state policemen and a few county detectives kept their eyes open for trouble.

Rio Coffee Houses Close In War On Price Cut

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Coffee drinkers were in a quandary as a strike locked the doors of all coffee-houses. The lockup followed a government decree ordering reduction of one cent in the price of a "cup o' hot."

It was the first time in the history of this coffee exporting center that the beverage was not freely available.

Party Death Total 12 as 4 More Die

GRAFTON, N. D., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Four deaths yesterday brought to 12 the number of persons killed by food poisoning after attending a party given by Edward Hein near here Thursday. Of the five living guests one ate sparingly of the salad and was not made ill, another was barely affected and three others recovered after attacks.

MORE STREETS MADE ONE-WAY

Permanent one-way regulations on three streets and parking bans on two others were requested by the Better Traffic Committee to replace 60-day trial provisions in a communication to Public Safety Director James M. Cark.

The streets for which permanent one-way regulations are asked in a proposed ordinance are: Southbound on Colbert street between Locust and Bluff streets; northbound on Hooper street between Bluff and Seitz streets, and westbound on Locust street, between Hooper and Colbert streets.

Man Takes Poison Rushed to Hospital

John Mechlin, 40, of 2849 Carey way, is in the South Side Hospital in a critical condition. He swallowed a disinfectant early this morning, according to South Side police. Mechlin blamed family trouble for his act, authorities said.

Inky Hands Solve Rosenwald Theft

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Two inky pairs of hands came swinging down North Lincoln avenue and police discovered who stole a $25,000 six-reel motion picture filmed under the direction of Julius Rosenwald.

The hands, attached to two young neighborhood boys, were stained because the film had been taken from a laboratory before the indelible ink was dry. The film, which the philanthropist had taken on his European trip, was recovered undamaged.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

RADIO SINGER CAN'T AFFORD TO COUGH

BARBARA MAUREL

"A COUGH is one thing that will surely keep an entertainer 'off the air,'" says Barbara Maurel, contralto with Columbia Broadcasting System. "That's why many of us," she continues, "have learned to rely on Pertussin."

This safe and effective remedy is used in broadcasting studios. It relieves coughs promptly and frees the air passages, restoring the voice to normal.

Follow the radio world's example. Keep Pertussin handy. Remember, it's safe for every cough. Doctors have prescribed it for over 25 years—especially for children's coughs.

This extreme weather brings many coughs. Be careful of your cough! Get Pertussin today. Every druggist has it.

SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

DEMANDS CITY REPAIR STREET

Alleged impassable condition of Utilities way between South Dallas avenue and Glen Arden drive has been protested to Council by the Rev. J. F. Enright, pastor of St. Bede's Catholic Church, 509 South Dallas avenue.

Eighty children who attend St. Bede's Parochial School and members of the parish are inconvenienced by the condition of the thoroughfare, Father Enright said.

Property owners in that section sometime ago vacated part of Edgerton street without objection when the Spear estate decided to convert property into a new plan of building lots. The stipulation, however, was that the new Utilities way would be kept in passable condition. This has not been done, the petitioner says, and action is desired immediately.

POULTRY MEET OPENS FEB. 9

A two-day poultry school, at which experts from Penn State College and successful breeders will give talks, will be held in the Chamber of Commerce February 9 and 10, under the joint auspices of the chamber and the Allegheny County Agricultural Extension Association. The show will open with addresses by Henry R. Eby, Allegheny County farm agent, and Frank Shaffer, manager, natural resources division, of the chamber.

On the speakers' program will be: H. H. Kauffman, extension poultry specialist, Penn State College; M. A. Alessio, Treesdale Farms; Mrs. William Heinlein, Coraopolis; Alter Baldesberger, Bridgeville; C. M. Ferguson, Ohio State University; Floyd Wiltshire, McKeesport; W. H. McNees, Imperial; H. W. Herrmann, Crafton, and Harry Stinger, secretary Mutual Poultry Association, Pittsburgh.

POLICE CHIEF DISAPPEARS

The Missing Persons Bureau today was asked to aid in search for Chief of Police Warren E. Burke, of Neville township, who disappeared yesterday morning.

According to the Neville township authorities, Burke, 33, and married, left the township municipal building yesterday morning saying he was going to the city. He failed to return.

Mrs. Burke was prostrated today by her husband's disappearance. They have two children.

Burke has been chief of the Neville township police for about five years. He previously had been a patrolman and later was engaged in police work in the Sewickley valley.

He is described as five feet eight inches tall, weight 165 pounds, gray eyes and black hair. He wore a light suit, blue topcoat and derby hat.

WMBJ INQUIRY ORDERED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Upon the request of the Federal Radio Commission, William D. Terrell, chief of the Radio Supervisory Corps of the Department of Commerce, today forwarded instructions to the Federal radio supervisor at Detroit to investigate whether WMBJ, Wilkinsburg, has been on the air in defiance of a commission order denying a license renewal to the Rev. John Sproul.

WMBJ was heard on the air last night as well as Sunday, Pittsburgh listeners reported. The WMBJ license expired Saturday.

I Was Skinny, Run-down. Gained 34 lbs in Few Weeks

"I was so skinny and rundown friends thought I had a fatal disease. At last I tried Ironized Yeast and gained 34 pounds in few weeks."—Paul Slatnik.

Skinny, weak, nervous people are delighted as new Ironized Yeast adds 5 to 15 pounds in 2 weeks. Clears scaly sores, body quick to strong, well-developed form. Blotchy skin clears like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation end overnight. Sound sleep, pep quick.

Two great tonics in one—special weight-building Brewer's Yeast and strengthening Iron. Peasant little tubelets far stronger than unmodified yeast. Results in one-half time. No yeast-y taste or gas.

Applied freely, rubbed in well, and covered with flannel, the powerful ingredients penetrate deeply into the tissues, lessening congestion, easing spasm, soothing irritated nerves, bringing rest and comfort. Good for every ache and pain. Insist upon the original.

NEW PLAN UNIFIES RELIEF WORK HERE

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

Frank J. Lanahan, the iron man, staunch defender of McKees Rocks, sat next to Gov. Pinchot and United States Senator Moses at the Chamber of Commerce dinner in Harrisburg a few nights ago. After Mr. Lanahan had inserted a few words about the beauty of his Rox, the Governor told two stories which appealed to him.

Mr. Pfarr

During the campaign Mr. Pinchot had occasion to visit a little inn in a rural county, where he was greeted by a masculine, dominating type of woman. As the candidate stood in the lobby the hostess surveyed him critically from head to foot, then spoke out:

"Kid, you look good to me."

When he was the governor four years ago, Pinchot would enjoy strolls about Harrisburg. Easily recognized, pedestrians greeted him right and left.

But one day he dropped into a bookstore and was idly examining a shelf when the clerk approached, took him by the arm and said, kindly:

"Well, Dad, what can I do for you?"

Caustic Senator Moses ("Sons of wild jackasses"), who described Congress as a body which is considering what it thinks is the country's business, created an opportunity to josh the Governor about the prohibition pledge which Pinchot requested state employes to take. Thus did Senator Moses quote Horace:

"And yet when mighty Caesar banned
The wine jar—and himself foreswore it,
With all the loyal in the land,
We simply grinned and bore it."

We hadn't intended to say a word about Waffle Month, or Waffle Week, or Waffle Season, or whatever it is, because the waffle press agent is a good friend of ours and we wanted to exhibit our independence. But he has written a bit of poetry which is such a classic that we don't have the courage to keep it from the people. It is in the language used by our best poets (English):

William Tell was a hero,
William Pfarr was, too.
Tell immortalized the apple,
And Pfarr the waffle knew.

* * *

One who signs himself "Bob" and apparently was in too much of a hurry sent a letter a few days ago with an address which is herewith reproduced.

Jimmy Costin is the author of a story which might well crack the foundations of that ancient but not so honorable institution of poker. A young housewife reluctantly allowed her husband to bring the boys in each Saturday night for a long session. She reasoned that it was better to have hubby comparatively safe at home.

Each Sunday she arose to see her living room a mess of tobacco stubs, ashes and what-not. And then she laid down the law. She informed the poker players that henceforth they would contribute to a "kitty," which was to be her reward for cleaning up. The first "kitty" amounted to $27, and the others have also pleased her. She's planning now on starting two games and buying a sealskin.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 3.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Back to the old home state and despite all the evils that have hit the whole world, she looks pretty good. The worst thing that can happen to you in Oklahoma City is to hit an oil well, for you can't sell the oil. Appeared before the Oklahoma legislature in joint session and injected a little seriousness into what for one month has been a comedy deluxe. Had a couple of hours of food and conversation with "Alfalfa" Bill Murray, America's most colorful governor. They will never impeach this baby, he's too slick for 'em. He's got lots of common sense, and if the people want a good government he will give it to 'em. Sometimes I doubt if they do, but watch old "Alfalfa." He will grow right in that capitol.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

Pershing Forced Petain's Apology For Slur at Army

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By JOHN J. PERSHING,

Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Succeeding chapters of "My Experiences in the World War" will appear daily and Sunday exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

A large party, including Col. E. M. House, the American delegates to the Inter-Allied conference, Ambassador William G. Sharp and Lord Northcliffe, went by special train from Paris December 4, 1917, to our training area, stopping at my Chaumont headquarters en route.

On the train I had an interesting conversation with Lord Northcliffe, of the British Air Board, regarding the formation of an American army and its transportation overseas. Lord Northcliffe thought his government should do more to help with shipping, but like most Englishmen he believed it best for us to send our men for service with the British. He argued in favor of a proposal that Mr. Lloyd George had recently made to Mr House that we should incorporate in their units any infantry that we might not be able to organize immediately into complete divisions of our own.

Gen. Pershing

"It is all very well," I said, "to make such an appeal to us, but it is impossible to ignore our national viewpoint. The people themselves would not approve, even though the President and his advisors should lean that way. We cannot permit our men to serve under another flag except in an extreme emergency, and then only temporarily."

I also insisted that we could contribute more largely to allied success by the use of the American Army as a unit.

Continuing, I said that there was nothing vainglorious in our attitude, but that no people with a grain of national pride would consent to furnish men to build up the army of another nation. I pointed out that misunderstandings and recriminations would inevitably follow any reverse by such a mixed force, and that his government had used none of their colonials in any such way.

Same Appeal

It is quite certain that Northcliffe had not considered the subject from our point of view, for, at the conclusion of the conversation, he very frankly said that we were perfectly right. After that, so far as I am aware, he became a consistent advocate of an American Army.

In another conversation, Mr. House asked my views of the proposal above referred to which had been sent to him by Mr. Lloyd George about putting our men into their armies. The memorandum in question had been forwarded to Lord Reading for delivery to Mr. House, with a note by Mr. Lloyd George as follows:

"2nd December, 1917.

"My Dear R.

"The C. I. G. S. (chief of the imperial general staff) is very anxious you should place the enclosed before Col. House. I entirely concur and urge its acceptance. We shall be hard pressed to hold our own and keep Italy standing during 1918. Our man-power is pretty well exhausted. We can only call up men of 45-50 and boys of 17. France is done.

"The American soldiers will not be ready to fight as an army until late in 1918. Our experience proves that meanwhile we must keep the fighting going. Even half-trained American companies or battalions would fight well if mixed with two or three years veterans. Beg H. to consider this favorably.

"Yours,

"D. L. G."

Enclosure.

The first part sets forth Germany's probable course, Russian defection, Allied shortage of man power, and time required for American divisions to become available, and continues:

"Would America therefore be ready to help in another way, as a temporary measure? When she first came into the war we hoped she might send some men

70 CITY JOBS PERILED BY FUND LACK

Budget Fails to Provide For Pipe Line Workers; Lang Appeals to Council

Unless additional funds are provided at the rate of $25,000 monthly by Council to finance general pipe line activities, 70 men employed in the Bureau of Water face a layoff, a communication presented yesterday by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang said.

No stipulation for the work was made in the councilmanic budget for 1931 as approved by Council and the Mayor, Lang pointed out. Funds up to February 1 were available for wages.

Most of the work done by the employes is in connection with state and county road and street improvement work.

The councilmanic committee on finance will take action on the matter, it was intimated. That committee was scheduled to meet today.

TRUCKMAN HELD IN STABBING

H. M. Harper, 39, of Charleston, W. Va., was held by East End police today in connection with the stabbing of James Yost, 37, a fellow worker, also of Charleston, in Penn avenue, near Frankstown avenue, last night.

Both men, police said, are employed by the Nelson Transfer Company, of Charleston, and arrived here yesterday with a load of household goods. Shortly after they alighted from the van in Penn avenue they became involved in a dispute. Harper, police say, drew a knife and stabbed Yost in the right side. Yost was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital, where his condition was reported serious.

FREED BY JURY IN ATTACK

A jury in Criminal Court today not only acquitted Hugh Williams, of Kennedy avenue, of a charge of aggravated assault and battery, but placed the costs on the plaintiff, Dr. G. E. Henderson, a dentist, of Perrysville avenue.

Dr. Henderson testified that Williams beat him up when he went to the Williams home to collect a bill of $1.

Williams retorted that Dr. Henderson hit him, too. Williams said the bill was for an estimate of dental work for his daughter's teeth.

Mission President To Talk at Banquet

The Rev. Dr. J. Bradley Markward, president of the Lutheran Home Mission Council of America, will be the speaker at the twenty-second annual banquet of the Lutherans of the Pittsburgh district, in the Fort Pitt Hotel, Thursday evening. His subject will be "Modern Men and Some Timeless Fundamentals."

Overbrook Man Held in Still Raid

Constables and prohibition agents yesterday raided the home of Benjamin Less, 35, Ormond street, Overbrook, seized a 100-gallon still and destroyed 22 barrels of mash, they reported. Less was committed to the county jail in default of bond.

JOB INSURANCE ACTION URGED

Unemployment insurance is a subject calling for immediate and serious consideration, Charles F. Armstrong, of Leechburg, newly-appointed state insurance commissioner, declared at the fifth annual banquet of the Insurance Club of Pittsburgh in the William Penn Hotel last night. More than 800 persons attended. Armstrong said:

"Civilization will fail utterly if it neglects to provide sustenance for those made idle through no fault of their own in this machine age."

Other speakers were Charles Adams, of Detroit, executive vice president of the American Life Insurance Company; Charles H. Bokman, new president of the club; Judge W. Heber Dithrich of Common Pleas Court; Charles A. Reid, retiring president, and James A. Beha, general manager and counsel of the National Bureau Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

25 Cases Decided By Zoning Board

Decisions in 25 cases referred to it on appeals from decisions of the superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection were made public today by the Zoning Board of Adjustment. The report showed that eight appeals were denied, three granted outright, 12 granted with conditions so as to more nearly comply with provisions of the zoning ordinance, and two were withdrawn.

BLIND MAN FIRES HOME, ENDS LIFE

An 82-year-old man, partly blind, was dead today and his home in ashes, both by his own hand.

George Myers, almost sightless for years, set fire to his frame dwelling near Hall Station, Patton Township, yesterday while his wife was away on a visit, according to the coroner's report.

While his dwelling went up in flames, the aged man groped his way from the place, with a shotgun in his hand. In a field nearby the shot himself in the jaw.

Neighbors, attracted to the scene by the flames, searched the ruins for trace of Meyers, but found none. A hunt began which ended last night when he was found some distance from the place where he had wounded himself. He was carried into the home of relatives where he died last night.

Missionary to Speak In Fund Appeal

The Rev. M. B. S. Legare, Presbyterian Sunday School missionary to Mexico, will appeal for assistance in the work of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions in several towns in the Pittsburgh district, February 25, 26 and 27. He will tell of his experiences to church audiences in East McKeesport, Elizabeth and Belle Vernon.

Planes in Flight Give Wireless Service

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Regular wireless service from airplanes in flight opened on the Berlin - Dresden-Prague-Vienna airplanes, with radio messages to the German postmaster general and the minister of transportation.

The wireless receivers of the airport's closest to the machine in flight will pick up the messages and relay them by telephone to the nearest telegraph office.

END OF TOWING EVILS ASKED

The board of directors of the Pittsburgh Motor Club today addressed communications to City Council and the Department of Public Safety, urging immediate action to end the contract system of towing and storage of automobiles seized by police on Pittsburgh streets.

The letters declare that during the last eight years thousands of complaints have reached the club of injustices of the system.

GALE SISTERS DROP CAREERS

Four individual ambitions for careers passed for the Gale Sisters when their kid-day dancing lessons drew the attention of their home-town, San Francisco, and because they were quadruplets, the professional stage beckoned three years ago.

So the four girls today jokingly reflected how Jane forgot interior decorating, June never became a writer, Joan never be a physician and Jean goes through the trials of stage hardships instead of enjoying the leisure hours she sought for pleasure. They may look alike but their temperaments are different, their mother, Mrs. Jack Gilmartin remarked at their William Penn hotel suite.

The sisters, who bear the distinction of being the only quadruplets on the stage, became professional dancers on the West Coast, first appearing in the large motion picture theaters. George White found them there and engaged them for his "Flying High" production, their first big production.

They agree the only habit that is shared alike is dining. When it comes to appearing on the street, they always go out in pairs so as not to attract attention because of their identical costumes.

Multi-Motor Truck On Display Tonight

Featuring the multi-motor principle, now used in the aviation industry, a new dual engine, six-wheel, heavy-duty motor truck, will be on display tonight for the first time by Mueller Brothers at 5101 Baum boulevard.

Manufactured by the Relay Motors Corporation of Lima, O., the truck fulfills the prediction of automotive engineers that the next step in truck manufacturing would be toward multi-motored vehicles. New engineering principles are involved and operating costs per ton mile are lowered.

AID PLEDGED BY PINCHOT GROUP

Emergency Committee Soon To Launch its Activities; Opposes Using Public Cash

The program of unemployment relief formulated by the Allegheny County Emergency Committee, with funds now being raised by prominent employers launching the movement, is expected to be completed today or tomorrow and speedily placed in operation.

All relief measures have been virtually centralized in this committee, which was pledged the hearty co-operation of the Allegheny County Unemployment Committee, which organized yesterday as a part of Gov. Pinchot's statewide program.

A resolution by the unemployment committee commended the efforts of the emergency committee and authorized Edgar J. Kaufmann, its chairman, to report to Clyde King, secretary of revenue, at Harrisburg, that it is in sympathy with the movement launched by the emergency committee and is ready to serve as the latter desires.

The resolution also approved the attitude of the emergency committee in opposition to city, county or state funds as a means of relief.

HOTEL ASKS AID IN RELIEF WORK

Councilmanic financial aid has been asked by the Keystone Hotel, of 1112 Forbes street, in caring for a number of destitute and homeless men who have sought relief and rest at that institution.

In a letter presented Council yesterday, accompanied by a report on activities carried out in feeding and housing the men during the past year, the operators said the work was a great burden and aid should be forthcoming.

It is expected that the councilmanic Committee on Finance will devise some method to give the help soon, Councilmen said.

ANDERSON ASKS JOB REPORT

Councilman Charles Anderson today was determined to know just how the work done by the city Department of Public Works as unemployment relief was progressing, as compared to that done as the department's regular routine business.

Anderson yesterday made a motion asking that Director Edward G. Lang, of the Public Works Department, furnish such a report at his earliest convenience.

Plaza License Renewed, Alabam Ban Stands

Describing Joe Ruben's black and tan Club Alabam as a "low dive," Public Safety Director James M. Clark today announced he would not renew the permit of the Wylie avenue resort.

The safety head dealt less harshly with Eddie Klein's Plaza restaurant. After eliciting promises from the owners of the downtown cabaret that they would obey the 12:45 closing order, Clark renewed the permit today.

Yesterday Director Clark refused to renew the Plaza and Club Alabam permits. Last night he said he sent his undercover men to learn the extent of the gayety in both places, but the director did not divulge the nature of their reports. Reports that dancing went on as usual last night at the Plaza reached Clark's office, but the safety head made no comment.

Director Clark announced the revoking of the Plaza and Club Alabam permits would be a lesson to other cabaret proprietors. Others violating the closing order will meet with the same fate, Clark said.

Violations of the closing order was brought "home" to Clark at 1 o'clock Saturday night. Unable to sleep, the director thumbed the dial of his radio, and, to his chagrin, a cheerful voice announced:

"The next number on the program will be 'You're Driving Me Crazy.' This is the Plaza Restaurant, folks."

Came Monday and bad news for the Plaza and the Club Alabam.

LANG SUBMITS IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Projects Before Finance Committee Will Provide Employment for Scores

Street repaving contract ordinances, involving expenditure of $235,000 and prospective employment for several score men, were to be acted upon by the Finance Committee of City Council today.

The ordinances were introduced to Council yesterday by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang. They authorize the setting aside of $235,000 for costs in the city's area, and $122,700 from a code account for costs in the area used by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

WALSH REFUSES REDS PERMITS

Police Supt. P. P. Walsh today announced he had refused permits for a Communist meeting at Liberty avenue and Grant street at noon next Tuesday, and for a gathering in East Park, North Side, at 5 p. m. the same day, on the ground that they would interfere with traffic.

The first meeting was to be a send-off for delegates leaving Pennsylvania Station for Washington to present demands to Congress. The other was to be a demonstration of unemployed. Walsh said he offered to discuss different sites for both meetings, but those making application refused.

Seminary Students To Hear Dr. Lambie

Students at the Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological Seminary, North Side, were to hear Dr. Thomas A. Lambie deliver an illustrated lecture on Abyssinia at 8 p. m. today. Dr. Lambie is connected with the Sudan Interior Mission.

Einstein's Theory? Here It Is in 50 Words

An affable gentleman in a green shirt and tie, and a natty brown suit, sat in the foyer of the Fort Pitt Hotel this afternoon, and explained Einstein's Theory of Relativity to a reporter whose City Editor told him to get it in 50 words.

Dr. Clyde Fisher, of New York, curator of Visual Instruction and Astronomy at the American Museum of Natural History, who will give an illustrated lecture on the subject at the Y. M. & W. H. A. in Oakland tonight, plunged into the famous premise with the confidence of knowledge. He said:

"Einstein's theory of relativity continues where Newton, Kepler and Galileo, our greatest minds on physics, astronomy and the natural laws of motion, left off. These men believed that time, mass and space were definitely fixed. Einstein believes those vary in relation to the velocity of motion. Standing on the shoulders of the mental giants who preceded him, Einstein approaches nearer the truth.

"His theory of relativity affirms that mass and space are in relation to time and the velocity of motion, as seen by different observers, from different positions. His theory promises that everything that exists—the entire solar system—is finite."

Dr. Fisher's youthful eyes beamed. He ran his fingers through a shock of grey hair, took a scientific treatise from his pocket, chuckled a little, and resumed:

"All but two of the great living scientists and astronomers have accepted Einstein's theory."

Dr. Fisher arose, smiling widely.

"When Einstein landed in New York he said it would take three days to explain his theory. If this has to be done in 50 words, I'll let you pick out the fifty."

BRICK HURLING THUGS HUNTED

South Side police today were looking for the occupants of an automobile who shortly after midnight threw padded bricks through the front windows of two jewelry stores, stealing several necklaces from one.

A window valued at $100 was shattered in the store of John Grau, of 1314 Carson street. At the store of J. Seigel, 1608 Carson street, a window valued at $75 was broken and several necklaces stolen.

SANDWICH SHOP, CHAIN STORE HELD UP

Gunmen Downtown and in Knoxville Escape With Cash; Suspect Identified

Two men, one of them armed, shortly before 6 a. m., today, entered the B-G sandwich shop at 421 Fifth avenue, held up Roy Loxterman, 23, of Beechview, night waiter, and escaped with $30, which they forced Loxterman to take from the cash register.

They made no attempt to molest Adolph Gronech, a patron, who was eating at a counter nearby, or two other employes of the restaurant.

HOLD UP STORE

Two young gunmen held up L. E. Smelsire, manager of a P. H. Butler store at 214 Matthew street, Knoxville, today, and escaped with considerable cash. One of the bandits forced Smelsire into a rear room and felled him with a blackjack. He said he did not know how much money the robbers obtained.

Thieves last night forced open a safe in the Sweet Manufacturing Company's office, 281 Corliss street, and escaped with an undetermined amount of money, city detectives were notified.

GAS STATION ROBBED

Three young men held up James Ferrari, attendant at a gasoline station in Duquesne avenue, Duquesne, last midnight, and stole $30 from the cash register. Ferrari obtained the license number of their car. It had been stolen and later was found abandoned in Braddock.

Joseph Schultz, 23, 116 Washington street, was held for further investigation in connection with the holdup of the Central News Agency, 407 Strawberry way, on January 28, in which $500 was taken.

Schultz was identified by Charles Morall, night manager of the news agency, and D. J. Sonforth, newsboy, victims of the bandits, as the "lookout" man during the robbery.

DEATH SUSPECT TO TESTIFY

On trial for murder in connection with the death of Lawrence D. Green, 26, of 256 Edmond street, Philip Ruffer, confectionery owner, of 5427 Butler street, will take the stand today in his own defense.

Assistant District Attorney Earl Adair, in charge of the prosecution, completed his case late yesterday after bringing out testimony to the effect that Green was shot by Ruffer after an argument over payment for a 5 cent bottle of pop.

Ruffer is being defended by Attorney Frank F. Canuti. According to commonwealth witnesses, Green refused to pay for pop he drank in Ruffer's store. Later he returned to the store and again refused to pay Ruffer, whereupon Ruffer secured a revolver and shot him.

Receiver for Shoe Company Named

Louis Shaparlo, of Pittsburgh, was appointed receiver of the Manhattan Shoe Company, 130 Fifth avenue, by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, following the filing of an involuntary bankruptcy petition against the concern by three creditors, who presented claims aggregating $740.82.

Installment Tax Paying Voted in New Castle

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—And now the installment plan as the method of paying taxes.

The city council has instructed the city treasurer not to make levies at present for city taxes on properties whose owners are financially embarrassed, due to business depression, and to permit those owners to pay their taxes by installments. The levies will be deferred at least until the first Monday in June, the regular time for the sale of properties for taxes.

FIRE LOSS LIGHT IN HOMESTEAD

The annual report of the Homestead fire department, made by Chief Herman Samuels to the borough council last night, showed that during the year the department answered 225 alarms, of which 17 were false. Total loss to buildings was $50,000.

Chief Samuels said the Homestead fire loss was the smallest of any borough in the state.

CHICAGO CHIEF AT FIRE SCHOOL

Five hundred watchmen, janitors, building superintendents and caretakers are expected to hear Chief Frank C. McAuliffe, of Chicago, nationally known fire prevention expert and a hero of the Eastland steamboat disaster, who will speak at tonight's session of the Chamber of Commerce "Fire School." He was to arrive in Pittsburgh this morning, and be a luncheon guest of the "Fire School" committee, B. A. Robinson, chairman, in the Chamber at noon.

Lack of Witnesses Halts Death Trial

The case against E. W. Davenport, indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death of Thomas P. Gerlantz, 11, of Universal, was postponed indefinitely late yesterday. The reason given was that defense witnesses were unable to attend the trial at this time. The boy died of injuries sustained when he was struck by an automobile reported driven by Davenport.

CORONER OPENS GANG SLAYING INQUIRY

Two Prisoners, 10 Others Free on Bail to Face Jury; Suspects Firm in Story

Coroner W. J. McGregor today took charge of the investigation into the fatal shooting of Walter A. Thompson, of 814 Madison avenue, in the home of Adolph H. Giger, in Jack's Run road, Ross Township.

He and deputies visited the scene and later set next Monday at 10 a. m. for the inquest. Ten young men at liberty under bail as witnesses were ordered subpenaed to appear.

The coroner planned to obtain statements from the 10 men and, if possible, from the two prisoners who have been jailed—Giger himself and Emil Schoen, of East Orchard avenue, Ross Township, who owns the house in which Giger lives.

TELL OF FIGHT

County detectives said Thompson was killed as he broke into the Giger home. The detectives quoted Giger as admitting that he had sawed off the shotgun with which Thompson is believed to have been shot, after a fight with Thompson in an East Ohio street restaurant last week.

Giger and Schoen were firm in their story that Thompson was shot by one of the dozen men with whom he had invaded the Giger home.

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren set the bond of 10 men whom Thompson is alleged to have invited to go with him to the Giger home to "see a big fight," at $1,000 each. They gave themselves up after informations against them had been made before Alderman George Anderson charging each with entering a building to commit a felony. Those named in the informations, according to detectives, were Albert Atkinson, of 229 Hopkins street; Andrew and Leo Brahm, of 333 Dunlevy street; Victor Machura, of 3631 Baytree street; Herbert Seidl, of 50 Venture street; Walter Laitsch, of 3621 East street; Henry Dinkel, of 3654 Evergreen road; Arnold Jackson, of 331 Dunlevy street; Andrew Dinkel, of 303 Dunlevy street, and Clayton Springer, of 3900½ Evergreen road.

DENIES SELLING RUM

Atkinson told detectives, they said, the whole crowd fled when Schoen waved a sawed-off shotgun and threatened to shoot if they did not leave.

Detectives revealed that one of Thompson's friends declared that he had purchased whisky at the Giger home. Giger denied selling whisky. Another man who was said to have been in the house at the time was being sought.

MAN HURT, PAIR HELD FOR QUIZ

Two men were held in North Side Police Station and a third was under technical arrest in Mercy Hospital today while police investigated their story that the one had been struck by a hit-run driver on the Sixteenth Street Bridge.

William V. McDonough, 38, a plumber, of 4928 Baum boulevard, was detained in the hospital after being treated for an injury above one eye. Anthony Flaherty, 31, of 4625 Carter way, and Michael Burke, 29, of Bennett street, alleged companions, told police McDonough stepped off the sidewalk and was brushed by an automobile.

Louis Willard Lyonses Announce Engagement Of Daughter, Betty

I have some very interesting news today. The Louis Willard Lyonses, of Beacon street, made known the engagement of their daughter, Betty Lyons, to Harry Clay Givan, Jr., son of Mrs. Henry Clay Givan, of Nashville, Tenn. Betty attended the Thurston School and Martha Washington Seminary, in Washington. Her fiance is a graduate of Cornell University, class of '24, and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

* * *

After the Oliver-Robinson wedding yesterday afternoon and the dinner and reception, some folks attended the first nights at the Alvin, where "Flying High" attracted a crowded house, and at the Nixon, where a mystery in a subway diverted a puzzled audience.

Society At Shows

I noticed Margaret Stewart in the foyer, wearing a mink coat, chatting with the Simon T. Pattersons. Mrs. Patterson had chosen a dinner dress of hydrangea blue crepe with a matching hat of felt and a black caracul coat.

Ellen McClay arrived with Harriet Wainwright and a party. I believe Mrs. Harris E. Wainwright, Harriet's mother, and Mrs. Samuel McClay were with them. Both girls wore long black velvet wraps with white fox shawl collars framing their faces. Mary Carroll I saw too, and she wore hydrangea blue lace.

* * *

Before I tell you about some of the guests who attended the wedding yesterday of Mary Oliver, daughter of the Henry Olivers, of Edgeworth, and William Christopher Robinson, Jr., son of the William Christopher Robinsons, of Sewickley Heights and Ridge avenue, North Side, I want to chat about a few of the interesting things about the ceremony that I didn't have space to mention yesterday. The ceremony took place at 5 o'clock in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sewickley. I repeat. The bridal party entered to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, sung by a vested choir of 40 members, and left the church to the accompaniment of Mendelssohn's wedding march played on the chimes.

Vested Choir

* * *

And the reception at the home of the Olivers was a large affair, with the bridal table in the form of a U, laid with covers for 55 guests, most elaborately decorated. Alternating the length of the table were vases of calla lilies and white lilacs, tall crystal candelabra tied with white tulle holding ivory tapers, crystal balls and crystal trees. The table was laid with cloth of silver. The reception rooms were banked with Talisman roses and forsythia.

At the church I noticed the bride's mother in garnet lace and chiffon with a matching felt hat, and Mrs. Robinson in emerald green crepe with the skirt formed of tiers edged with tulle, with which she wore a black baku hat with a smart bow of green. Her shoulder corsage was of deep purple orchids. Althea Robinson, sister of the bridegroom, wore a frock of peach crepe with a black hat, and a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. James Verner Scaife chose an ensemble of rust wool, with a collar of sable, and a rust turban. Margaret Stewart I caught a glimpse of, and Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon in a brown broadcloth ensemble. Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, Jr., chose green crepe for her gown, with a black caracul coat and green felt hat.

Indoor weather lends itself to scientific and automatic control, Miss Margaret Ingels, woman air-conditioning engineer, told the Women's Press Club yesterday afternoon when she spoke on "Doing Something About the Weather." Experiments and tests have shown that it is almost impossible to use up all the oxygen in a room and that it is not the air that is breathed but the air surrounding the body that makes one uncomfortable. By controlling motion, temperature and humidity of indoor weather, the body heat loss is what it should be and comfort is thus obtained, she showed.

FISHER ENJOYS PRIVATE LIFE

INDIANA, Pa., Feb. 3.—Visibly relieved by freedom from official duties, former governor John S. Fisher is looking after personal affairs here, with no definite plans for the future.

Asked as to the contrast of private with official life, he said:

"It seems like I had thrown a great weight off my shoulders and that I was carrying no burden at all."

Concerning a report that he might be named as the new president of Westminster College, at New Wilmington, Fisher said:

"The post has not been tendered me and I have given no thought to it. I am just gathering together some loose ends of my affairs that have been neglected for the last four or five years. My future plans are indefinite."

U. S. to Aid League On Liberian Slavery

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The United States today accepted an invitation from the Council of the League of Nations to accept membership on an international committee which is to consider ways and means of dealing with the slavery situation in Liberia.

The committee will be composed of representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Spain, Venezuela and the United States and will meet in Geneva at a date to be announced.

20th Century Club Hears Author

He has never found an American who knows what the Monroe doctrine is, nor one who wants it tampered with. It is not a doctrine, but a dogma, a dogma of the infallibility of the American president and of the immaculate conception of America's foreign policy. It has been grotesquely obsolete since 1917.

So Salvador de Madariaga, noted author and scholar, said in his address on "Relations Between Spanish Speaking and English Speaking Americans" before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning. He contrasted the two Americas, geographically and temperamentally, showing that the South Americans are inactive, non-co-operative and individualistic.

Fifty years ago the Monroe Doctrine kept out of America a European system that was bad. Today it is keeping out a system that is its superior, Senor de Madariaga went on to say, remarking that "The United States is the most important European nation today."

By its protection of countries that do not wish such protection, the United States is unconsciously developing the ill-will of its South American neighbors, the speaker pointed out. The policy of the League of Nations in Hungary and Austria, which has left behind no ill-feeling but a good economic situation, was compared with the policy of the United States in Haiti, Domingo and Nicaragua.

Mrs. David Alter, who attended the Cause and Cure of War Conference, will make her report to the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at its meeting Saturday in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Dr. Halidas Nag, the speaker for the afternoon, is visiting the United States through the co-operation of the University of Calcutta, the Indian Inter-University Board and the Greater India Society. He has been commissioned by the last organization, of which he is honorary secretary, to prepare a handbook on "The Cultural Centers of the United States" and will visit a number of colleges, universities and other institutions of learning in order to gather first-hand material.

Indian To Speak

Dr. Nag was invited to lecture at the Geneva School of International Studies last summer. At one time he was professor of history at the Scottish Church College in Calcutta and later was principal of Mahinda College, Galle, Ceylon. He is now lecturer in the department of ancient Indian history and culture at the University of Calcutta. His lecture on Saturday, which is open to the public, will be on "Indian Culture and the Modern Indian Renaissance."

INFORMAL DINNER FROCKS FEATURE LONG SLEEVES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—It is possible, though not polite or pleasant to again dip our sleeves in our dinner soup. Which is just a facetious reminder that long, flowing sleeves are appearing on the latest informal dinner frocks. These simple frocks of chiffon cut on picturesque lines with simple bodices and wide skirts are most refreshing. And the long sleeves add the last touch of charm and dignity to these frocks which are becoming highly popular here. Then, too, they are made in bright colors, a most welcome note for a dinner party on a typical winter evening. Nearly every woman is including one or more such dresses executed in some high shade, such as vivid green, saffron yellow or gay rose shades, in her evening wardrobe. And they will no doubt be much seen during the spring at small and informal dinners. The idea was launched by Chanel who constantly gives most wearable novelties to women just when they are beginning to despair of ever finding anything new under the sartorial sun.

* * *

AS WE HAVE BEEN acquainting you with a new Chanel wrinkle we are adding to your interest by sending two sketches of Chanel models. The first is the dinner frock about which we have written. A sketch of it will readily acquaint readers with the salient points which we have already outlined. The long sleeves are most graceful and add the last touch of charm to these most enchanting frocks.

* * *

THE OTHER drawing is of a frock destined for more formal wear. It is of black chiffon. The bodice and upper part of the skirt are draped closely around the figure and shirred intricately at the center back and also in front, although to a lesser degree. A flaring flounce sweeps the instep and is of even length, as in the case of most dresses of formal evening type.

TRIPLE KILLING LAID TO FEUD

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—The deliberate execution of three men in the gambling house of "Wide Open" Smith in the business section here today recalled details of the St. Valentine's Day massacre of seven gangsters in Chicago two years ago this month.

Bodies of the three victims were found late yesterday, covered with brush and sticks in a wayside ditch near Granite City, 10 miles north of here. Each man had been shot eight to 10 times with sub-machine guns and automatic pistols.

The victims were identified as David Hoffman, 39, owner of a jewelry and men's furnishing store; Joseph P. Carroll, 42, a handbook employe, and Theodore Kaminski, 24, a former St. Louis chauffeur.

Police said Carroll had been arrested 15 times and was known as an intimate of gangsters. Authorities believe the killings were the outcome of a gambling feud. They announced Carl Shelton, of East St. Louis, and Tommy Hayes, of St. Louis, both notorious police characters, are being sought for questioning.

PETITION URGES TRAFFIC LIGHT

More than 100 persons have requested City Council and the Department of Public Sofety to install an eltctric "stop and go" light at Herron and Liberty avenues, in the Sixth Ward. The petition was presented yesterday.

In recent months, the petitioners aver, five persons have met death in accidents at the allegedly dangerous intersection and a number of injuries to pedestrians and motorists have been caused.

The matttr was referred to the councilmanic committee on public safety.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—With strong cross-hangar winds preventing removal of the Navy dirigible Los Angeles from her berth here, the flight of the ship to Panama today was postponed until tomorrow or Thursday. The Los Angeles is to take part in naval maneuvers off Panama this month.

Six Firemen Held As Incendiary Thrill Seekers

HARRISBURG, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Six members of Harrisburg volunteer fire companies were held for court at preliminary hearings on charges of setting 13 fires for the "thrill" of helping to fight them. The total damage from the fires was estimated by city officials at more than $300,000.

Four of the men entered pleas of not guilty, but all were held under bail ranging from $500 for one who was implicated in only one fire, to $7,500 for Hudson R. Hess, 27, alleged leader of the group. Hess is a former state highway patrolman. His alleged confession was said by police to have given the first intimation of the firemen's responsibility. Hudson, they said, became conscience-stricken because another man had been charged with setting the fires and had been committed to the state hospital.

DRYS ROUTED IN N. Y. ASSEMBLY

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—In the first test of strength at the 1931 session of the New York Legislature, wets rode roughshod over the drys and today had chalked up three decisive victories in the assembly urging repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law.

Crushing all opposition in the greatest display of wet sentiment in the Legislature since prohibition first was written into the Federal Constitution, the wets forced a bill out of the Judiciary Committee demanding that Congress call a national constitutional convention to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

Then they proceeded to adopt two resolutions, one requesting Congress to submit the question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to conventions in various states and the other demanding that Congress repeal the Volstead law.

HELD FOR COURT IN RUM CHARGE

Fred Owens, 39, admitted Hill bootlegger, whom Magistrate Leo Rothenberg freed on payment of a small fine after arraignment on a charge of violating the Snyder act, was held for court today charged with violating the Snyder act. He was arraigned before Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Court. Robert Frod, 25, Negro, 1312 Bedford avenue, was held on a similar charge.

Owens, arrested early in November, admitted operating a whisky cutting plant where police confiscated 723 pints of whisky. Freed on payment of a $100 fine, Owens was rearrested on orders of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, but failed to appear in court for trial. He was said to be confined in a hospital at the time.

Arrested three weeks ago, Owens had been at liberty under $2,000 bail.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

MAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THIS DENTIFRICE

After all, sound teeth and gums play an important part in promoting health and success. Still, it wouldn't be surprising if you are sometimes confused as to just what constitutes proper mouth hygiene. There are so many different dentifrices and conflicting theories.

But read the following summary of the answers received by a prominent research institution from an investigation made among 50,000 practicing dentists. This expert opinion points to one kind of dentifrice.

95% agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet;

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Isn't this, indeed, real evidence that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums? It is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia.

Squibb's contains no grit, no astringents, nothing which might injure. It cleans beautifully—but safely. It is delightfully refreshing.

By SALLY MARTIN

A 'Phony' Makes Plea for Undeserved Sympathy

This column is real stuff. It is not "made up in an office." The letters in it are from actual people. None are ever faked. It is not necessary. Each mail brings hundreds and as far as I honestly know, they are true letters presenting honest problems. I answer them with all the wisdom I have. But now and then I suspect some smarty tries to strut his or her stuff. And when that happens I intend to treat the writer exactly as I'd treat any other cheat.

There is such a writer today. By the artful framing of a vicious letter she is trying to discredit this work. Maybe she'll get by with it. And maybe she won't! Listen:

"Dear Sally:

"My name is Mary, but all of my friends call me Mae, so I'll be Mae to you, because I guess you're my friend and will see the same as I do about my affairs, and advise me what to do about it. Let me tell you all about it.

"I have been going around for several years with Tom, and now we want to get married. But we can't. You see he is married already, and that makes all the difference.

Wants His Money

"When I first met him, and for a couple of years after I began running around with him, he was only a big joke to me. I was dumb enough to make fun of him to people. You know Sally—just harmless fun, like saying I wasn't looking for a permanent playmate as old as he, and all he was good for was the money he spent. I should have kept all that under my hat because some of his friends heard it, and told his wife and I guess they're telling her I'm no good and advising her not to divorce him.

"Well, anyway—my mother died recently, and father wants to break up our home, and I'm getting older every day, so why shouldn't I marry Tom? He's got lots of money, even though he is nearly 60. And he likes to go places, and so do I. He has spent lots on me already, and drives me around in his swell car, and we go on trips to his country place. Why shouldn't I get all this from him steady? I've wasted a lot of years running around with him making whoopee, and I guess I deserve marrying that money and a steady home now.

"That's where his wife comes in. He has a daughter too, and he can't get rid of them no matter how he tries. I know he really cares for me because he hangs around, and—Gee!—he even left home, just for me. He hadn't a single reason to leave, except that he wanted me! Don't you think it's kind of romantic?

"Anyway, I read your column where you said that wives have no right to hang onto husbands if the husband feels gay and would like a younger wife.

"So don't you think she ought to let him go? I guess she worked a lot and helped him save his money, and some people might think she has a right to it, but, believe me, she needn't think she's going to get half of it for a 'settlement,' because what would I want him for if he didn't have a lot? He's old, and not even good looking. But he's the best I can do right now. And, anyway, this opposition gets my goat. You see I'm being frank with you, so you'll understand.

"What would you do? Remember, he has money, and I did spend years running around with him! Of course, he doesn't know it's his money I want. He's dumb enough to imagine he has 'it' or something.

Wrong Impression

"I'm waiting breathlessly for your sympathetic ideas on what I should do—and also I hope you'll write on what his wife ought to do. Tell her not to be so unreasonable. Really, life is so puzzling for a girl like me! So try to understand. He'll be happy with me, I know, because he does like me. MAE K."

Oh, yeah?

Puzzling, is it?

Well, maybe you're puzzled but I'm not.

You're phoney—or I never saw a celluloid collar.

You're not only phoney but you're clumsy. You're trying to make me appear a Buster of Homes and a Wrecker of Hearts—and you're pulling a line that even a smart 6-year-old would not swallow. But, unfortunately, there are some simple souls who will accept your words at their face values and really believe that I said the things you report. And it's for their sakes that I'm going to tell you where to head in.

I have never said—and you know I have never said—"that a wife had no right to hang on to her husband" . . . or that wives "should take a back seat when their husbands feel gay and would like a younger wife."

I did say that it was contemptible for a wife who no longer loved her husband to "hang onto him" for necessary reasons.

Respects Good Wives

I did say that any woman who "hung onto her husband" out of spite, when love was dead between them, was making an inferno for herself.

I did say that it was futile and humiliating for any woman to insist on keeping a legal hold on any man who hated her and that such a woman would be far happier if she would let him go and make a new life for herself.

I said all this: I said it seriously, sympathetically — with deepest tenderness toward any woman whose dreams have crumbled about her. And every decent, honest wife will agree with those statements.

But never has this column condoned a creature such as you represent yourself to be. Never has it shown anything but deepest respect for the fine wives who have worked shoulder to shoulder with their men, helping them carry the burden through the difficult years. And in so far as I can help such wives fight for their rights, I'll stand with them—to my last wallop.

As for you—you may be an aggrieved wife or a witless girl—I do not know which. But this I do know. Any woman who can maliciously distort serious work as you have done deserves neither consideration nor happiness in this life, and you will probably get none. You and your kind spread filth and poison in every home in every community. You're more vicious than mad dogs—more slimy than snakes. And the next time you try to bust into this column—think twice.

I'M GOING TO ACCOMPLISH SOMETHING GREAT ONE OF THESE DAYS
BUT IN THE MEANTIME YOU MUST DO SOMETHING.
WELL I'VE GOT THIS DONE!
WHERE THERE IS TOO MUCH TALK NOT MUCH IS ACCOMPLISHED
AMUNDSEN WAS A MAN OF FEW WORDS AND MUCH ACTION
FAY KING

By FAY KING

When Earl Rossman was on his way to Point Barrow, Alaska, to make the first motion pictures of native Eskimo life, he met Amundsen, the great explorer, in Nome.

Amundsen listened with interest to all Rossman planned to do.

"Maybe you will. Maybe you won't. You will have to live through it to do it," was Amundsen's practical comment.

I have often thought of Amundsen's words, since I read them in Rossman's book, "Black Sunlight."

To accomplish anything great or small we must live through it and get it done.

Too many big plans just end in big talk. It is so easy to talk of great things, and so difficult to accomplish even small ones.

Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Worried About Phil Veritzen's Question

The personal note I so dreaded had returned to Philip Veritzen's voice as he asked me what was the color of the gown I meant to wear to Mary's party. But, I reflected, the best way to deal with it was a quick direct answer. Then I could cut short our conference with the promise to send him the colors of the gowns worn by the other women as soon as I found them out myself.

"I cannot agree with you that the color of my gown is the most important," I said with a smile as I rose. "Mary's is that, and I already have told you about it. My own is to be a very simple affair of Nile green tulle over white."

"Ah-h!" Mr. Veritzen made the softly uttered exclamation a subtle admiration of my choice. "It is the color which suits you best. I shall know what to send for that."

"And as for the others," I went on hurriedly, "I shall find out about all of them as soon as possible and telephone you—where?"

"Must you telephone?" he asked. "I shall be in the hotel all the morning and can see you at any time. I would so like to be of service to you, if I could."

I had a sudden vision of Dicky's face if I should go about my preparations for Mary's party closely attended by the courtly figure of Mr. Veritzen. I also had a lively realization of the savory morsels of gossip which the ancient crones of the hotel would be rolling under their tongues if the same sight should be vouchsafed them.

"I am afraid I must telephone," I said decidedly. "Thank you so much for your offer, but I shall be terribly busy today, and my husband and Mrs. Underwood can tell you that under stress of any kind I work much better alone. And now, I must ask you to excuse me. Some other time I shall try to tell you how very much I appreciate all your kindness."

I could not ignore his outstretched hand, but as he bent to it and kissed it in his invariable continental fashion, I was extremely grateful that no one was yet in the library. And as I hurried into the elevator and was carried up to my own apartment, I was conscious of two directly opposite emotions pulling at me. One, of which my conscience approved, was a grim little feeling of vindictiveness at the annoyance his openly expressed admiration was causing me. The other, almost subconscious, unworthy, of which I was thoroughly ashamed, was the mean little gratification which a woman feels when an attractive, fascinating, sought-after man is showering attentions upon her.

I met Lillian in the corridor between our apartments.

"Lo, early robin!" she said, bringing up her hand in a burlesqued salute. "I trust the worm was easy to find this morning."

"He was," I said with a grin.

She looked at me with sudden keeness.

"So old Phil was on the job this morning," she commented.

"Very much so."

"I thought he would be. Yet he did not knock at my door. That I can swear, although the top and the seven sleepers had nothing on your little girl friend. How did you sidetrack him? But you can't tell me here in the hall, and if I don't get my breakfast, pronto, I shall commit mayhem on somebody. Have you had yours?

"Yes," I made a sudden grimance, and an unholy light of teasing came into her eyes.

"Don't tell me you breakfasted with deah old Phil!"

"I couldn't help it," I protested, giving my friend, who loves teasing almost as much as her husband, a wide opening.

"They never can," she said solemnly. "But 'what are the old crones saying?'" she crooned the old tune provokingly, "and what will they be saying the whole day long?"

"I don't know and care less," I snapped. "Tell me, are Harry and Noel awake?"

"No, why?"

"Because I've some telephoning to do, and I'm afraid of disturbing them."

"Telephoning at this hour, to whom?"

"Why! Mrs. Brixton for one, to find out whether she has planned anything for tonight which will interfere with Mary's party."

She looked at me mirthfully.

"You poor little small towner," she gibed, "with your quaintly rustic ideas of early rising, if you should get Helena out of bed at this hour, she'd send an alienist to you. And no tradespeople open their shops any more until nine. You can't do a thing until then except talk to me and give me the lowdown on what's happened. Come on down to the dining room with me and have another cup of coffee while I have breakfast."

Household Hints

Sandpaper the soles of the little shoes for the baby who is just learning to walk. He has a hard enough time of it without adding slippery shoes.

Keep a watch on the collars of both yours and hubby's coats and sponge them frequently with gasoline or some fabric cleaner. You will be surprised how quickly the grease accumulates and how soiled the collars will be.

Door knobs should be washed once a week along with the general cleaning. If there are youngsters in the home the door knobs are in for a great deal of punishment and really need this attention.

Baby's crib will be a great deal more comfortable if the rubber sheeting is pulled taut and either pinned to the underneath side of the mattress or fastened with large snaps. Then make the bed and no matter how much baby wriggles that uncomfortable pad will stay smooth under him.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Credit Nature for "Sure Cures"

Nosebleed is of common occurrence, yet it is a condition likely to excite much concern. All sorts of old-fashioned remedies are recommended for stopping it. A "sure cure" is never wanting.

Dr. Copeland

The most foolish method recommended may be followed by the disappearance of the bleeding. The happy result may occur after many other methods have been tried and the bleeding has continued even for a half hour. The method applied is given credit for what Nature did in spite of human effort.

Bleeding at the nose may be caused by several things. In order to treat it intelligently it is quite important to determine the exact cause. Persons who are subject to frequent nosebleed should not neglect to find out just why they have it. When the cause is found it is usually something that can be removed easily.

In persons past 45 years of age high blood pressure is a common cause for nosebleed. Where it is definitely known to be due to high blood pressure, such hemorrhages need not cause alarm. Indeed, they may even be welcomed as an aid in lowering the blood pressure. Such bleeding at the nose is really like opening a safety valve.

Bleeding may occur when the blood pressure is very low. This is particularly true in debilitated persons, following long illness perhaps, or in anemia or certain fevers. Here the walls of the blood vessels are so relaxed and flabby that there is actual seepage of the blood through the walls.

Nosebleed may result from becoming overheated in the sun. It may follow scratching the nose. This is particularly true if there are small ulcers in the nose.

It is not at all an uncommon symptom if there is a foreign body in the nose. Any injury of this region may cause nasal bleeding. In boxing and other sports it is sure to be observed.

Nosebleeds occur in growing children, particularly about the age of puberty. This is more common in the delicate, rather than in the strong and robust child.

In certain liver, kidney and heart conditions bleeding from the nose is common. It is sometimes a forerunner of certain fevers, more particularly typhoid fever.

Answers to Health Queries

Worried Mother. Q.—What would cause the following symptoms: Skin dry and scaly behind the ears—bathing will tend to keep it moist, and it will not heal—powder seems to cause further aggravation—one other part of the body is similarly affected.

A.—This is probably eczema. Watch the diet and elimination, and avoid the use of water on the irritated parts.

* * *

M. C. D. Q.—Is it wise to kiss a patient who has had tuberculosis in a mild form? The doctor, who has been treating the patient, says the case will be cured in a few months.

A.—Not if there are active germs in the sputum.

* * *

J. F. M. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Exercise is, of course, essential. A good brisk walk for half an hour every day is helpful.

* * *

S. J. C. Q.—Does hard work after eating hinder or help the heart?

2—What causes high blood pressure?

For the Amateur Nurse

If you are new at nursing and are afraid you will forget the time for medicine for the patient, keep an old or unwound watch in the room by the medicine, and as each dose is administered move the hands of the clock to the hour for the next dose. Then you cannot make a mistake.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

In Better Form to Telephone

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

When enclosing a response card in an envelope, self-addressed, in a formal invitation to a wedding, is it proper to place a return postage stamp on it? EDITH.

It is terrible taste to enclose these response cards in invitations to a wedding. Please let me urge you not to do this. If we have a feeling that our friends may be so rude as not to respond to our kind invitation . . . and it is, alas, true that many of them do not take the trouble to do this . . . then it would be better, I think, to telephone to them to ascertain if they intend to come to the wedding or to the reception. At least we will be in good form if we do this, and we certainly won't be in good form if we do send these response cards. I should think to stamp these cards would make them look even more awful than they do without the stamp.

The Custom of the Family

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Should one fold the napkin at the end of a meal when dining at a private home?

2. Is it correct to have candles lighted on the table for lunch after bridge in the evening? R. B.

1. This depends on the custom of the family with whom we are dining. And it is very important that we observe what is the custom in this family, and it is very important that we do with our napkins what they do. So we must watch the hostess, and see if she folds her napkin.

A good thing to do about this when we are uncertain as to what we should do, is to incline toward folding our napkin. It is really never incorrect for us to fold our napkin—we can fold it quite casually—but there are times when it is incorrect not to fold it.

2. Yes, this is very charming, and adds distinctly to the festive air of the occasion.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, February 4

Although the planetary conditions for this day bespeak some lively and enterprising activities, with a degree of progress and profit, yet there are signs indicating fraud, duplicity and misrepresentation, which must be sagaciously dealt with. All writings should be negotiated with precaution and new projects should be launched with well-fortified plans and safeguards.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of rather mixed conditions. While affairs may be lively and there may be an urge to initiative and new undertakings, attended by a modicum of success and encouragement, yet there are perils through deception, fraud and betrayal, especially through writings. With precaution and wise judgment prosperity may be achieved.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, resourceful and enterprising, yet it may incline to ways of shrewdness and stratagem to attain its ends.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hands should be washed a dozen times a day. They collect bacteria, according to the occupation and the exposure of the hands to contaminating ources. The hands should be washed before meals. Finger nails of little children should be kept scrupulously clean. Otherwise disease germs may be picked up.

Tanned skin, olive skin, skin of that creamy loveliness known as "magnolia" will accept rouge better than will sallow skin or a cutaneous surface that is chalky white. Little pale-face must ply her paints with discretion, though she is the one who is most in need of cosmetic artifice. Dark rouges are not for her, or orange tones, but the faint rosy blush.

Cold feet indicate poor circulation. Even if the blood does bounce along as it should, feet in cold weather should be kept warm. They come in contact with cold pavements. Women who are susceptible to colds should wear hosiery of thin, light wool, never go on the street in shoes that are thin-soled. If for no other reason than that cold feet produce red noses!

It isn't always vanity that inspires frequent pilgrimages to beauty Meccas, shops where one is put through the pulchritude paces, getting the old head marceled, finger nails shined, complexion rejuvenated — so much as the desire to appear pleasing in the sight of some special beholder. Girls are never so pretty as when they are in love, they have somebody to pretty up for. Self-respect makes a woman want to look well, to be on her toes, but Cupid sends her into a frenzy of beautifying.

Overmuch on shampoos and finger waves being what it is, the cash customer of the beauty shop makes one demand upon the hairdresser; the coiffure must not only be chic, it must be practicable. A few ringlets that can be pendanted around the left ear, beau catchers scampering along the forehead are all right. Any arrangement that requires much time is taboo. There is no time any more. For the average active woman time must be stolen for beautifying treatments; the hair must take what it gets and be satisfied. There are other beauty claimants, fingernails, complexion, eyebrows, hands and the svelte silhouette.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

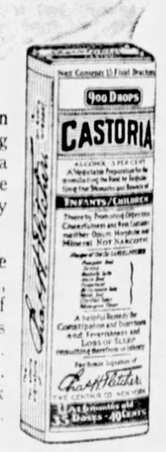
Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine."

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

IF BABY HAS COLIC



COLIC comes suddenly. Your first intimation that something is wrong may be a warning cry in the night. If you have a bottle of Castoria handy you needn't worry, for a little of this pure vegetable remedy will soon have baby his happy self again; let him go back to sleep.

Castoria is always the sensible thing to give an ailing child. When a child is restless, fretful, with coated tongue, bad breath and lack of appetite, it is a mother's standby. Most mothers give Castoria an important place in their homes. Ready for sour stomach, constipation, or upset. When buying Fletcher's Castoria always look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. This identifies the genuine product.

PITT PRIMED FOR PREXIES

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Cubs Drop Night Games. Value of Hack's Wallop. Regan Deal Rumored. Oldfield Tale Doubted. Rockne's Five Misfits. Kilbane-Dunn Reunited.

WON'T ASK BUCS TO TRY FLOODLIGHTS

THERE IS NO danger that any dispute will develop between the owners of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs over the question of night baseball in connection with the spring practice series to be played by those clubs on the Pacific Coast. The teams are scheduled to meet in San Francisco on March 20 and 21 and in Los Angeles on March 30, 31 and April 1. The Bucs are also slated for three practice games with the Los Angeles club on March 23, 24 and 25. Inasmuch as the interests in control of the Cubs also own the Los Angeles club, and have been prompting night ball in the latter city, it was rumored that the Corsairs would be requested to play their games with both the Bruins and Angels under electric lights.

William L. Veeck

And as the Pirate chiefs are known to hold the opinion that night baseball is not baseball at all, and declined a proposal to play three night games with Los Angeles, Chicago and Detroit, a disagreement appeared to be threatened, but that there is no possibility of this was made clear here yesterday by President William L. Veeck, of the Cubs, who came to Pittsburgh to meet Hack Wilson and sign the new home-run king to another Chicago contract covering the season of 1931.

VEECK SAYS THAT not only have the Cub officials no intention of asking the Pittsburgh club to play any of the Los Angeles games at night, but that the Chicago club itself will not do any playing by artificial light, even in its own coast park which had been fitted up for that purpose at considerable expense.

"I believe that night baseball is all right for minor league cities where the weather is warm and where almost the entire working population is employed during the daylight hours," said the executive head of the Bruins, "but I am not in favor of it for major league clubs. The Cubs are not going to ask any scheduled opponents on the spring trip to play at night, and will not play at night themselves."

THE BUSINESS OFFICE of the Chicago club was reported some time ago as favoring night games on the coast in the spring as a means of drawing bigger gates, but it could not well carry it out now without crossing its manager.

For Rogers Hornsby, who has a habit of speaking his mind without consulting the business bosses, broke into print recently with the statement that it would be absurd to play night games on a training trip; that the object of such a trip is to get the players in condition, that they can't get in shape unless they perspire, and that they couldn't be expected to do much perspiring playing at night. A mouthful that evidently knocked the props from under the flood-light project.

THE VALUE OF the old wallop is shown again in the signing of Hack Wilson to a Cub contract that makes him the highest-salaried player in the National League. The Martinsburg mauler isn't the greatest outfielder in the game by several kilometers, but he made more home runs than Babe Ruth or anybody else last year and he set a new major league record of 190 for runs knocked in, the fifth consecutive year in which he has driven in more than 100 tallies. Homers get the crowds and runs win ball games, and nobody can say that Wilson isn't entitled to the place he holds at the top of the salary scale.

Bill Regan

FEBRUARY 15 IS not far off, and baseball law provides that a major league player shall be declared a free agent unless a new contract is tendered to him on or before that date. Yet no sign of a Red Sox pact for 1931 has put in an appearance at the residence of Second Baseman Bill Regan in Brookline.

Baseball men are taking this to mean that there may be other changes in the Boston club in addition to the shift made Saturday night, when Catcher John Heving and First Baseman Phil Todt were sold to the A's over the waiver route. They believe the failure of the Boston club to tender a contract to Regan indicates that another deal is planned in which the Brookline man is to figure.

A TRADE INVOLVING Regan was rumored as pending as early as November, and it was said Bill might be traded to the White Sox. That seems to have fallen through, but the delay in sending Regan a new contract is looked upon as evidence that the Red Sox bosses are trying to trade him elsewhere.

Bill's friends are of the opinion that a change of scenery would help him a whole lot. He has a conviction that he cannot hit on the Boston grounds, and would turn in a much bigger average at a different park. His fielding always has been high-class.

REGAN SAYS HE is at a loss to understand the deal whereby the Athletics acquired Heving and Todt. He can't see where the Mackmen have any use for the latter in particular, as Phil certainly cannot be expected to supplant Jimmy Foxx. Todt is one of the defensive first-sachers in baseball, but is not a sturdy sticker. In seven major league seasons his highest batting mark was only .278. That's probably the reason why he was passed up by the White Sox, who need a first baseman and who would have had priority over the Athletics in the waiver claim. Mack may intend to carry him merely to bolster his reserve forces. As for Heving, that backstop is said to be handicapped by a weak throwing arm, and it will not be surprising if Mack passes him along to Portland to complete the deal for Catcher Joe Palmisano.

STORIES THAT THE 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis on Memorial Day will find Barney Oldfield trying a come-back are not being readily credited in racing circles. Barney needs the money since the stock market crash wiped out his fortune and he had to go to work in a Detroit office, but it is doubtful if he will go to that extreme.

Oldfield's chances for victory and the $50,000 that is attached to it would hardly be worth the risk. Ralph De Palma, another former speedster who has kept in touch with the game, says the present-day drivers have it all over the old-timers for knowledge of the sport, and Oldfield probably also realizes that fact.

Johnny Kilbane

THERE ARE FIVE types of football player Knute Rockne has no use for on his Notre Dame squad, he says. They are the swellhead, the complainer, the quitter, the envious and the inferiority complex.

Other coaches say they have the same idea, but perhaps its because they don't employ the same weeding-out process that they're not as successful as Rockne and his Irish every fall.

JOHNNY KILBANE, nearing 42, active in the ring for 17 years and world featherweight champion from 1912 to 1923, is back in the game as an instructor and gymnasium manager and has formed a new business partnership with his old pilot, Jimmy Dunn. They parted in 1920, each vowing that he never would have anything more to do with the other, but a few years ago they shook hands and buried the hatchet, and now they've teamed up again for business purposes. Dunn is discontinuing his gym in East Ninth street, Cleveland, and will transfer the name of Argonne A. C. to the place which he and Kilbane will conduct. They plan to teach boxing to pupils of all ages and walks, from business men down to school boys. Furthermore they will collaborate in the management of boys who wish to go in for professional boxing and are hopeful of digging up some good prospects.

LOCALS HOPE TO UPSET BULLDOGS

WINDSOR, Ontario, Feb. 3.—The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, the only club in the International League which holds the edge in its season series with the Bulldogs, will renew their torrid feud with the local skaters in a league game here tonight.

The visitors have gained two wins and two ties in five previous meetings with the locals, and a capacity crowd is expected to turn out to see the Bulldogs' "jinx" foemen perform.

Both the Jackets and Bulldogs regard tonight's battle as one of great importance. Windsor, in second place in the race, has seen its lead over London reduced to a single game in recent frays, and Pittsburgh is experiencing considerable difficulty in battling its way into a play-off berth. Both teams were downed by the Cleveland Indians in their last starts, but Cleveland's win over the Jackets is understood to have been somewhat tainted in that only the referee's protested decision kept Pittsburgh from a deadlock.

CLOSE GAME LIKELY

Charles Reid, coach of the visitors, was armed with considerable material regarding the cause of the protest when he arrived here today. He presented the information regarding the disputed Pittsburgh goal to Charles S. King, International League president, who has his executive offices here.

Although nosed out in their last two starts, the Steel City skaters did not appear to be particularly downcast as they prepared for tonight's skirmish, and the Bulldogs anticipate plenty of opposition. The locals have no trouble in recalling that the last time the Jackets took to the road they reeled off three games without tasting of defeat.

Both teams are in top form for the battle, and a close, hard fray is expected. The probable lineup:

PITTSBURGH—		—WINDSOR
Cox	G	Benedict
Fraser	L. D	Bellomet
Berlett	R. D	Arbour
Ouellette	C	Haynes
McCurry	L. W	Duguid
Greer	R. W	Robinson

STARS HERE SATURDAY

The Yellow Jackets' present road trip (a one-game jaunt) will begin and end in Windsor tonight. At the conclusion of their joust with the Bulldogs the Schooley skaters will return home to prepare for their joust with the Syracuse Stars at Duquesne Garden Saturday night.

TUT KNOCKS OUT PETROLLE

ST. PAUL, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—A sawed-off, barrel-chested young man from Minneapolis named Henry Tuttle, fighting under the name of King Tut, finds himself in a spot today to cause Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, a lot of worry.

Tut jumped into the commanding position as a ranking challenger for the lightweight championship last night by scoring a startling upset victory over the battle-scarred Billy Petrolle in exactly 24 seconds. He knocked out the famed Fargo Express before he could get out of his own corner and to the amazement of a record-smashing, capacity crowd of 10,249 spectators who paid $38,546 to witness the battle.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: WHERE SNOW FALLS UP INSTEAD OF DOWN—At the head of a valley near the town of Blowing Rock, N. C., is a natural phenomenon called Blowing Rock, from which the town takes its name. There is a freak wind current which is continually blowing up over the edge of the precipice, making it impossible to throw newspapers, handkerchiefs or other light objects down into the valley. Snow and rain never fall down in the vicinity of this rock, but always blow up over the precipice. This suggestion was contributed by Tom Cushing, one of the bravest and most popular patients in the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C. HARRY T. BRUNDIDGE BECAME A DOCTOR IN 57 DAYS—Brundidge, the famous reporter for the St. Louis Star, in the summer of 1923, "went through" the notorious medical diploma mill to expose its operations. He obtained high school and college credentials and a medical diploma in 57 days which enabled him to expose the fakes. As a result of Brundidge's work, the ring-leaders were imprisoned and many low-grade colleges were closed.

TOMORROW: THE MAN WHO WAS SHOD WITH HORSESHOES.

GLOVES PRIZES AT BENEFIT

Details were completed at a final meeting of the committee in charge last evening for the benefit boxing show to be held in the Moose Temple, downtown, tomorrow night for Father James R. Cox's relief fund.

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, who is donating the services of himself and staff of workers, announced he also will donate 10 pairs of gloves to the winners of the amateur bouts. These gloves will be autographed by Father Cox. Each winning boxer among the amateurs will be permitted to keep his gloves, while the loser will have to return his pair.

Tickets for the show will remain on sale at Wagner's, Spalding's and Brown's sporting goods stores until noon tomorrow, after which reservations will be taken at the Moose or through Meyers' office, Atlantic 2642.

All of the old time boxers on the program will enter the arena through a special entrance, which will be designated by a sign, and will be seated on the stage, from where they will be introduced to the fans. George Chip and Buck Crouse, former middleweight rivals, will clash in one of the two special exhibition bouts for old-timers, while Patsy Brannigan and Chalky Wimler will meet in the other.

John Bender, of Monessen, who won the A. M. A. 160-pound junior championship in the recent tournament at the Keystone A. C., and was one of the stars of the event, will meet Chuck Mullins, of the Willow A. C., in the main amateur bout. The revised list of other amateur bouts follows:

118-pound class, Andrew Kosel, Turtle Creek, vs. William Smith, Willow Club; 126-pound class, Eddie Zivic, Willow Club, vs. Gerald Clements, North Braddock A. C., and Fritzie Zivic, Willow Club, vs. Danny Auld, North Braddock A. C.; 135-pound class, Gene Judge, St. Boniface Lyceum, vs. Leo Moan, Willow A. C., George Julius, Willow A. C., vs. Billy Wilson, Homewood A. C., Johnny Hazel, Pittsburgh Lyceum, vs. Joe Penny, St. Cecelia's Church, Glassport, and Johnny Ungerman, Homewood A. C., vs. Anthony Zelin, Ninth Ward Republican Club; 160-pound class, Mike Chomyak, Willow Club, vs. Jack Carney, Homewood A. C., and, heavyweight class, Morris Louick, Pittsburgh Lyceum, vs. Alex Regdon, North Braddock A. C.

The show will get under way at 8:30.

Between Rounds

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, has signed Hans Roberts, of Brookline, and Marty Gornick, of McKeesport for the second bout on his Benny McArthur-Mickey Duris card, Thursday night. Duris, by the way, now is under the management of Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland. Flick Ryan and Tommy Burns box the opener.

Due to the fact that the food show is scheduled to come in immediately afterward, the bleachers will not be in place for the Jackie Rodgers-Johnny Datto show at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, cutting down the $1 section by 1,000 seats, and fans who desire reserved seats at this price are requested to place their orders early to protect themselves against being disappointed.

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, still is on the lookout for an opponent for Jocko Walters, the Springfield (O.) Negro, for his semi-final Friday night. Walters created a sensation by knocking out Al Becker in the first round of a recent battle at the Moose. Buck McTiernan and Frankie Palmo are the main bout principals. Tiger Joe Clark meets Harry Fine in the second bout and Joe Barone will be one of the contestants in the opener.

The second amateur boxing card of the season at St. Boniface Lyceum, North Side, will be held Thursday evening. Cy Siebert is the matchmaker.

Amateur boxing bouts will be staged by the Allegheny County American Legion in the William Penn Hotel tonight. Other bouts carded tonight include: Frankie Wine vs. Emmett Rocco, Oklahoma City; Pete Suskey vs. Iron Mike Kuskwara, Johnny Vacca vs. Jackie Britton and Harry Ellenson vs. Danny Dell, Wilkes-Barre, with Jack Dempsey refereeing; Harry Paul vs. Joe Merritt, Miami Beach, Fla.; Arthur Huttick vs. Bill Freeman, New York; Eddie Dickey vs. Babe Beck, Columbus, O.; Tracey Cox vs. Marty Fields, Indianapolis; Fidel LaBarba vs. Claude Verner, Los Angeles, and George Manley vs. Leo Lomski, San Francisco.

PIRATES SIGN CATCHER BIRD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The Pirate catching division has developed into a quintet with the addition yesterday of Joseph A. Bird, formerly of the Columbus club of the American Association, who has been out of organized baseball for several seasons.

Highly recommended by Bill Hinchman and Carleton Molesworth, Buccaneer scouts, Bird has been brought into the Pirates' fold in the hope he will be able to add strength to that department. Domestic troubles had a lot to do with halting his career a few years back, but these are ironed out, and the young man hopes to start anew.

Bird, a Columbus boy, was a catcher for the Frederick club of the Blue Ridge League in 1924. He advanced to Columbus the next year, and for three seasons he caught for the team representing the Ohio capital. He batted .330 in 1925, the same year the Pirates tried to effect his purchase. Molesworth was the manager of the Senators at that time.

Bird continued to do good work behind the bat for Columbus in the next two seasons, but he ran afoul of marital woes and retired from the game in a professional way. In the past three seasons he has been athletic director for the Panhandle Railroad clubs and while thus engaged has caught a lot of semi-pro ball.

A Columbus boy, Bird appears to be built well for his task. He is five feet 10½ inches tall and weights 170. He is a switch hitter. Bird is aged 27.

ALLEY OWNERS MEET

Pittsburgh district bowling alley owners met at a luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel at noon today to compete plans for their big duckpin tournament to be staged in April.

Local Golfer Scores Ace In South

W. H. Hockberg, a member of the Alcoma Country Club, apparently finds southern golf courses more to his liking. While competing in the annual tourists' tournament over the Dubsdrab Country Club course in Orlando, Fla., Hockberg negotiated the 195-yard No. 6 hole in one.

Hockberg was playing with J. E. Johnson, Bayonne, N. J.; James H. Lindsey, Charlottsville, Vt., and Mrs. Hockberg. While he did not finish among the leaders, Hockberg carried off the putting contest.

CARLSON NOT TO ATTEND ENCOUNTER

Pitt vs. Wash-Jeff, Washington, Pa.
Waynesburg vs. Thiel, Greenville, Pa.
Slippery Rock vs. Bloomsburg, Bloomsburg, Pa.

By JESS CARVER.

Pitt's basketballers will be operated by remote, if any, control tonight as the Golden Cats and Wash-Jeff exchange pleasantries in Wash-Jeff's own gym, conspicuous by its lack of size. The spot on the Pitt bench usually occupied by Dr. Cliff Carlson will be just another spot, as the Doctor will be absent, sitting at his home in Braddock nursing a pair of sore eyes.

Tim Lawry

The Panthers will be under the direction of Georgie Kowallis, freshman coach, who looks to be in for a busy night, what with having to handle both the frosh and varsity squads.

FIRST ABSENCE

In the decade the Doctor has been at the head of the basketball racket at Pitt, tonight will be the first time he's missed being on hand for a varsity game.

The Braddock tonsil expert indignantly denied that now his eyesight has become impaired, that he plans to become an official.

"Who ever it was started that rumor," Carlson chortled, "was certainly no pal."

The Panthers haven't seen action since a week from last Sat'day night, when they chased the Irish of Notre Dame into an extra period and then took 'em by 28 to 20. Wash-Jeff has been idle since the week before that, when they were mauled here by Carnegie.

The Panther combine of the two younger Kowallis boys, Steve and Willie, Timmy Lawry, Bus Albright, Don Brown and the two captains, Willie Arture and Eddie Baker, figures to possess enough class to out-wit the Presidents tonight. The team is in good shape, the 10 days of rest having done wonders to restore Lawry and Arture to form, and the practice sessions have served to bring Baker around to his old class.

BEATEN TWICE

Bethany and Carnegie both defeated Wash-Jeff to date, the Bisons starting the Red and Black off on the wrong hoof and Carnegie putting 'em further out of step with a later setback. The boys are up against a tough one in trying to get straightened out against Pitt tonight.

The two freshmen fives, of course, start the evening's entertainment in a preliminary game.

The Ione Tri-State Conference tilt of the week adds color to tonight's light program as Waynesburg and Thiel meet in Greenville. The Lutherans went along very nicely last week, trimming Canisius and John Carroll. They'll stack up against a real one in the Jackets tonight, who are a 'striving mightily to stay about the .500 mark.

Slippery Rock resumes its campaigning in the Eastern part of the state by visiting with the Bloomsbury Teachers at Bloomsburg.

KISKI PASSERS COP

LATROBE, Pa., Feb. 3.—The Kiski Prep School quintet eked out a 29-27 victory over St. Vincent's College in the final minute of play last night in a fast and thrilling battle. The lineup:

Laughlin	G	Westfall

Substitutes—St. Vincent, Fiante, Kiski, Hamilton, Bauman, Field goals—Pollack 2, Bryant 2, Bettner 2, Bauman 3, Zenovese 4, Carney 2, Crean 2, Hamilton, Fiante. Fouls—Kiski, 9 out of 15; St. Vincent, 9 out of 17. Referee—Kelly.

SPORT SHORTS

PUNTA GORDA, Fla.—(AP.)—William T. (Big Bill) Tilden, won his first professional tennis match from Francis T. Hunter, another newcomer to the pro ranks, by 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

PHILADELPHIA.—(AP.)—St. Joseph's College defeated the Slippery Rock, Pa., Teachers' College, 51 to 30, in a game that was more hotly contested than the score would indicate.

DETROIT.—(AP.)—Thirteen knockouts marked the 19 preliminaries in the heavyweight elimination tournament staged at Olympia here last night. Jack Cunningham, Cleveland Negro, scored three of them.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(AP.)—Meryl Hoag, young outfielder sold by Sacramento to the New York Yankees to report this year, announced he has straightened out his contract difficulties and signed with the American League club.

MANCHESTER, England.—(AP.)—Jackie Brown regained the British flyweight championship by defeating Berty Kirby, on points, in a 15-round bout.

PRINCETON, W. Va.—(AP.)—Davis and Elkins made Concord College its fourth state conference victim and kept its record spotless against West Virginia foes by winning, 49 to 30.

CHICAGO.—(AP.)—American League umpires returned to school today under the tutelage of President Ernest S. Barnard. The classes will be over a period of two days during which rules, old and new, will be discussed fully so that all of the arbiters obtain a uniform interpretation of them.

W. P. I. A. L. PASSERS IN ACTION TODAY

Penn Athletic Structure Is Reorganized in Drastic Shakeup

FOUR FEATURE BATTLES TO BE PLAYED

W. P. I. A. L. FEATURES.

Section I.
Ambridge at Avalon.
Section IX
McKees Rocks at Mt. Lebanon.
Section X
Scottdale at Uniontown.
Section XI
Sutersvale at Wilkinsburg.

There are no senior or junior City League contests on the scholastic basketball slate for today, but with activity scheduled in all 16 sections of the W. P. I. A. L. starting off the second half chase, the Western Pennsylvania area is well taken care of as far as assured court action is concerned.

Moe Rubenstein

Five feature battles are listed for the day, Sections II, IX, X and XI listing outstanding and important contests. At least three games are booked for each W. P. I. A. L. section.

In one of the most important tussles, Moe Rubenstein's crack Ambridge High passers, as smart and well drilled a quintet as there is in the league, invades Avalon for a second round battle with the North Borough entry. Ambridge downed Avalon in the first round at Ambridge, but Coach Rubenstein is sanguine of tonight's return tussle.

COACH SUCCESSFUL

Rubenstein, himself a former Fifth Avenue High and Geneva College star, was forced to construct a team this year with a minimum of veteran material as a nucleus. He apparently has turned the trick right well, and with Huck Yoos, Eddie Gutowski, Zwatty and Michaels and Matzie clicking, the Bridge Workers have lost but one game in a dozen starts to date and secured revenge and over for that one setback, at the hands of Aliquippa, by trouncing the Lippemen last week on their own court.

A win for Avalon today will give the team a tight hold on second place and will whittle the present two-game lead of the Bridgers to one contest.

UNIONTOWN CLICKING

In Section X, Uniontown and Scottdale clash in a second place scrap. Scottdale is a few points ahead of Uniontown now, with four games won and one lost to five won and two lost for Uniontown, but a victory for Everhart's charges, who appear to have struck their stride after a poor start, will change the aspect of things materially.

Swissvale and Wilkinsburg meet in Section XI with Swissvale to keep its unsullied record clear and Wilkinsburg out to effect a tie for the lead. If Wilkinsburg can win, then both teams will boast a record of six games won and one lost.

Section I.
Freeport at Parnassus.
New Kensington at Springdale.
Har-Brack at Arnold.

Section II.
Sewickley at Leetsdale.
Ambridge at Avalon.
Bellevue at Ben Avon.

Section III.
Butler at Evans City.
Ellwood City at Zelienople.
New Castle at Zelienople.

Section IV.
Rochester at Midland.
Beaver Falls at Freedom.
Monaca at Beaver.
Aliquippa at New Brighton.

Section V.
Monongahela at West Newton.
Monessen at Donora.
California at Charleroi.

Section VI.

Centerville at East Bethlehem.

Canzoneri Ill, Go Called Off

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The 10-round non-title fight between World Lightweight champion Tony Canzoneri and Goldie Hess, of Los Angeles, scheduled for tomorrow night in the Chicago Stadium, was called off yesterday because of illness of both boxers. Hess became ill Saturday, and while Matchmaker Nate Lewis was seeking another opponent, Canzoneri was forced to withdraw because of a serious nose infection.

Building Up Big Fights

By IKE DORGAN,
The Man Behind Tex Rickard's Fistic Ballyhoos.

CHAPTER XX.

There is no question that Tex Rickard's presence in the ring at Reno when he had to declare Jack Johnson the best fighting man in all the world spared boxing an ugly finale to an unhappy match. Rickard's magnetism was the damper on disaster that day!

Jack Johnson

Tense isn't the word for just that moment. Men had come into that arena swearing that Jack Johnson would not leave the ring alive if he succeeded in whipping Jeffries. Tex had called in some of his cold-eyed "boys" to check gun play with gun play.

The actions of Johnson, while battering Jeffries into submission, had curbed the hatred within most of those who vowed they wouldn't stand to see Johnson crowned. He wear John L. Sullivan's glorious tiara? Not on your life! But Johnson didn't win in a vicious way.

JOHNSON "KIDS" JEFFRIES

He kidded everybody. When Jim Corbett, Jeff's leading advisor, walked around the ring, verbally goading Johnson, or trying to do so, Johnson cunningly took the play away from Jim and made the crowd laugh instead of rave and rant. He invited Corbett into the ring to help Jeffries. He even kidded Jeffries.

'Stop loving me, Jimmy,' chimed Johnson once when Jeffries held him tightly in a clinch.

Even as Jeff said it, Johnson hung an egg plant on one of Jim's eyes. You could have hung the old oaken bucket on it.

TEX SAVES DAY

When the finish came and Rickard spared Jeffries the indignity of a final knock-down by ordering Johnson to his corner, he saved the day. Tex did things so coolly, so quickly and so surely that the gun-toters forgot all about their betseys while their amazed eyes were eating up the spectacle of that finish.

If some milksop referee had been in there nothing on earth could have averted a tragedy that would have ended boxing then and there.

It was Rickard's magnetic personality that charmed them, not Johnson's ridiculously easy victory. They forgot all about Johnson. Every eye was turned on Rickard and then, as always, he held his spectators in the palm of his hand. It wasn't child's play and it was long before the day of his "best people." It was the same peculiar spell he wove over every gathering with which he had anything to do.

I've seen him walk into his office in the old and the new Madison Square Gardens, cluttered with newsgatherers, and exercise that same queer spell over them. He was different, always different, in anything he did. The way he wore his hat, flicked his cane, the manner in which he tilted a long, expensive cigar between those thin, bloodless lips, his quaint, ungrammatical way of expressing himself was absolutely fascinating, right to the last. When he never "seed anything like it," it was worth seeing.

FIGHT MOVIES BANNED

With Johnson's astonishing victory began legislation that may forever prevent the transportation of moving picture films from one state to another.

I doubt that Rickard ever seriously regretted the making of that law for it served to have himself talked about, and that was one thing Rickard loved above anything else.

He wasn't vain about it. I don't mean it in that sense. Rather, as the years passed, he counted in it under the head of extraordinary ballyhoo. At the time, he thought little of it. He disposed of his rights in the moving pictures of the Reno battle, as did Jeffries, who sold out for $66,666.

It was the showing of these pictures in the South that caused all of the trouble, and that part of it Rickard always regretted, so much so that ever after he took little interest in moving pictures of his big bouts, although he did try to have the law repealed. He knew there were come pictures worth selling.

For one thing, and he stuck to it to the end of his days, he vowed he'd never again put on a "mixed" bout. He detested them.

DISLIKES "MIXED" BOUTS

Powerful political factions almost forced him into bringing Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills together. Other factions, just as powerful, said him "nay!" At one time, William Muldoon insisted that Dempsey give Wills his chance and articles actually were signed.

Rickard kept repeating, over and over again:

"Them fellers down in Washington will never allow this thing to go through. Muldoon is wrong. He'll have to back away from this. He don't know them fellers down in Washington like I do."

And Muldoon didn't. And Rickard did.

The bout never came off and Rickard was the happiest man in the world when first Jack Sharkey and then Paulino Uzcudun eliminated Wills for all time. Rickard knew that Dempsey could whip Wills. He knew that the "Brown Panther" long since had seen his best day. He was sure of it after seeing Wills flounder around with Firpo in New Jersey, and he was doubly sure when Dempsey, passing Tex on the way out of the arena, whispered in his ear:

"A dime a dozen, that kind."

Tex knew Dempsey and Wills would have drawn that "three million dollar gate" he craved. Still, he was against promoting it.

If Jack Johnson's actions, following his winning of the title, if his disregard for the accepted code between the races, brought boxing into disrepute for a time and resulted in the passing of the moving picture transportation ban, there was the other, the good, side of it.

WHITE HOPE ERA

There came the "white hope" era, a general combing of the entire world to find a man to whip Johnson.

Strangely enough, after having started all of the trouble with his Reno tragedy, Rickard played no part in this white hope business, yet it became the very life of fisticuffs.

After the mighty Jeffries had toppled into oblivion, Rickard pocketed his profits and, like a lone wolf, stalked off to England, another one of his dream grounds.

Tex came into New York one day, long after the Reno affair, quietly boarded a boat for London and was on his way without a single line of publicity about his going or his coming. He was making one of his many mysterious marches. He was keeping quiet purposely. He was going to England to try to interest English capital in the Argentine.

ARGENTINE LURES RICKARD

Rickard believed in that country. If ever he was to become wealthy, and he did love the clink of gold, Tex thought the Argentine was going to produce his great taw. He often said that the only thing that the Argentine needed was waking up, but, master magician, incomparable conjurer that he was, Rickard never could awaken it or make his bankroll play leapfrog in that picturesque country.

He never did lose his interest in the pampas land although he sank his early winnings there. When he died, his holdings in that country were unimportant, although close friends say they may yet turn to gold.

He had another dream about that country, however, which never blossomed. It was in keeping with a dream that he always looked for concerning London.

He wanted to put on a world heavyweight battle in Buenos Aires if Firpo had whipped Dempsey, just as he had hoped to put on one in London had Tom Heeney been lucky enough to down Gene Tunney.

Had Firpo toppled Dempsey, Dead Pan Loole would have galloped off to the Argentine with the crown. That was the thought back of all of Firpo's activities in this country. The Wild Bull had made enough money with which to retire, but he wouldn't have been against stepping down with the championship.

PLANNED SECOND FIRPO GO

Rickard used to sit by the hour and plan a return bout between Dempsey and Firpo—in the Argentine. An international battle of the giants in Buenos Aires, with all its color, chivalry, romance! How Tex gloated over that idea!

"We'll make it the greatest invasion a country ever seed," he'd say. "We'll hire boats and make it an at-cost round-trip to see Dempsey try to win back the title. We'll hire a special steamer for the newspaper boys. We'll have saxaphone bands, Ike, and I cain't tell you how you'll enjoy those moonlight nights on the water with those saxaphones croonin' them honey airs."

But neither dream came true. Had they, all I'd ever want in this life would have been 50 per cent of Tex Rickard's profits from the gambling layouts on those boats. Don't you think that was his main dream? Bet me if you don't. He couldn't duck that first love of his, no matter how he tried. Why, even at the finale, he was shaping Miami Beach to outdo Monte Carlo.

POPE VICTOR

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—Ben Pope, handball and squash rackets pro at the Keystone A. C., of Pittsburgh, defeated Rowland S. Jackson, of the Union Boat Club, of this city, in a special squash match here last night. The scores were 15-10, 15-6, 15-9 and 15-11.

COUNTY LEAGUE CHAMPS MEET TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The turning point in the second half of the Allegheny County League race will be reached tonight when the Duquesne Lafayettes, for five years champions of the circuit, meet the Fintex first half champions in a battle at Columbus Temple.

Staging a fine comeback after a ragged exhibition in the first round, the Duquesne Lafayettes now are leading the procession in the final half and are the favorites to earn the right to meet Fintex in the playoffs at the close of the season.

A victory for the Duquesne Lafayettes tonight will just about clinch the laurels for the Scarlet Hurricane, and with this objective in mind, Ed Minnick's passers will go after the first-half titleholders tooth and nail. Realizing that another defeat will put them out of the running, the Fintex passers are eager to check the advance of their old rivals.

The battle brings together two of the best clubs in the league and indications are that a capacity crowd will attend the contest.

The W. U. Hoyles play at the Knickerbockers in the West Penn League, Wellsburg is at Swissvale and Monessen at Duquesne in the Tri-County League; Goodwill plays at Polish National Alliance in the Metropolitan League; St. John's plays at St. Henry's in the Catholic Lyceum League; Mt. Troy opposes First Presbyterian Juniors and Pittsburgh-Central Juniors oppose Faith Chapel Juniors in the Pittsburgh Church League and Mt. Troy is at First Presbyterian in the Senior Church League in other league games tonight.

Paul Zehfuss' Smithfield M. E. Church team will be out to break the winning streak of the P. A. A. quintet tonight on the Smithfield floor. The Winged Headers have copped 16 in succession.

Jeannette came through to top Ellwood City, 32-27, in the County League, and the South Side Falcons defeated North Side Community, 33-30, in the West Penn League last night. Trinity Cathedral copped from Sewickley Y., 29-22, in the Wagner Institutional loop, while the Methodists beat Mt. Pisgah's, 59-52, in the Crafton Church League.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 3.—(INS.)—Plans for the wedding of Donald Miller, of Cleveland, one of the "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame's 1924 football team, to Miss Mae Lynch, of Terra Haute, were being made today. They will wed in May.

BRANNON DROPS CLOSE BATTLE TO ANDERSON

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Eddie Anderson, Wyoming's colorful gift to the lightweight class, last night paced his way to a close victory over Eddie Brannon, local Negro, in the 10-round main bout before a fair-sized crowd in Motor Square Garden, as his bride of a few weeks watched from a seat near the ring.

It was a tough battle, and, at the finish, Referee Al Grayber found for Brannon, while the judges, L. K. Meininger and Frank Brown, agreed on Anderson. The latter verdict was well received.

Brannon was not far behind when the final bell sounded and but for the fact that he wilted in the middle of the closing round, after having won the ninth and led the tenth up to this point, he might have edged in on top. Anderson clinched matters for himself by putting on the last of his numerous socking rallies when he appeared spent and thereby surprised Brannon, who had fought himself out.

PACING WINS BOUT

Anderson, a cagy veteran with a yen for the spectacular, made it a see-saw fight by means of his smart pacing. He got off to a big lead in the first three rounds, in which he tried to knock out his opponent. Failing, he went into second speed and Brannon took the next two rounds, but the Cowboy came back to capture the sixth, in which he dropped Brannon momentarily in mid-ring in the midst of a heavy bombardment. Brannon was in a woozy condition and had to stall his way through the round.

Anderson rested up in the seventh, in which his left eye began to bleed, and Brannon took the honors, but, in the eighth, Anderson came back to batter his man in the clinches, causing him to bob and sway as he ripped away with both fists to the body and also mixed in many overhand swings to the head.

BRANNON WILTS AT FINISH

In the ninth, Anderson was on the defensive again, and Brannon carried the round and kept up the gait until halfway through the final round, when Anderson had him weak and tired and at his mercy from a two-fisted rally. In the early part of the final round, Anderson slipped to his knees, but was up without a count.

Brannon was anything but disgraced in being shaded by a foe of Anderson's greater experience. During most of the fight, he forced the going and set a hot pace, but it was Anderson's ability to nail him with sweeping swings and hurt him whenever he chose to spurt that proved the determining factor, and then only by the narrowest of margins.

WEST, BELMONT WIN

The main bout had to be good to make up for the preliminaries, all of which turned sour.

In the semi-final, Chip Freeman, of Salamanca, N. Y., 161½, subbing on short notice for Ted Ross, of Chicago, was so badly outclassed by Indian Tiger West, of Monessen, 163, that Boxing Commissioner Havey J. Boyle ordered Referee Joe Keally to stop the bout after only 2 minutes 30 seconds of the opening round. West, in great shape, was out to make an impression, and he did. He blinded Freeman with his speed and a cutting left jab and then banged him into the ropes, which prevented a knockdown. When West continued the assault, with Freeman unable to defend himself, the halt very properly was ordered.

A bad cut across the forehead from which blood spurted ended the second bout, between Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, 149½, and Sylvan Bass, of Baltimore, 149, after 1 minute 22 seconds of the second round, with Belmont the winner by a technical knockout. The injury was caused when the men's heads met in some hot mixing, and Referee Grayber immediately stopped hostilities when he saw the extent of Bass' damage. As long as the bout lasted, it was a pip, with Belmont having the edge. He tore into Bass, punching away with both fists. Sylvan, who looks not unlike Jack Sharkey in the face, proved a good boxer with a versatile left hand and was just beginning to hit his stride when his head was split.

RODGERS, DATTO AGAIN

Joey Spiegel, of Uniontown, 145, handed Larry Kaufman, of McKeesport, 144, a drubbing after a tame opening round. He floored Kaufman for nine in the second round and no count just before the final bell.

Grayber and Keally alternated as referees. A. C. Couch and Norman Borland were the timers and Harry Klaas did the announcing. Jackie Rodgers and Johnny Datto have been rematched for the main bout at the Garden next Monday night.

PHILLIPS PILOT AT CHARLEROI

CHARLEROI, Pa., Feb. 3.—Bill Phillips, Sr., has been signed to succeed Dave Lamb as manager of the Charleroi Club of the Middle Atlantic League, Ed. Wilson, president of the local club, announced today. Phillips is a former Cincinnati National League, Indianapolis Federal League and Wheeling Central League pitcher. His son piloted the Governors in the 1929 race.

Training is to be started here late in April.

ENGLISH LINKS STARS ARRIVE

In addition to Miss Fishwick, the party includes Mrs. Bee Prindle, of Hertfordshire; Molly Carnaby and Edith Fishwick, the champion's cousin, of Langley Park Club; Kathleen Garnham, Naze Club, Essex; Betty Dix Perkin, Hanger Hill Club, Hertfordshire; Majorie White, Roehampton Club, London; Jessie Firth, Formby Golf Club, and Vera Haycock, Dulwich and Sydenham Club.

Central League Decides to Operate

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Unless two more franchises can be found before the February 15 deadline, the Central League will go along with its present membership of four cities.

The decision to continue the circuit, hard hit last year by a decline in attendance and the withdrawals of Springfield and Richmond, Ind., was reached at a meeting of officials here yesterday.

Akron, O., and Muncie, Ind., were considered the most likely cities to be added, although Portsmouth, O., also has been mentioned. The membership at present consists of Dayton and Canton, O., Erie, Pa., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

Babe Ruth to Go To Florida Saturday

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth and entourage, consisting of Mrs. Ruth, their daughter, Julia, and Mrs. Ruth's mother, Mrs. C. J. Elliott, will leave New York Saturday by boat for Miami, Fla., where Ruth will start his training for the 1931 baseball campaign.

The Babe is not due at the Yankees' camp until around the first of March, but always starts South early, loosening up his swing on Florida golf courses before the start of the training grind proper.

Knockouts Mark Amateur Battles

112-pound class—John Wasko, Schwartz A. C., won over John Seiger, Republican A. C., in three rounds. Anthony Bair, Republican A. C., won over Emmil Tennant, H. C. Little Club, in four rounds.

126-pound class—Jack Burk, Schwartz A. C., scored a technical knockout over Otto Blackwell, H. C. Little Club, in the third round.

Kiski to Award 22 Grid Letters

Twenty-two football letters will be awarded at a banquet of all the school teams to be held tonight at Kiskki in Saltsburg. Harry Stuhldreher, who was a football star at Kiski before he began romping with the Four Horsemen, is coming over from Villa Nova to make the principal address.

COLLEGE HEAD TAKES OVER CONTROL

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—The entire athletic structure at the University of Pennsylvania will be reorganized upon a basis of simplicity and "underemphasis" in the most drastic single upheaval of Eastern intercollegiate sports history.

Control and management of athletics have been taken over completely by Thomas S. Gates, president of the university, and his board of trustees, while the sports themselves will be given back to the students. The present all-powerful council on athletics, composed of alumni, students and faculty, will be abolished.

NO SPRING DRILLS

Spring and pre-season training in football, training camps, training tables, dormitories for athletes, as well as scholarship and beyond that won in the classroom, have been wiped out. In all sports coaches will be made members of the faculty and will receive the salaries of faculty members.

Intercollegiate competition will be fostered with natural rivals on a year-round basis through the whole range of teams in each sport. Intra-mural athletics will be stressed, every student will be urged to take part in some sport, and the development of proficient athletes under this system "will tend to lessen the necessity for defendence upon enrollment of star athletes as a basis for varsity teams."

In a 23-page bulletin published today, President Gates announced these changes, and accepted the report of an investigating committee.

MERCER AT HEAD

One department—physical education—will control the entire athletic scheme of things at the university in the future. It will be administered by a dean responsible to the president and the trustees. Three divisions of the department—student health, physical instruction and intercollegiate athletics—will be in charge of directors.

E. Leroy Mercer, Penn graduate of the class of 1913, and director of athletics at Swartnmore since 1914, will head the new department.

CECIL NEXT FOE OF DUNLEVY

By TOM BIRKS.

Dunlevy and Cecil will meet in the semi-final round of the West Penn Cup at Bridgeville Speedway Sunday, and the winner will meet Bridgeville for the title in a series of three games.

Unless the Keystone League gets its title race out of the way before the final series, it is going to tie up the works. The cup committee probably will wait until March before putting on the title series.

Western Pennsylvania took another one on the chin over the week-end when Morgan was notified to replay its game with the Cleveland Shamrocks at Cleveland next Sunday. This decision goes to show local soccer fans just what kind of a pull Ohio has in national circles.

The official communication states that the replay was granted because of the changing of grounds, and the local commissioner apparently did little to clarify the situation. So the Shamrocks, after losing, and taking the worst beating a team ever received in the national open, get another chance for a replay.

This, on top of the fact that Morgan was forced to play the Sons of St. George in Cleveland a week ago, with a big counter-attraction, and lost money, give one the idea that Morgan is getting the worst of it. There is no appeal from the decision of the cup committee.

How about penalizing the Shamrocks for laying down after the manager had entered the protest? The poor showing of the Clevelanders was laid to the fact that a protest had been entered. The fans who had paid to see the game were not considered. So why not penalize the Shamrocks, order the game replayed, and stage it at Bridgeville, or any inclosed grounds, on Saturday? Why should Morgan carry the brunt of the burden?

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden—Eddie Anderson defeated Eddie Brannon, 10 rounds; Indian Tiger West won by technical knockout over Chip Freeman, 1 round; Jimmy Belmont won by technical knockout over Sylvan Bass, 2 rounds; Joey Spiegel defeated Larry Kaufman, 6 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Harry Bitman defeated Pete Nebo, 10 rounds; Ralon Lenny defeated Gaston LeCadre, 10 rounds; Johnny Ketchel and Gabe Bagdad drew, 6 rounds; Tony Morgan knocked out Technical Griffo, Kensington, 2 rounds; Mike Marshall defeated Mickey Diamond, 4 rounds.

HARRY BLITMAN COPS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—(AP.)—Harry Blitman, of New York, lightweight, was awarded the decision over Pete Nebo, Seminole Indian, after a blistering 10-round fight here last night. Blitman weighed 134, Nebo 133.

PERSHING TELLS OF FRICTION IN FRANCE

for inclusion in the British armies, as being clearly the quickest way of helping, but for reasons we quite understand she preferred to retain her national identity.

"No doubt she still desires to do so, but over and above the preparation of her divisions, and without interfering with it, would it be possible for her to provide a company of infantry to replace a British company in such a number of British battalions as America could bring over men.

"Even 100 such companies would be of the greatest value. Every consideration would of course be given to the companies, and if they desired they could later on be recalled and posted to the American divisions.

"It is thought that this mingling of American and British troops would establish a close and cordial feeling between the two armies, and would also give the American troops useful training. If this system is not possible would America find a battalion to replace a British battalion in as many brigades as possible?

"There would be no insuperable difficulty in meeting American wishes in any such matters as discipline, rations and general maintenance. The only difficulty is American national sentiment, which we quite understand. On the other hand, the system suggested is clearly one which would the most rapidly afford much needed help during, perhaps, the most critical period of the war."

Plan Disapproved

I told Mr. House that it would not do at all and gave him my reasons and my opinion as to what the result would be. This was, in fact, a revival of the plan put forward by the Balfour Mission. It never received support from any Americans except a few individuals, including some officers who were disposed to criticize generally the management of our interests in France, and who, for their own ulterior purposes, sought to gain the favorable opinion and receive the acclaim of the Allies. But Mr. House and all other upstanding, loyal Americans were from the start strongly in favor of building up our own army.

About this time, Mr. House told me that Petain had criticised the American ideas of training and also that Louis Loucheur, minister of munitions, had spoken about the rise in prices caused by American purchases. Mr. House wisely suggested to these gentlemen, he said, that matters of this kind were for me to settle.

M. Loucheur

I called without delay on M. Clemenceau and told him of the reports and explained my understanding about training agreements with Petain and also the steps that had previously been taken by the purchasing board, in co-operation with his own bureaus, to prevent the rise in prices.

I also told him that French dealers were largely to blame if prices had risen, as we had eliminated competition among ourselves, and that our purchases were and had been for some time actually handled through French officials.

Petain Apologizes

I objected to these back-door methods of lodging complaints, and emphasized the necessity of frankness and directness in all our dealings. I asked him to give instructions that if there was any fault to find with our methods it should be brought to my personal attention. He entirely agreed with me, and expressed chagrin and surprise that any other course had been followed.

On the face of it, there was no other conclusion, however, than that both complaints were made for the purpose of finding out just the extent of my independent authority.

I took occasion a few days later to let Petain know very politely what I thought of the impropriety of this sort of thing and also criticized him then and there for telling anybody, even Mr. House, as he had done, about the plan to attack the St. Mihiel salient as the first offensive by the American Army. I was pleased with Petain's apology and his statement that there would be no further action of this kind on his part.

As a matter of fact, I think the French erroneously regarded House as a sort of special ambassador, and thought that they could lay the foundation for an approach through him to the question of amalgamation.

Just before his return to the States, House said to me that he entirely agreed with me and that he felt sure the President and the Secretary of War intended to leave the whole question regarding the disposition of our troops to my judgment. Assurance on this point was in no sense necessary, as I had full confidence that this was the case.

Friendship Formed

During his stay in France I formed a high opinion of House's ability. We formed a friendship in the beginning which enabled us to discuss all matters most freely and frankly. Before he left for home he and I arranged for confidential communication by cable should it become necessary to reach Mr. Baker or Mr. Wilson direct.

When Mr. House and Gen. Bliss, who sat in at the second meeting of the Supreme War Council, returned to the United States, Mr. Arthur H. Frazier, First Secretary of our Paris Embassy, was designated to attend the meetings, but merely as an observer and without any voice in the proceedings.

It seemed to me that we should be actually represented and I so recommended, but from a political viewpoint it would have been impracticable for the President to designate anyone and clothe him with the authority held by the Prime Ministers.

Maj. Liggett

Mr. Frazier felt that he was more or less handicapped from lack of knowledge of military affairs, and I therefore recommended the temporary appointment of Maj. Gen. Hunter Liggett as the military representative on the council. Later on Gen. Bliss was named to the position personally, and his selection was very agreeable to me.

Immediately upon my return to headquarters at Chaumont December 7, 1917, Gen. Harbord reported there had been a shortage of turkey and other essentials of a truly American Thanksgiving dinner, and in a facetious manner deplored the heartlessness of a staff at Washington that would so neglect our troops.

Shipped Carelessly

He stated that the shortage was due to these supplies, which had been ordered in September for delivery November 1, being buried under a large cargo that could not be unloaded in time. The following cable was sent as written by Harbord:

"On September 18 supplies for Thanksgiving were ordered. Your cablegram stated mince meat shipped on Montanan. There was no mince meat on Montanan. Mince meat arrived November 26 on Powhatan underneath heavy cargo which it was necessary to discharge before mince meat could be unloaded. Result mince meat aboard ship Thanksgiving Day.

"Sweet potatoes arrived on Dakotan and could not be unloaded until November 22, result some troops did not have sweet potatoes. It was necessary to buy geese to fill requisitions on account of part of turkey not arriving, nothwithstanding the fact that Thanksgiving supplies were ordered to arrive in France November 1."

Although we had treated this matter lightly, I really felt regret that some of our troops had been deprived of a homelike Thanksgiving dinner, and at the same time I was not at all pleased to have further evidence of careless loading of ships.

The difficulties of trans-Atlantic transportation in general made it necessary to limit our demands to those things that could not possibly be obtained abroad within a reasonable time, and every effort was being made toward procurement in Europe. France was responding generously, but her supplies were not inexhaustible.

Negotiate for Supplies

Attention was now turned to the neutral countries of Switzerland and Spain, and also to Portugal. Through negotiations directed by the general purchasing agent it was found that these countries were willing to open up their markets provided the United States make concessions as to financial accommodations in some cases and remove the embargo in others.

The prospects for a time seemed encouraging for obtaining horses, mules, railway ties and other needed supplies, but the numbers and amounts proved to be limited and the quality, especially of the animals, unsatisfactory.

My diary notes the following:

"Chaumont, Sunday, December 16, 1917. Several members of Food Administration lunched with us Friday and gave an impressive account of restrictions at home.

"Gen. Guorko, Russian Army, came yesterday to urge acceptance of their officers in our army, but was told that it is impracticable.

"As surest means of having trained troops in the spring, have cabled request for Regular divisions."

In considering the composition of our expeditionary forces, it was a question whether we ought to organize higher units by using Regular regiments, with a proportionate number of new officers, or utilize the permanent commissioned personnel of the line for equitable assignment to the citizen contingents and leave our Regular organizations to be completed from the relatively raw material at our disposal, and thus build up all categories of the army simultaneously.

New Men Utilized

At this moment training had begun of the first draft, certain assignments from the Regular units had already been made, and a considerable proportion of new personnel had been utilized to fill up the Regular units.

It was my opinion, with which both Bliss and Harbord agreed, that the quickest way to provide sorely needed assistance to the Allies would be to hasten the training of our Regular divisions and send them to France as soon as possible.

I recommended that Regular regiments at Honolulu and elsewhere be relieved for this purpose by National Guard regiments. These Regular troops would more nearly approximate the standards of our Allies at the start, and, more important still, their use would diminish the chances of reverses during our first encounters with the enemy.

Maj.-Gen. Biddle

The acting chief of staff at home, Maj. Gen. John Biddle, agreed with my suggestion, but the widely separated locations of these regiments made their replacement somewhat difficult, and only the 3rd, 4th and 5th Divisions came in time for service in 1918, the 6th and 7th arriving to take part in the fall campaign.

Gen. Petain came for dinner December 16, bringing reports from Italy which were far from encouraging. The opinion was expressed in certain French circles that they should take over the Italian army and reorganize it if there was to be anything effective expected on that front. Another suggestion was that a French chief of staff be appointed for the Italians, and that the President of the United States, as a distinguished friend, should put the proposition forward with the necessary pressure to accomplish it. But, of course, no such change was necessary or even remotely possible.

Incidentally, it was noticeable that the Allies were quick to criticize each other and allege inefficiency, especially in case of reverses. In due time, however, the British and French divisions were returned from Italy to their own hard-pressed fronts, where they, too, suffered disastrous defeats. The Italians might also have said many things about the French and British deficiencies and they probably did so. Before the end of the war the records of the respective armies in the west as to reverses were just about a standoff.

Ranch Foreman, Roosevelt 'Boss,' Dies at 73

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 3.—(AP.)—John W. Goodall, 73, known as the only "boss" Theodore Roosevelt ever had, died yesterday.

Goodall was foreman of the famed Marquis De Mores ranch when the French nobleman made his unsuccessful attempt in the '80's to establish a packing plant in the Northwest.

World Lead Output Gains in December

World lead production in December was 154,440 tons, comparing with 144,525 in November and 152,616 in October, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Production for the year ended December 31 totaled 1,833,881 tons.

Oil Operators Making Real Progress

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE PROGRESS MADE in curtailing oil production and in reducing oil in storage is a distinct step toward the restoration of general business activity. The petroleum industry has been one of the cloudy parts of the business picture. This major phase of activity has been burdened with surplus production for the past five years and with steadily growing inventories. At the close of 1930 oil was one of the few industries which had failed to liquidate stocks and to adjust production to demand.

While it will be possible for us to have good general business without accompanying prosperity for oil, the restoration of a satisfactory rate of activity is not likely to take place if there are several large industries in a state of depression. At present copper, rubber and sugar are in difficulties similar to those of oil. Improvement in any of these industries may be interpreted as the removal of a hurdle in the way of the return of national prosperity.

Oil Stocks Reduced

UNDER NORMAL CONDITIONS the oil industry accumulates stocks of crude petroleum and refined products during the winter when demand is light and reduces them during the summer when demand is at its peak. In view of this the reduction of 6,936,000 barrels in the total of all crude and refined oils in storage during the month of December is particularly significant.

This decrease compares with a drop of 1,488,000 barrels in November and with an increase of 3,458,000 during December, 1929. During the full year of 1930 stocks of all oils were reduced 23,296,000 barrels to a total of 665,870,000 barrels. While this is a decline of only 3.4 per cent for the year, the industry has given evidence that it has its situation in hand and that pro-ration efforts are being met with success.

Too Many Fields

THE PETROLEUM INDUSTRY'S troubles arose from the discovery of too many large producing oil fields within the space of only a few years. While most manufacturing industries automatically adjust their output to consumption, this is only being accomplished in oil at the expense of great effort.

Several of the long established customs of the industry have been responsible for the difficulties in the way of production control. Oil wells are usually drilled on property on which the mineral rights have been leased. These leases usually provide that wells must be drilled within a specified time so that the land owner will not be deprived of his royalties for an indefinite period.

Checkerboard Operations

ANOTHER TROUBLE HAS been due to the fact that few important fields have been under the control of individual companies. The practice has been for large numbers of operators to lease rights in the vicinity of promising test wells. The maps of oil fields usually look like checkerboards. As soon as a well is completed all the companies in the field must drill offset wells. They are all drawing oil from the same pool so that the first wells completed get the most oil.

Oil men are far more optimistic about the future of their business than at any time for several years. The success of pro-ration attempts has been responsible.

FOLLOW PERSHING'S STORY AND WIN CASH!

$3,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES

For Readers of the Sun-Telegraph Who Follow Pershing's Own Story of the War

CAREFULLY READ THESE SIMPLE RULES

RULE 1—With the beginning of the publication of General Pershing's Own Story of the World War, Monday, January 12, 1931, the daily and Sunday Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph inaugurates a Pershing test in which $3,000.00 in cash prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the correct or most nearly correct answers to a set of ten questions pertaining to dates and episodes chronicled in the Pershing narrative. Contestants will also be asked to submit a letter of not more than 200 words to the question "What is the most important episodes chronicled in the Pershing memoirs published in the Sun-Telegraph and why?" This letter will be judged as a part of the Pershing test with the answers to the ten questions. The test questions will be published from time to time during the publication of the story in the Sun-Telegraph and contestants will be allowed ten days to prepare and submit their answers after the last chapter has been printed. The Pershing story will run approximately ten weeks. The exact date of the time limit for submitting answers will be announced later—contingent upon the closing date of the story.

RULE 2—The Pershing test is open to everyone except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families.

RULE 3—A total sum of $3,000.00 in cash will be awarded as prizes—$500.00 to each of six classes or groups as follows:

CLASS NO 1—Grade School Children.

CLASS No. 3—College Students.

CLASS NO. 5—Members of the American Legion and Other Organizations That Include World War Veterans.

CLASS NO. 6—All Other Readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

RULE 4—The prizes in each class will be awarded as follows:

FIRST PRIZE	$200.00
SECOND PRIZE	100.00
THIRD PRIZE	50.00
FOURTH PRIZE	25.00
FIFTH PRIZE	15.00
SIXTH TO TENTH PRIZES (INC.), $10.00 EACH	50.00
ELEVENTH TO TWENTY-SECOND PRIZES (INC.), $5 EACH	60.00
TOTAL	$500.00
132 CASH PRIZES IN ALL, TOTALING	$3,000.00

In case of ties, contestants so tied will be awarded equal prizes

RULE 5—The answers submitted in the Sun-Telegraph Pershing test will be examined by a special board of judges, none of whom will be employes of the Sun-Telegraph. The board of judges will make the awards and their judgment will be final. The sets of answers when submitted become the property of the Sun-Telegraph and will not be returned. All sets of answers submitted must be mailed first class postage prepaid and directed to the Pershing Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. RULE 6—You do not have to buy a daily or Sunday Sun-Telegraph to participate in this contest. There is free access to the files of the Sun-Telegraph at the public libraries or at the publication offices of this newspaper.

a "little" business that grew to be a world leader

This is not the story of any one particular enterprise. It is the composite story of the great majority of world leaders in business—small beginning, gradual growth under able executive guidance, and, eventually, world-wide recognition. But one big factor in their success that is not so apparent, is the solid financial foundation upon which almost every successful business is built—a foundation based almost invariably on a sound banking connection . . . The Mellon National Bank has seen the growth of many depositors from small beginnings to eminent success and national prominence. An account is always welcome at the Mellon National Bank, and the Bank's facilities are available, regardless of size.

Dividend Cuts Are Exceeding the Increases

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

SO FAR this year there has been a somewhat larger number of unfavorable than favorable dividend changes, records compiled by this column show.

A year ago there were 172 enlarged payments during January in 1929 there were 120 and in 1928 111, compared with this year's 117.

But in January of last year there were only 52 unfavorable announcements, while in 1929 there were only 3 and in 1928 only 7, a very different showing from the 134 last month.

All indications are that reductions will continue numerous during the first half of the current year.

IT IS NOTEWORTHY that dividend cuts already announced have seldom hurt the stock prices. Investors have been well warned to expect smaller disbursements. Not only so, but very ample allowance has already been made for many downward revisions in payments. The reception thus far accorded reductions suggests that bears will have to look elsewhere than to lower dividends for assistance in depressing stock quotations. As a matter of fact, a goodly number of dividends which Wall Street expects to be reduced are likely to be maintained. Toward the end of the year stock traders talked as if no dividend in the whole country was safe. That, of course, was ridiculous. Already the bears have received several jolts from boards of directors who refused to be stampeded into taking unnecessary unfavorable action.

UTILITIES MADE the best showing last month. They provided 15 encouraging declarations against 13 a year ago, and there were only 5 reductions, compared with 3 a year ago.

Railroads have not not done equally well. January brought only 2 increases, whereas they announced 8 a year ago. A concerted effort is planned by railway managers to arouse the public to the vital necessity for inceasing to whittle rates, and for more considerate treatment at the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission and state regulatory bodies.

JANUARY comparisons for the last four years are brought out in the following tables:

JANUARY LAST year still maintained a great increase in favorable announcements over previous years. With the beginning of February, however, cheerful dividend action began to fall off and each succeeding month fell behind that of the previous year. And with the decrease in favorable action came an increase in unfavorable announcements, as shown in the following tables:

REVIVAL HALTED BY SEASONAL FACTORS

Promise of Outdoor Work In 6 Weeks Will Speed Forces of Recuperation

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

United News Staff.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Seasonal factors will tend to operate against any clear cut economic recovery for another six weeks, and then the promise of outdoor work will accelerate the forces of recuperation.

Mr. Rukeyser

The most effective influence for economic revival is the steady habit of consumption, which has been gradually depleting stocks on hand and creating shortages. In a quiet, cautious way there has been some disposition on the part of merchants to build up inventories, and this is reflected statistically in an increase in merchandise freight car loadings. That change and a forward movement in the barometric steel industry, whose rate of rising activity has lately been checked somewhat, are the chief early harbingers which indicate that perhaps the dead center of the depression has been passed.

GAINS IRREGULAR

Somewhat more cheerful sentiment depends more on what important financiers believe they see ahead than on immediate tangible developments.

Are we overequipped industrially? Not in normal times if the standard of living is to be maintained.

Even equipment is perpetually wearing out or growing old-fashioned. Thus there is nothing in the superstition that there isn't enough potential work to go around.

For example, a survey into machine tools, conducted by the American Machinist, reveals that 48 per cent of the machine tools in metal-working plants is more than 10 years old, and is obsolete, and could be profitably replaced by the radically improved designs developed in the last decade.

REBUILDING SEEN

The process of scrapping and rebuilding will go on as confidence is restored, and will be encouraged by cheap interest rates and a good, absorptive bond market, which appears to be developing, despite the recent flurry over the bonus.

In connection with the ruthless and inconsiderable discharge of employes of brokers during the slump, it is noteworthy that the leading banking house in the country has not pursued this policy. Though it has abstained from taking on new employes, it kept at least 150 minor employes on the payroll who could have been dispensed with—from a narrowly selfish standpoint.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

National Steel Corporation showed net earnings after all charges and Federal tax of $8,615,997, or $4.03 a share on the average stock outstanding during 1930, the first full year of its existence, according to a preliminary report. These earnings were more than double the $2 annual dividend rate and were equivalent to $4.01 a share on the number of capital shares outstanding at the end of the year.

Hudson Motor Car Company reports for year ended December 31, 1930, net income of only $324,606, after expenses and depreciation, equal to 20 cents a share on 1,596,660 shares. This figure does not include $2,266,333 special adjustment of accumulated unamortized balance of tools and materials due to development of new models which was charged directly against surplus. In 1930 the company reported net income of $11,594,854, after depreciation and federal taxes, equal to $7.26 a share on a like number of shares.

International Safety Razor reports 1930 net profit of $454,877, equal to $2.60 a share on the combined "A" and "B" issues, against $504,997, or $2.88 a share in 1929.

McCall Corporation and subsidiaries report, for year ended December 31, 1930, net profit of $2,018,743, after depreciation, taxes, etc., against $2,173,886 in 1929. Year 1930 profit equals $3.49 a share on 579,204 shares against $3.76 on 578,258 shares in 1929.

Mead Johnson and Company net for 1930 was about $1,670,000, after charges and taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $9.40 a share on 165,000 common shares against profit for 1929 of $1,278,473, or $7.03 a common share.

Selected Industries, Inc. in 1930 reports net income before adjustment of investment value of $2,246,309, after expenses, state taxes, etc., and after deducting $173,392 loss on sale of securities sold.

WALL STREET HEARS

That the public rather than the professional traders comprise most of the short interest in the stock market at present.

STOCK MARKET TRADING DULL, NARROW

Drying Up of Liquidation In Government Bonds Encouraging Development

An encouraging development was the drying up of liquidation of the U. S. government obligations in the bond division, but that was not sufficiently inspiring to budge the inert share market. Further earnings reports of 1930 was decidedly devitalizing.

The pivotal stocks fluctuated within fractional ranges. There were a few special upward movements here and there, largely reflecting covering by discouraged shorts, or experimental efforts by impatient pools.

Hudson Motor declined on publication of its 1930 statement, showing net of only 20 cents a share, which failed to include a large charge-off for development, taken directly from surplus. The stock recorded a low record for the present shares. The motor trade, however, expects gradual improvement this month. Output may reach about 220,000 units, against about 175,000 in January.

Frisco and Rock Island reflected apprehension over the dividends which are scheduled for consideration at the directors' meetings tomorrow. Frisco earned little more than half the current annual dividend in 1930, and Rock Island a little less than two-thirds.

United States Industrial Alcohol was sold in expectation of an unfavorable earnings statement, in view of the sharp reduction in alcohol prices. The stock was at the lowest price since 1925.

While it has been argued that the 1930 earnings statement represent "water over the dam," the stock market seems inclined to the view that they at least show the distance to be covered before corporate profits are back to a level in reasonable balance with present capitalization. Industrial recovery thus far in the new year has been of merely a seasonal character.

The condition statement of weekly reporting member banks showed a further reduction of $46,000,000 in loans on securities, indicating a deflation for January of about $500,000,000. Other, or commercial, loans sagged $40,000,000. On the other hand, the January commercial insolvency record was distinctly unfavorable, showing an even larger gain than normal for the first month of the year. Credit conditions remained stationary.

United Engineering 1930 Earnings Up

United Engineering & Founday Company, which will issue its annual report to stockholders about the middle of February, will show net earnings for 1930 of approximately $2,000,000, it is understood, which will compare with actual net for 1929 of $1,671,837.

Net profit for 1929 was equal to $3.75 per share on 416,118 shares of common, after allowing for dividends on 15,749 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock, $100 par value, outstanding.

Not only were earnings higher in 1930, but net applicable to the common stock will be greater since, during the last year, the company retired approximately 3,000 shares of the preferred stock.

Daily Average Oil Production Lower

TIGER HEART

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Connie Calvert shares her home and fortune with her half-sister, Kitty, whom she found destitute in New York's underworld. Kitty falls in love with Jim Tracy, Connie's former fiance. Believing Jim to be a fortune-hunter, Connie, to save Kitty, enlists the aid of Duke Garson, Kitty's friend and underworld intelligence man. He warns Connie that her butler is a crook and that her mother should guard her pearls. Later, Duke is about to declare his love for Connie when Jim appears. He claims he was held up and is afraid to go home. Connie invites him to stay. Duke doubts Jim's story. That night, Mrs. Calvert's pearls are stolen. Duke questions the maid about them. The maid doubts Kitty's honesty. Mrs. Calvert becomes ill after the excitement. Duke accuses Jim of lying about being held up. Jim says he lied because he did not trust Duke and wanted to get back to the Calvert home. Connie tells her mother that she is not sure whether she loves Duke. Duke seeks the butler's aid to solve the robbery mystery. The butler suspects the maid.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER L.

Kitty's remark that she was jealous of Mary Smith was in the tempo of a joke, but, strangely, no one laughed. Tracy himself grinned wryly.

"That's not particularly funny, dear," he said, reprovingly.

Evening was deepening with dark, cool-like shadows under the trees on the lawn. Connie was conscious of vague, restless stirrings in her breast. The four of them were together, held, mechanically, in a group; instinct, however, prompted them to divide into couples, yet, even in this small matter, there was the social obligation to pretend the urge was necessary.

Duke Pleases Connie

How much easier, Connie thought, it would have been if she could have told Kitty and Jim outright to go off some place by themselves and leave her with Duke Garson. But such frankness lacked too much courtesy; presently, a decent excuse would present itself; if not, the evening would be artificially lost.

It developed, however, that the evening was not entirely lost. Jim Tracy saw to that. His suggestion was that they all drive in to the movies at Stamford. With Kitty, he suggested, he would drive his own car, and Connie and Garson could follow in Connie's roadster.

In almost no time Duke and Connie were alone, with the tail light of Tracy's car vanishing down the drive.

"I don't feel at all like the movies, but we might as well follow them," Connie said. "Come around to the garage with me and we'll bring the car out."

Walking beside her on the gravel, Garson held her arm above the elbow with his hand; an intimacy of pressure, their inequality of steps, brought them close together; a surge of comfort, of pleasure, invaded Connie. No other man had made her feel that way; why had she stopped caring for Jim Tracy—or had she ever cared?

She wanted to understand this sharp gladness in the presence of Duke Garson, yet, there was no answer to her inner query. Her mental searching ended in futility, and she was content to put aside all self-questioning and absorb the sheer joy of the present.

Says He Will Leave

She shifted into neutral and applied the brake. "I want to be the passenger," she said, and

"Do you drive?" she asked him, suddenly.

"Yes, I do."

"I'm not sure of the road into town," he told her, but that, she assured him, didn't matter.

To this Connie was silent. When Garson came to a break in the stone wall that led to the brow of an isolated hill overlooking the dusky black of a far stretching valley, he deliberately turned the wheel of the car and left the road, with its occasional traffic, for the dim seclusion that would free them from the rest of humanity in a concealing world of their own. Connie felt her heart beat hard with the daring of it.

All self-interest passed out of her and her attention was centered exclusively on Garson. He relaxed, lit a cigaret, and she felt that every instinct, every nerve, was turned toward her. A cloud of smoke came from his mouth, dimly visible, and he gazed into it.

"What do you see in that smoke?" she asked.

"You," he replied.

"You don't have to look into the smoke to see me," she said, softly.

"I had better get used to seeing you in smoke—because you won't be here beside me after tomorrow," he said, moodily. "I'll have to go back to New York. When I'm gone, I'll miss you terribly."

A New Thrill

"I wonder at you for living in New York—in such a locality," she murmured. "Still, I know so little about you; you know all about me, who I am and where I come from and how I live. You're not a stranger to me—you're as real as flesh and blood can be—but there's a curtain behind you that I can't penetrate."

Her voice reflected a puzzled concern.

"I am, practically, without relatives," he told her. "Fortunately—or unfortunately—I've been spared the necessity of working for a living. What I have is from my mother's estate. They were Baltimore people, my mother and father. I was brought up very strictly. My father was in the Navy and he had a strong idea of discipline. The trouble was, he drove me in the opposite direction. I happened to run across a professor of psychology at Princeton, who set me thinking, and I left in my junior year."

"I had a feeling that I belonged more to Tenth avenue than to your locality, for example," he returned. "I've always been much more interested in watching other people live than in living myself, if you can understand that. Tenth avenue has been a panorama for me, the whole history repeated and staged in the revelation existing before my eyes—those girls and men—the nakedness of their feeling, the violence of their creed and passion, their danger and, inevitably, their sacrifice, thrilled me. It was all so different from respectability—so unglossed."

"And does it still thrill you?"

"It still thrills me and always will; but there's a new thrill in my life now—a thrill, and somehow, frightening. It's you."

DAILY TRUE STORY

Erudite

"Yes," admitted Prof. Egmont Moore, "she is very pretty."

Mrs. Layland stared impatiently at her brother.

They were discussing Martha Severance.

Now, six years added to two children of two and four, and to a young maiden of 14 make a very great difference.

Prof. Moore had noticed the difference, to a certain degree. That is, he noticed and commented on the growth of Willie, his nephew, and May, his niece. He had also commented on the fact that Martha Severance had changed from just a school girl to "quite a young lady."

His sister, mother of the children and next door neighbor of Martha, had said, "Quite a young lady? She IS a young lady, a wonderful and beautiful young lady, and I can only hope that when you get enough sense and gumption to marry, you will find a young lady equal to Martha."

"Let me see," Prof. Moore had said, dryly, eyeing his sister, "when I was here six years ago you tried to marry me off to that Jaxon girl."

His sister tried to brazen it out. "Never thought of matchmaking. I merely remarked that Martha was a beautiful girl."

"You said that of the Jaxon girl. Look here, Sis, I'm on for a little rest. I am amazed and delighted to see how strong and healthy and amazingly fast Willie and May have grown. I was rather surprised to see Martha all grown up. I have admitted that she is very pretty—now suppose we forget about it."

"You do provoke me so, Egmont. I haven't the least intention or thought or desire in the matter. It is immaterial whom you marry—"

Argues With Sister

"Not to me."

"I mean that I am not at all interested. I do not care whether you marry Martha or no one—but she would certainly make you a wonderful wife."

"What?"

"Erudite—deeply learned, you know."

"Oh, is that so? You may have a little book learning, Egmont, but Martha Severance has more general learning in her finger tips than you have all over!"

Prof. Egmont Moore put his arm about his sister's waist and led her out on the veranda to meet her husband.

"Bill," said the professor, "the one thing lacking to make it seem like old times has been restored—my sister has started to quarrel with me!"

"There's erudition for you! Listen to his king's English, will you? Isn't that perfection?"

They went inside, Celia to see the maid about dinner, her husband and brother to the little den to see about an appetizer.

"I'm ahead of you, Monty," Bill Layland said as he added the mineral water. "Celia's trying to marry you off to Martha."

Prof. Egmont nodded and grinned.

"I didn't suspect it at first, until she denied it so much—why the devil do sisters try to marry a chap off all the time?"

"You tell me, Monty, you're a college president now, and know everything—but let's not wait for the answer to that one before we try this!"

Prof. Egmont Moore gave proof of being decidedly human and "regular" when, as he lifted his glass, he quoted that old classic—"Down the hatch!"

Professor Angry

Not so long after this, on Thursday, Celia had to run into the city, and her brother agreed to look after his little nephew and niece. Egmont went out to the cool lawn bower with some books. It would be an enjoyable afternoon, he thought.

Little Willie and May came along and played in the grass. A bird hopped on a syringia branch and began singing.

"Oh, the trees and flowers and green grass."

"What makes the grass green?"

"Huh?"

"What ruffles the water?" It was little May this time. She had been sailing a leaf in the lily pool.

"The wind, my dear."

"From various quarters."

"But who blows the wind?"

"Why—er—let's say that God does it."

"Humph! Is 'at all God's got to do, blow winds all day?" demanded Willie.

There was a faint chuckle from the other side of the hedge, but the professor was too rattled to hear it or suspect the near presence of Martha.

"What's the fastest thing?"

"Light."

"Why can't we ride on light an' go fast?"

"We would burn to death, there is no cold light."

"What makes it hot?"

"Combustion."

"Who is he?"

Uncle Egmont Moore was perspiring freely and nervously. But later, after there had been inquiries as to where the hole went when you threw a rock into water, why it didn't snow in the summer to make it cooler, what good mosquitoes were and why hens didn't lay a week's supply of eggs at once so they could have a vacation, Prof. Egmont gave up in despair and walked the children to the drug store for ice cream cones.

The very next day, with all this fresh in his memory, Prof. Moore came up the back way from a hike and heard voices back of the lilac bushes.

They were asking her questions. He grinned maliciously and listened.

"Why are some flowers red and some yeller?" May asked.

"God made them that way so people who like yellow better than red could enjoy them," Martha explained gravely.

"What good are mosquitoes?" Willie asked.

"They are food for nightingales and other night birds that sing to us so beautifully," Martha explained.

"Uncle Egmont said light was the fastest thing. Is 'at so?"

"He said he couldn't ride on light 'cause it would burn us up and there isn't any cold light."

Proposal Accepted

"If fireflies were large enough we could ride on them, they have a cold light."

"Why is their light cold?"

The professor grinned maliciously here, for this was what scientists have long wanted to know.

"So they won't burn the little fairies who play with them out in the flower beds at night," Martha answered.

"For Pete's sake, how did you do it?"

"I didn't, honestly, and it's a mystery to me. Can you imagine what he told me? He said she was not only beautiful, but erudite!"

"But I don't understand; he told me she wasn't erudite, which was why he objected to her."

So were Egmont and Martha.

OH, MRS. B. --- IT'S ABOUT DAGWOOD I WANT TO TALK TO YOU ..... HONESTLY, I DON'T KNOW WHERE TO BEGIN ---
I NOTICE HE'S VERY QUARRELSOME AND DISAGREEABLE LATELY
BEING PRESIDENT OF A RAILROAD HAS GONE TO HIS HEAD --- HE'S LOST HIS SWEET SMILE AND GROWLS AT EVERYONE LIKE A ROARING LI-YUN
THAT'S THE TRUTH -- HE RANTS AND ROARS LIKE A MADMAN -- SLAMS THINGS ---- THE CONCEITED IDIOT HAS GONE COO-COO
THAT'S EXACTLY RIGHT,

Famous Paintings From Famous Galleries

All potential tenors should try chloroform.

Goings On in the Higher Realms of Human Endeavor

In order to combat the Sinclair Lewis influence in this country, Professor Dulcet D. Cloverfield has called a conference of professors of English literature to meet with him in the Pollyanna room of the Hotel Saccharine in Pleasant Valley, S. D., next week. Professor Cloverfield will propose a nationwide campaign for local legislation requiring that all garbage cans be labeled, "ATTAR OF ROSES."

Voting Machine Decision

Opportunity Is Now Open to Procure Devices That Will Satisfy All Requirements.

The Supreme Court's decision nullifying the contract for voting machines awarded by Allegheny County to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company reflects discredit on the county commissioners' business methods.

It will give satisfaction to citizens who felt the county was not properly protected in a deal involving more than $1,000,000 of the taxpayers' money.

The way is now open to make a new contract in which the objections raised to the original procedure can be avoided and a machine obtained that will satisfy all requirements.

It is up to the county commissioners to profit not only by the mistakes they have made, but also by the errors committed by the commissioners of other counties whose voting machine contracts have been challenged in the courts.

The manufacturers of the machines can also profit by their mistakes.

New P. & W. Va. Link

Short Cut to Baltimore Suggests that Pittsburgh Also Needs Short Cut to New York.

After two years of work the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad's 38-mile extension from Cochran Mills to a connection with the Western Maryland at Connellsville has been completed and will be placed in service next week.

The $15,000,000 enterprise is notable as the largest job of new railroad building in the Eastern states in many years.

It is to be hoped that it will soon be surpassed by a still larger job—the 283-mile road that L. F. Loree desires to build from Etna to Easton at a cost of $177,000,000.

The new P. & W. Va. link gives a short cut to Baltimore. The Loree line would give a short cut to New York, and Pittsburgh needs it even more than the other road.

Pymatuning Project

Increasing Demand for Waterway Transportation Should Give Impetus to the Enterprise.

Senator George T. Weingarden, of New Castle, plans to introduce a bill appropriating $1,500,000 for the construction of a dam which will turn Pymatuning Swamp into a lake.

The state has been acquiring land for the lake for a good many years. Now is a good time to speed up the enterprise.

There is an additional incentive in the increasing demand for waterway transportation. The people of the Shenango and Beaver rivers have made up their minds to utilize the streams for the transportation of part of the huge tonnage turned out by the mills in those valleys. They are calling for the canalization of the rivers.

The proposed Pymatuning lake will help the undertaking by providing water for the rivers in times of drought.

Lurking Dangers

Young, pretty, looking for a job—have you any idea of the cruel, sordid truth that so often lurks behind that situation? Read Alma Rubens' story of her life, chapter by chapter, word for word, and see if it does not shake you from your smug self-contentment.

Plain, bare, cruel statements of the plain, bare, cruel facts which thousands of good, innocent, carefully brought up young girls must face and do face every day when they leave the safe shelter of home to go out into the hectic world, of what we call life in these strange disconcerting times of ours.

When you have read that story take off your hat in the presence of honest, hard working girls, who live through these battles and come out—all honor to them, unscarred and unscathed.

Indignation Aroused

Bill Introduced in New York Legislature Has Commendable Purpose of Purifying Stage.

To clean up the stage and keep it clean is the laudable purpose of legislation recently proposed in the New York State Legislature.

By the terms of the carefully drafted bill which Senator Mastick, of Westchester, has introduced, all dramatic and musical productions would be subjected to the same wholesome supervision by the state that now keeps motion pictures clean, or at least cleaner.

The Mastick bill would add a theatrical and stage division to the Department of Education, give it supervision over all "theatrical reviews, plays and other dramatic or musical productions, exclusive of motion pictures," and authority to scrutinize all productions before their public exhibition.

Reputable theater managers have failed to rescue the stage from the low level of degeneracy to which it has been dragged by the dollar-greedy members of the dramatic profession.

Reputable theater managers have refused to heed the warning of Cardinal Hayes and Bishop Manning, or of the Hearst newspapers and of other representatives of the press and of the pulpit that were only speaking for sound morals and public decency in demanding the clean-up of the stage.

Instead of getting cleaner the stage has been getting dirtier. The indecencies and obscenities of more than one recent production have not only exhausted public patience but aroused and organized public indignation.

As a natural and creditable result the public has finally made up its mind to end this intolerable nuisance by subjecting all theatrical and musical productions to the supervision of a public agency.

The Worm and the Apple -:- By Nelson Harding

And when, beneath the tree,
The hungry sufferers await Relief from misery.

There comes a pest endangering
The help for those in need,
And it will spoil the needed fruit,
If suffered to succeed.

Marry-Go-Round

Mrs. Solomon Says—

How long, oh thou Simple One, wilt thou continue to seek vainly for a man who is "different."

* * *

* * *

Behold, one man's words are as elusive as another's; one man's promises as brittle as another's; one man's memory is as short as another's; one man's line is as smooth as another's; one man's chin as rough as another's, and one man's kiss as disappointing as another's.

* * *

Hearken then, unto me, for I have known many men, in many lands, and in many moods—yet only these have I found:

Those who play the caveman, and those who play the platonic friend; but the play endeth always in the same old love-scene.

* * *

Those who suspect that every woman is in love with them—and those who are SURE of it.

* * *

Those who pursue women—and those who know how to make women pursue THEM.

* * *

Those who will promise a woman anything—and those who are more cautious than a lawyer and more non-committal than a doctor.

* * *

* * *

Those who talk of mental companionship—and those who kiss a damsel without this waste of time.

* * *

* * *

Those who tell thee how wonderful thou art—and tho'e who tell thee how wonderful THEY are.

Those who think themselves irresistible—and those who know it.

* * *

Those who need mothering—and those who need bullying; but all of them require watching.

* * *

Those who try to kiss a damsel at the first opportunity, those who keep her guessing, and those who fool her and never try at all.

* * *

Those whom thou shouldst marry, those whom thou desirest to marry, and those whom thou CANST marry.

* * *

And whichsoever of these thou drawest, my Beloved, thou shalt wish thou hadst drawn the OTHER kind.

WORLD'S GREATEST MYSTERY

By Archibald Henderson

Of all the problems and mysteries which obsess the mind of man, the deepest and most intriguing is that of life. Everyone has some notion, clear or vague as the case may be, of life—what it is and what are its main characteristics. Yet few stop to clarify their thoughts on the subject, and to set down in specific terms the differentiating qualities of life. This is one of the initial attempts lucidly set forth in the impressive new work, "The Science of Life."

It should be noted, first of all, that life connotes movement. Living things move about. They may move or stir with great speed or with extreme slowness. They may long remain quiescent, apparently dormant. Yet sooner or later they will move in response to some mysterious, inner urge or impulse. This quality it is which distinguishes animate from inanimate things. And yet Einstein, Rutherford and Bohr have accustomed us to the notion that everything moves. Nothing is at rest, nothing is static. Inanimate objects, however, are usually driven by outside impulses, forces, pressures, currents. With inanimate objects, however, the driving force is within. Life is an automotive force, with a dynamo the secret of whose mechanism has not been as yet fully understood.

In the second place, life is not only self-moving—it is self-feeding. It consumes (absorbs into itself) matter from without. The matter thus taken up is subject to chemical changes; and as a result of these transformations energy for movement is acquired. This is the meaning of the term which ordinarily drives us to the dictionary — metabolism. Many inanimate objects grow, enlarge, take on greater volume and mass in the course of time. But this growth takes place by accretion—the adding on of external particles or atoms, without alteration of chemical nature or release of energy. Metabolism and spontaneous movement are cited as the primary characteristics of living things.

There is another characteristic associated with life which must not be overlooked. So far as science has been able to determine, life arises always and only from preceding life. The notion of "spontaneous generation" is now satisfactorily exploded. The fundamental doctrine of biology may be stated in a Latin phrase: omne vivum ex vivo.

This has been succinctly stated in "The Science of Life." Life presents itself as a multitude of individuals, which have been produced by division or the detachment of parts from other individuals and most of which will in their time give rise to another generation. This existence in the form of distinct individuals which directly or indirectly reproduce their kind by a sort of inherent necessity is a third distinction between living and non-living things.

Waves in water or wind-ripples in sand may be said to reproduce themselves, but not by a detachment and growth of their own substance; drops of oil or water grow and break up under suitable conditions, but not through any innate disposition to do so. Living things display an impulse to reproduce themselves even in adverse circumstances.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

We fail Life.

We are always seeking chances to escape.

We are always binding ourselves with shackles.

Lies before you.
Those adventures may be yours—
But you must pay a price for them.

Anything that lives must pay a price for living.
Even the turnip, painfully forcing its tiny shoots and roots
And you, the greatest animal,
Must pay the highest price of all.
You can have almost anything you want out of life—
You can have riches—
And power and wisdom—
And happiness and beauty
And popularity and adventure—
And the greatest gift of all—love—
But the price isn't money—
If these things could be bought with money we'd all have them—
The price is something that's far harder to get or give than money.—
The price is a part of yourself—
A hindering part of yourself.
If you want the fullness and beauty of life—
You must pay for it by the sacrifice
Of your own laziness or impatience—
Your own cowardice or conceit—
But Life isn't holding you back—
These are the things that are holding you—
Stop and think—
Think honestly, with all the courage you possess—

Think of the luck you didn't have—
Why didn't you have it?
Was it someone else's fault that you didn't have it?
Did Life keep it from you?
Or did you, yourself, keep it from you?
Luck and opportunity were there for you to have.
As they're for every man to have—
At a price—
But when it came right down to making the bargain—
Were you willing to pay the price?
Life doesn't fail us;
We fail Life.

(Copyright, 1931, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

Every man believes in law and order—as long as he can lay down the law and give the orders.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Reality

I do not ask for joy,
Nor do I seek release
From any bondage of life
In luxury and peace.

Strength comes to him alone
Who toils through all his days,
And only coward hearts entreat
The boon of flower-strewn ways.

The sluggish river sleeps.
Life brightest burns for him who knows
Not only heights but deeps.

I do not ask to go
From common hardships free;
But this the dower I must have,
Life's stark reality!

Text For Today

And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart.—Jeremiah, xxix:13.

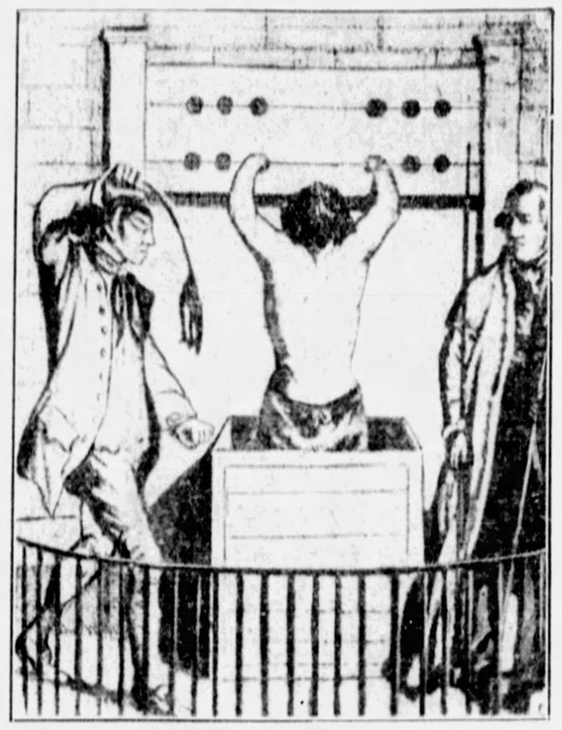
Some Will Tell You "1631."



DO WE WANT THIS?
Whipping a Criminal in England in the Seventeenth Century—From an Old Print.

Do we need it?
Can a completely civilized State adopt it?
The answer to all three questions is "NO, CERTAINLY NOT."

Thus it is strange, in the year 1931, to hear the Kings County Grand Jury, in New York, recommending the revival of this relic of the dark ages as a cure for crime.

It is strange, but it is also significant. It illustrates the total failure of many enlightened Americans to understand their crime problem, and to advance an effective solution for it.

The way to do NEITHER of these things is to impose degrading punishments, on the theory that punishment deters people from committing crimes.

HARDENED offenders should be confined, and segregated from society.

JUVENILE offenders should be separated from hardened offenders, given a chance to reform, and paroled under proper supervision as speedily as possible.

POTENTIAL offenders—those young people who grow up in the atmosphere of the slum and the gang—should be educated and aided in every possible way to set them on the road to good citizenship and right living.

The whipping post won't do that. The school will do that.

The whipping post is a survival of days when torture was legal, when burning at the stake was fashionable, when a man or woman or child could be hanged for stealing a loaf of bread.

The school, the playground, the church and the home are the hope of a better and more civilized era. They are the foundation stones of the social structure. They are the only foundations on which an enduring society can be built.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Greenwich Village is almost completely shorn of its Bohemianism these days. What there is left is faked for the tourist. Ornate new apartment buildings with their uptown prices have forced out the shiftless and romantic dreamers.

The smocked and sandaled veterans have settled in the various "artistic colonies" springing up in suburbs. Village "types" today are mostly commercial conscious schemers with press agents. They have an eye for "a week at the Palace" instead of the deathless canvas.

In its haloed past every tumbledown brick and frame building hived its quota of unconventionals who mocked the marriage vow. Ladies in Grecian robes and bandeaux sat cross legged on the floor in the candle light ballyhooing a new ism. Pseudo intellectuals with long hair led lost causes.

Life was dangerously experimental. Each attic was an open house to which drifted the gleaners, hoping for a free round of gin. Now and then an all-night party would end in tragedy as when the gifted Hans Stengel left his guests suddenly to hang himself in a closet one dawn.

It is remarkable that many came out of the Village unscratched. A few talented, of course, were seared by its slothful mark, but it is surprising how many were able in time to see the utter futility of such an easy going life and break away.

Novelists of distinction had their brief fling in the shadows of Washington Arch—Sinclair Lewis, Theodore Dreiser, Hendrik Van Loon, Willard Huntington Wright, Harris Merton Lyon and O. Henry. Also such artists as Robert Henri, Bob Chanler, Rose O'Neil and others.

Perhaps there are a half dozen blocks where the ancient Village peeps through but generally speaking when the go-getter moved in the dreamer moved out. The alley theater, the Cubistic cellar and Futuristic garret are, too, a fading memory.

Corduroy is in circulation again. Smart hunters are clad in it and polo pants and riding breeches are of the same material. Colors are the conventional brown and gray. Amelia Earhart has an aviation costume in the latter tone.

* * *

Many look upon corduroy as material to attire the stable groom or the ditch digger, yet it has an illustrious past. It was the favorite cloth of the reckless Louis of France. He wore corde du roi for the hunt and it became the reigning texture for European kings. The King of Spain, as of February 1st, uses corduroy for traveling suit instead of tweeds.

* * *

"Honestly now," inquires "Philo of Pittsburgh," "what would most of you columnists do if suddenly deprived of jobs? How, for instance, would you set about to make a living?"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

When you have some friends in your car you may desire to show them what power and speed the "old boat" has.

You want them to think that you are better than the ordinary driver, and you take chances in an effort to show off.

It matters not how good your driving or how many years you have owned and operated a car without accident, those who ride with you know that there is always a first time and won't want to be with you then.

They want to feel that the car is not likely to get beyond the control of the driver, and that it can be stopped about as soon as general traffic.
